A BATTLE WITH DEATH

The Eventful Voyage of the Steamship India.

FOUR OF HER BOW PLATES STOVE IN

There Being Danger That the Ship Would Sink the Crew Refused to Work Unless the Captain Altered His Course—He Put in at Bermuda, Where Repairs Were Made.

New York, Feb. 4.—Seldom is the commander of a passenger-carrying steamship confronted with such varied experiences on a single voyage as that which befell Captain Tait of the British steamship India, during the trip across the Atlantic, which has just ended with her arrival in this port. Death, impending shipwreck, constant battling with the elements, panic among the 454 stowage passengers, and last but not least, mutiny on the part of the crew, were the features of the voyage.

The India sailed from Leghorn for this port Dec. 17, passing "The Rock" Jan. 6. Some difficulty had been experienced in securing a competent crew, as it was known that the India had been "patched up," and sailormen did not regard her as a seaworthy steamer.

This impression pervaded the fo'castle when the India started westward, and was intensified on the 18th, when a terrific westerly gale struck the broadside of the steamer, careening her to port and swinging her around as though she were a pine chip tossed on the broad Atlantic. Big waves boarded her at all times.

One gigantic wall of blue water rolled against the starboard bow, and in a jiffy stove in four of the bow plates, making a hole big enough to drive a horse and cart into.

The shock caused the vessel to recoil. There was serious danger that she would sink. The crew, as well as the 454 stowage passengers, were for a time panic-stricken.

When another big wave washed aboard and tore away the lifeboat the frightened people began to realize that their only safety lay in saving the ship, and all hands, including some of the passengers, then went to work to stop up the big hole in the bow. It was a mighty job, as every wave which came aboard washed partly through this aperture.

The vessel was then about 250 miles south of Bermuda, and the crew took it upon themselves to wait upon the captain and demand that he put into some convenient port.

All hands came aft when the demand was made. Captain Tait received the men kindly, told them that in acting for his own interests he was acting for them, and, while he refused to alter his course, he partly reassured the men, and they went forward to work.

The ship was saved from going down by the ingenuity of the chief engineer, who built a wooden bulkhead astern of the stern, thus constructing a water-tight compartment and confining the seas, which rushed aboard, to the forward part of the vessel.

On the morning of the 21st the gale in the mean time having increased in fury, the vessel began showing signs which indicated her unseaworthiness. The crew again went aft and crowded into the captain's cabin. They plainly told him that he must put into some port, as the vessel was liable to go down.

He finally consented, and that afternoon bore down for Bermuda, arriving there Jan. 24. There the naval and local board of steamship inspectors pronounced the vessel unseaworthy and she was not again permitted to sail until she was thoroughly repaired.

Guarding Blaine's Body. WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Since the interment of Mr. Blaine's body at Oak Hill Cemetery the vandals and curiosity-seekers have turned out in such force that it has been necessary to place a guard at the grave in order to prevent its being stripped of the flowers placed upon it. Women are the chief offenders and several have been detected in an effort to leave the cemetery with the flowers. They had them concealed under their wraps.

Murdered Because He Possessed Evidence. Rome, Feb. 4.—It is said that the murder of Signor Notarbartolo on a railway train near Aetavilla was part of a plot to suppress evidence concerning the bank scandals. Notarbartolo was long a director of the Bank of Sicily, and as such got possession of many documents incriminating persons of high influence. These documents were in his pocket when he was killed, but are now missing.

Little Chance for Pimley's Recovery. BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Jacob Pimley, the race-track man, who was shot by his alleged wife, Lottie Howard Pimley, who afterward killed herself, is still alive. His condition, however, is very dangerous, and his doctors at the Stoney Brook hospital, where he now lies, think there is little chance of his recovery.

New York Politician Dead of Typhus. NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Policeman Patrick Kennedy, attached to the Bellevue Hospital squad in dead of typhus fever. Kennedy was 58 years old. He lived at No. 493 Third avenue, was appointed on the police force May 4, 1872, and detailed to Bellevue Hospital squad in April, 1880.

Mother and Child Burned to Death. SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Margaret Thurburgh, aged 33, and her 5-year-old daughter Josephine were fatally burned here last evening, the child dying within a few minutes, and the mother receiving injuries which caused death before midnight.

Death from a Coasting Accident.

Boston, Feb. 4.—Eighteen persons were coasting in Belmont during the evening when the double rower fell, the rowers and crashed into a pole. Jennie O'Connor, aged 19, sustained a compound fracture of the jaw and injuries which resulted in her death. The injured are: Gertrude Snow, 16; Richard Cartwright, 5; Joseph Ross, Willie Collins and George Cartwright.

CHILDHOOD AND OLD AGE.

The Tender Grandchild and a Well-to-do Old Gentleman of 75, Acknowledge Obligations.

The preparation that can be taken with safety and benefit by the tender infant, and that nourishes, strengthens, and cures the aged and infirm, is one that can truly be called scientific. Such a preparation was discovered by Dr. David Kennedy and named Favorite Remedy. It is prescribed and recommended the world over, by the medical profession, as the best medicine produced for the cure of all diseases arising from an impure condition of the blood.

This beautiful child whose picture is shown here, is the grandchild of Mr. J. E. Palmater of Athens, N. Y., who had been cured of gravel in the kidneys and insomnia, (sleeplessness) finishes his letter by saying: "But this is not all Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has done for our family; she was a mass of running sores from her ears around the entire back to her feet. My wife gave her Favorite Remedy in small doses, and what was the result? Today the sores have all disappeared, the skin is smooth and clear, and she is fat and rugged and as bright as a silver dollar."

Mr. Solomon Davis of North Corinth, N. Y., finds himself at 72 years, suffering from neuritis, felt tired all the time, weak, and a good poor appetite, and no ambition. Thought at his age nothing could do him any good, but like hundreds of other people in his condition tried Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and began to get better at once, and now feels as hale and hearty as he ever did.

It is particularly pleasing when sickness is as common as cold, to know that there is a remedy that cures disease, builds up the weak and debilitated, strengthens the nerves, and has restored to health and strength, men and women who have been confined to their homes for months on beds of sickness.

KEPT FROM HER CHIEF

Miss Brightman Locked Up at Rockville Centre.

SHE LOVES THE MEDICINE MAN.

How the Empeachment of the Girl and the Indian was Frustrated—Believed That Miss Brightman's Accusation Caused "Senator Bob Hart" to Commit Suicide.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, L. I., Feb. 4.—Miss Stella Brightman is under guard at her home in this place. About 8 o'clock yesterday morning she was apprehended by her mother and Constable Pearsall as she was slipping with Deerfoot, the chief medicine man of the Kickapoo Indian show that had been holding forth in that village. The girl was decked out in all the gorgeousness of an Indian squaw, with her long black hair hanging loose down her back, and several strings of gaudy beads about her neck.

Brightman and the constable met the couple in the hall where the Indian shows were given. It was the last night of the show and the company were to leave the next morning.

Miss Brightman is a sprightly brunette, 18 years of age, the daughter of James Brightman, a prominent metal dealer of this city.

She and several companions had visited the show nightly. The girl apparently took great interest in Deerfoot's gyrations in the war dance, and made no secret of her infatuation for him. Encouraged by her ever-present and smiling face, Deerfoot used to stop and talk to her while passing around samples of his medicine.

Mrs. Brightman was informed by letter of her daughter's doings. She said that the whole affair was a joke, and promised to keep away from the show. After the close of the entertainment Thursday night Stella was seen in Deerfoot's company. As she did not return home by 3 o'clock in the morning, her mother, in the absence of Mr. Brightman, was in Philadelphia, started to search for the girl.

She secured the assistance of Constable Pearsall, and together they visited the Indian headquarters, where they found the missing maiden ready to leave the place with her lover.

At first she refused to return home, but finally, when her Indian lover was threatened with arrest, she changed her mind. On reaching home, the girl was locked up in her room. Deerfoot told Stella before he left that she should certainly see him again.

This is not the only notoriety achieved by Miss Brightman. Five years ago when brought a charge of assault against J. M. Southernland, the minister evangelist, better known as "Senator Bob Hart."

It is said that the charge drove Southernland to commit suicide, he having poisoned himself in the Argonia hotel in New York a short time after the accusation was brought against him.

BREAKING OF AN ICE GORGE.

OHIO STEAMBOATS AND OTHER CRAFT IN DANGER OF DESTRUCTION. EVANSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 4.—The great ice gorge in the Ohio river has broken, and is being carried down the river, threatening destruction of everything in its path.

The endangered property includes the steamer J. C. Fisher, with a tow of government scows, at Alton, Ind., 25 coal barges at Leavenworth, Ind., and the Cincinnati and Memphis packet New South at Hawesville, Ky.

The Mines Burning Fiercely. WEST MINES, Pa., Feb. 4.—The fire in the Port Royal Coal and Coke company's mines are now burning with the fury of a furnace. All efforts to reach the part where John Gittings is supposed to have lost his life have been abandoned and attention is now given to extinguishing the flames. The mines are to be flooded, which will cause much damage and expense.

Take No Stock in the Message. MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—President Harrison's message to Congress against the Montreal privileges of the Canadian railway has failed very flat here. Nobody believes that his recommendations will ever be put into effect by Congress. This opinion is freely expressed by the leading railway men.

Killed by a Fly Wheel. PITTSBURGH, Feb. 4.—John Carpenter, painter in the Edgar Thompson Steel works, at Braddock, fell from a swinging ladder, alighting upon a swiftly revolving fly wheel. The wheel carried him to the ground where he was quickly crushed out of all semblance of a human being.

Supr. Bell's Resignation. WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—It is understood that M. E. Bell, superintendent of the Chicago Public Buildings, against whom a report of malfeasance in office was made by Assistant Secretary Lamberton, has tendered his resignation to Secretary Foster. It will probably be accepted.

Express Agent Under Arrest. LAKESIDE, N. J., Feb. 4.—William O. De Boss, the agent of the United States Express company at this place, is under arrest upon a warrant sworn out by J. R. Hathaway, the route agent of the company, charging him with misappropriating the company's funds.

KANSAS' DOUBLE HOUSE.

The Rival Organizations Quit Quarreling—Both Will Sit at the Session's End.

Topeka, Feb. 4.—All hope of settling the trouble in the House has been abandoned and the two organizations have settled down, quit quarreling back and forth and agreed to divide the time on the floor from now to the close of the session, the Republicans meeting in the forenoon and the Populists in the afternoon.

This arrangement was agreed upon in the Populist caucus Wednesday night and the Republicans accepted it last night without objection. At the same caucus the Populists read their resolution to fight it out to the end, and a line of action was agreed upon.

The regular forms of organization will hereafter be followed and bills passed without regard to the Republicans. Only such bills as cannot immediately be attacked in the Supreme Court will for the present be passed and at the close of the session appropriations for the expenses of the Legislature and the State government and the State institutions will be adopted.

Then they will adjourn and let the Republicans do their worst. Should the Supreme Court declare the laws of the Populists to be void and the Governor call an extra session of the Legislature, the Populist House will come back just the same and go through the form of re-passing the same laws.

This is the programme as stated by a Populist leader this morning.

FOR CROUSE'S MILLIONS. Planning for a Hard Fight in Behalf of Dorothea. NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The contest over the will of D. Edgar Crouse, who died a few months ago, will take place in Syracuse within the next few weeks. Although offered $1,000,000 to withdraw the contest, Mrs. Edith B. Kosterlitz, the mother of little Dorothea Edgertha Crouse, who is said to be the only child and heir to the Crouse millions, refuses to do so. She claims that the infant is the only legal heir to the estate.

Upon the petition of the mother of little Dorothea, Surrogate Ransom has appointed the New York Security and Trust company general guardian of the child.

The rights of the child will be represented by New York, London, and Syracuse lawyers. It is anticipated that the contest will be a long one, for the friends and relatives of Crouse will not surrender without a fight.

THE REFORMATORY CONDEMNED. Judge Hare's Opinion Regarding the Institution at Huntingdon, Pa. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—The Huntingdon (Pa.) reformatory has been condemned in an opinion by Judge Hare in the Court of Quarter Sessions as an ill managed institution on the strength of representations made by Prison Agent Camp.

The condemnation grew out of an application for the commitment of a young man to the reformatory. It is alleged that 120 boys live in enforced idleness there, facilities for instructing them in useful trades being hopelessly inadequate.

The inmates are further declared to be exposed to corrupting influences. This condition of things is charged to the unwillingness of trades to come into competition with prison industry.

SHIP SAVED BY OIL. The Salttram's Rough Voyage from New Orleans to Plymouth. LONDON, Feb. 4.—The British steamer Salttram, Captain Uren, from New Orleans, Jan. 3, and from Norfolk, Jan. 14, which arrived at Plymouth, Feb. 3, had a frightful voyage.

She reports having experienced a succession of gales during which the use of oil alone prevented foundering. On Jan. 27, boatswain Watty was drowned and others were injured. The eccentric strap of the engine broke on Jan. 20, and the crew had a fearful experience in repairing the break.

The Salttram's steering apparatus, bowsprit and sails are damaged.

Relative to National Banks. WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The First National bank of Cripple Creek, Col., capital, $50,000, has been authorized to begin business.

The corporate existence of the First Ward National bank, Boston, has been extended to March 24, 1913.

The following applications for authority to organize national banks have been filed with the Comptroller of the Currency: The Citizens' National bank, of Port Henry, N. Y., by Eugene Wyman and associates. The Farmers and Merchants' National bank, of Mount Pleasant, Pa., by A. H. Bell, Greenburg, Pa., and associates.
