Louise Hamilton.

Last night's storm had no effect upon the large audience which saw Louise Hamilton in "Foggy Ferry" at Ferguson's theatre. The play is not a new one, but it has lost none of its charm for theatre-goers as was evidenced last night by the frequent bursts of applause that shook the house. Miss Hamilton is a pretty, frolicsome little maid, and amused the entire audience by her wit and utter forgetfulness of self. The rest of the company are somewhat above the ordinary run of repertoire companies. Tonight Miss Hamilton appears in "The Little Detective," which is said to be her best play.

NEARLY 30,000 VOTES.

Advantage of the standing opportunity to investigate the management and methods before rushing to the newspapers. It seems to us many of the people complaining are too anxious for an opportunity to prejudice the public mind against the contest. In our endeavor to make the contest as fair as possible to all we followed up a report that certain persons were securing copies of the HERALD at the main office for less than one cent a copy. People who would be prejudiced accepted the report as gospel truth and used it to the best advantage among the contestants. For the benefit of those people we will say that our investigation developed the fact that the friends of a contestant had made a tool of a carrier employed by the town agents for the paper and had duped him into selling them papers at a rate between that allowed agents and the regular price. When the HERALD placed the facts before the agents the boy was discharged. We suspect the attack on the contest came from the people who pulled the boy into the scheme.

THE REVIVALS CONTINUE.

Rev. Powie's Sermon on the Great War Against Sin.

The revival spirit continues in the Methodist Episcopal church and the meetings which have been so successfully held from night to night are still going and new numbers are being received every Sabbath. The congregations on Sunday were large. In the evening differently was found in seating the people who went to hear the word of God.

The sermon was from the text "Wherefore he is able to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them." Heb. 7:25. The text assumes what very few deny, that men are lost. Humanity has always felt its guilt and been anxious to get rid of, at least, its consequences. How to do this has ever been the problem of the ages. In every age priests have been consecrated, altars have been erected and sacrifices have been offered to propitiate deity. But Jesus Christ, our great High Priest, has by His own blood put away sin so effectually that "there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." Priests and sacrifices have been forever done away by the unchangeable priesthood of Jesus.

The ability of Jesus to save was acquired by His sacrificial death. I suppose God might have saved men from sin by killing them off in infancy or by destroying their moral agency, thus reducing them to mere machines. But He proposes to save men from sin by healing them of their propensity to sin. When we speak of salvation we are often understood to mean salvation merely from hell. But the salvation the gospel provides is salvation from sin—sin against man and sin against God. This was the supreme purpose for which Jesus came into the world. It is the meaning of His name. "Thou shalt call His name Jesus for it is He that shall save his people from their sins"—as a means of saving them from hell and bringing them to heaven. He intended that men should remain in the world and yet not be contaminated by the evil of the world. Though citizens of earth they were to be denizens of heaven.

In undertaking this work there were moral difficulties to put away in order to place man in a salvable state. There were the broken law and its threatened penalties. God must uphold the honor of His government. The claim of divine justice must be met. Any man who was done even God himself—owing to self-imposed limitations—was unable to save man. The law which was ordained into life had been made weak through the flesh and they may be bought to any station of the Pennsylvania system, both east and west of Pittsburgh, at one-half the regular rates. Under this arrangement clergymen may secure half rates to Chicago during the World's Fair, and there can be no doubt that a great many of them will avail themselves of the opportunity. The inauguration of this liberal privilege by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company last year met with hearty appreciation at the hands of the ministers of all denominations, and its continuance this year will be especially well received by reason of the advantages it carries in connection with the World's Fair.

A Brilliant Event.

Would you rather buy lamp chimneys, one a week for the year round, or one that lasts till some accident breaks it? Common glass may break or not the minute you light your lamp; if not, the first draft may break it; if not, it may break from a mere whim.

Tough glass chimneys, Macbeth's "Pearl-top" or "Pearl-glass," almost never break from heat, not one in a hundred. Where can you get it? and what does it cost? Your dealer knows where and how much. It costs more than common glass; and may be, he thinks tough glass isn't good for his business.

HALF RATE

Tickets for Clergymen on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Pursuing the policy inaugurated last year, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is supplying regularly ordained ministers of the Gospel with clerical orders entitling the holders to tickets at half-rates over its entire system. These tickets are purchasable by any clergyman exhibiting a "clerical order," and they may be bought to any station of the Pennsylvania system, both east and west of Pittsburgh, at one-half the regular rates. Under this arrangement clergymen may secure half rates to Chicago during the World's Fair, and there can be no doubt that a great many of them will avail themselves of the opportunity. The inauguration of this liberal privilege by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company last year met with hearty appreciation at the hands of the ministers of all denominations, and its continuance this year will be especially well received by reason of the advantages it carries in connection with the World's Fair.
