The east of Mrs. Fredericks has many sathetic features. She is a middle-aged woman of neat appearance and was living with her husband and three children. The woman has the reputation of having been a good wife, an excellent housekeeper and a very agreeable neighbor, but of late her mine as given signs of rapid weakening.

The woman seems to have been afflicted with a mania for destroying everything by fire and her husbamt and neighbors have been in constant draid the past few weeks that she would set her house on fire. Of late the husband has had a constant watch upo Mrs. Fredericks. The unfortunate woma seemed to suspect this and the mania seems to increase in effect.

After resorting to every means in his power o keep the poor woman under watch and revent her from doing anything that might adanger the lives of the children and the neighbors the Lusband discovered that his vife was making preparations to evade the watchfulness. The husband became disouraged and finally concluded that it would be better for all concerned to have the wome mmitted to the in-sane department of the almshouse at Schnylkill Haven.

This morning Messra. Smith and Derr went o the Fredericks residence and took charge of e unfortunate woman. Both officials book hey will never be obliged to witness such a sene again. It was pathetic in the extreme When they called at the house Mrs. Fredericks received them in a very pleasing and social manner. When they announced their bject she took in the situation at a glance nd obeyed the request of the husband and two women neighbors to "get ready" without any bjection, or any attempt to create a scene The three children, ranging from one and a half to six years of age were in the roon which the officials entered. Having attired herself Mrs Fredericks turned to the officials and said, "Let me kiss the children," The request was readily granted. The next moment the poor woman was upon her knees, sobbing as if her heart would break and trying to embrace and cover e faces of the three children with kisses a ne time. She seemed periectly same and ally realized her position, and she tried to ole the weeping husband and neighbors ey telling them that pechaps it was for the est; that after being away for a while she outld become a better woman. Mesers Smith and Derr were as patient as reumstances would permit and did not nterfers until they were obliged to start tor he train. Mrs. Fredericks then parted with er family in the most affectionate manner d without offering the slightest resistance protestations left the house with the licials. When a reporter saw the woman on he train she occupied a seat beside Burgess Smith. She was perfectly calm and said authing, but paid strict attention to everyhing the Burgess and Mr. Derr said.

"Johnny" Mack, the boy vagrant, occupied a seat with Mr. Derr in front of that occur pied by Mrs. Fredericks. All efforts to find he parents or other relatives of the boy have failed and no satisfactory answers have been received to the etters sent out by the Chief Burgess Efforts to locate them will be kept up and meantime the boy will be cared for at Schuyikiii Haven.

THAT MAN FINNEY.

A Letter From One Who Knows Something of film, EDITOR HERALD :-- Considerable stress has seen aid by our own Billy, yeleped the Republican correspondent, and his ally, Dearie, that little Finney should dare to presume o sepire for Councilman in the Second ward.

If the sforesaid Finney has ever made a olitical move, whether good or evil, that has ot been opposed by these popinjays, I have failed to discover it. Their musiterable hatred of Finney warps their judgments (may the Lord forgive me) and blinds their egothetical intellects. What has this man Finney done to arouse this cumity. The only positive thing in sight is that he has succeeded in most, if not all, of his undertakings. It appears to an outsider, yet a friend, Mr. Finney has accomplished, with the assistance of course, of others, several ublic benefits.

He was the originator, and schemer (which is the aweet morsel that salivates their jawa's of the following public benefits which have one andermy personal observation;

He was the originator of our electric road, and having faith in its success he bibored assidnously to make it a town corporation, the town and its people to recive all the bencits. He was met with snears and eries, "it is the gang," and was forced to engage outde capital, with the result that the road is a omplete success, a great convenience, and et still better, is of great profit to the merhands of town.

Mr. Finney, while still an officer, or clerk a one of the departments at Harrisburg, was very active and assisted materially in having oppropriated the sum of 35,000,000 annually for the public schools of the state, whereby the appropriation for this town was incr ased, n round figures from $5,000 to $13,000. I o not expect these over good people to admit that this is true, but it is a fact neverholess. Yet Archie and his gang after makng a bargain with a part of the Democrate o elect his man Stout, thereby disgusting a number of Republicana who absented themelves from the polls which elected a Demeratic school director, charges and reiterates be charge that Finney is hostile to the sublic schools. The fact speaks for them-

Who schemed and worked and obtained the ree delivery of the mail here? Why Finney. We were entitled to it of course under the rules of the postal department, yet it required some energy, and more than that, it equired a personal acquaintance, with those n authority. At his own expense, for the enefts of the whole people, he labored and complianed this public good. One other fact which establishes Finney's landghtedness and public spirit, is the fact that he proposed and had unanimously adopted in the Republican State League Concention in Philadelphia, in September, 1896, a resolution arging the Pennsplyania Legis lature to pension volunteer firemen who were disabled in service. Finney is not an ective fireman himself, but the reasonableness and justice, the public good to be accomplished fore d itself upon his mind, and with progressive spirit and go aheadativeness. he had a great body of intellectual representative Republicans from all parts of the state, adopt his ideas. The same ideas are now Nellie Evans, of Wilkes Barre, are the guests before the Legislature with excellent pros-
