HOOP LA!

The circus season has Hopened. From Burahoo, Wis., comes the first news of its budding. A box constrictor thirty-two feet long, assumes charge of the inaugural ceremonies, and awning the sawdust arena, the menageric and the side show into public view, with an accompanying amount of ecial and excitement that promises more thrilling things for the summer campaign than even the most reskless extravagance of words and colors on the walls could possibly picture for us.

The box constrictor which had hitherto been attached to a circus in an numble and unostantious way made the blood of all Baraboo run cold last week by trying to awallow a thirteen year old boy in a few galps. The boy's fest were sticking out the bay's month when discovery was made of the awful situation. A strong man con- a: nected with the show fied a evaluaround the boa's body, fusioned the boa's tail to a pule, pried open the anako's jawa with a wagon jack and pulled the badly frightened but otherwise unbelieved buy out of the bon's omcescekers Marching Up to the White system. The lad acampered off and is O. K. in every particular.

That box constrictor will be starred, of course, and probably the boy will be hired and must along as a living corroboration of the story. Few people, though, who look upon the boy and the boa, thus clothed with iridescent interest, will suspect that Baraboo tanglefoot deserves a place in that circus's gleaming galaxy, and if Baraboo "boose" weren't surcharged with visions of this kind, the press agent from whom the story emanated would have worked some milder and and less Munchausenish gag on the Baraboo news disseminators.
