PETER MOKUFKY FINDS THE TABLES TURNED. HE MAKES AN UNUSUAL ARREST

The Peddler He Took Into Custody Without a Warrant Prosecutes Him for Larceny and Also False Arrest.

prosecutions unless all parties concerned get together within a short time. This is the boy peddler's story: He was going down South Main street when Peter McKufsky, a Hungarian saloon keeper, called him into his place. As soon as the boy entered the pack was taken from him and carried into another room and McKufsky told him he was under arrest for peddling without a license.

McKufsky and the peddler started for the Polish Squire's office in the Fourth ward, where the former said he would lodge a complaint. When the pair reached the corner of Main and Cherry streets Harrison said he would go into Sam Block's store and get his license to produce before the squire. McKufsky consented and waited in front of Block's store for the boy's return.

When Harrison got into the store he explained the situation and while McKufsky was waiting outside the case was laid before Squire Williams. McKufsky got tired and went home. Last night he was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Harrison charging him with assault and battery, for arrest and larceny. A search warrant was also issued for Harrison's pack and when the constable went to McKufsky's home he found the latter had taken the pack to Squire Walker's office and had lodged a complaint against Harrison for peddling without a license. McKufsky furnished bail in the sum of $300 for trial on the three charges against him.

Charles Yarowsky has made a demand upon Squire Walker, claiming the pack left with that gentleman as his property. The squire refused to surrender the pack, stating it was put in his care for safe keeping and he had no knowledge of who the owner was. Yarowsky says Harrison was employed by him.

The position of the case now is this: McKufsky is under bail, Harrison is in hiding to avoid arrest for peddling without a license, Squire Walker holds the pack to await Harrison's appearance, and Yarowsky is figuring to devise some means by which he may secure the pack. It was said to-day that Yarowsky will sue Squire Walker if the pack is not surrendered.

PHILLIPS WON. He Succeeds in Convicting a Pole Who Intended.

Several weeks ago a Pole rushed into Squire Shoemaker's office and exhibited an ugly wound on his face which he said had been inflicted by a Pole from Mt. Carmel, who threw a pool ball at him. The warrant was given to Constable Phillips, who started out with Thomas Jones, as assistant, and the injured Pole, to make an arrest. When the trio arrived at the house where the Mt. Carmel man had taken refuge, they were met by a boarder named Andrew Papis, who refused to allow a search for the man wanted. When the search was insisted upon Papis threw Phillips, Jones and the complainant out of the house. The Mt. Carmel man succeeded in getting away and has not been seen since. Constable Phillips then became prosecutor and caused the arrest of Papis on a charge of assault and battery and the case was tried at Pottsville yesterday. Papis was found guilty, but the jury recommended him to the mercy of the court.

Miss Wasley was close behind Miss Baird for first place according to the returns published last night, but to-day the table shows she has fallen back a little. Miss Steis is making a high daily average and if the present pace is kept up she will be close to the front rank Saturday night.

AFTER THE BOYS. The Gang at Yatesville Must Stop Abusing People.

William Brennan, a crippled old man of Yatesville, yesterday made complaint to Squire Shoemaker against a number of boys of that place. Brennan says the boys gather about the Yatesville depot and squirt water and mud over people with the use of popguns. He named Barney Dougherty, the Lehigh truck walker, as one of the victims of assaults. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of several of the boys.

That old established cough remedy, Downs Elixir, still more than holds its own in the public estimation, despite sharp and active competition. It is a "home remedy," and in this locality needs no word of praise from us, so well and favorably known is it. It is the standard remedy for coughs, colds and all throat troubles, with great numbers of our people, and their continued use and unsolicited recommendation it speaks volumes in its favor.—Burlington, Vt., Free Press, January 25, 1892.

Taken to the Almshouse. Joseph Wojtkiewicz, a Polish young man of neat appearance but unfortunate circumstances, was taken to the county hospital at Schuylkill Haven yesterday by Constable Phillips. Wojtkiewicz suffers from hemiparesis of the right side with aberrant mentalities. Hemiparesis is an excruciating pain which affects only one side of the head.

HUGH O'DONNELL HERE!

HE IS THE GUEST OF EX-SENATOR WATSON. RETICENT ABOUT HOMESTEAD

The Object of His Visit Here is Rest and Recuperation—He Will be the Manager of a Concert Company.

PERHAPS one of the most talked-of men of the day, aside from the presidential candidates and Gladstone, has been Hugh O'Donnell, famous because of his connection with the labor troubles at Homestead, precipitated by the lockout of the Carnegie mill hands. During the past twelve months or more no incident of Homestead matters has received mention without having Hugh O'Donnell's name coupled with it in some manner or other; and last month the name was especially featured because the owner figured as a defendant in the prosecutions based upon the deaths which resulted during the trial of which were upon the calendars of the court as murder cases.

During the middle of last month Mr. O'Donnell was tried and acquitted of the dreadful charges. His eyes protested that he spent all his time and energy during the riot in keeping the crowd back and urging the people to cool their heads, and that he did his best to prevent the Pinkerton men after they had surrendered. Evidence was also adduced from a number of witnesses that O'Donnell had advised the people to keep away from the river and had even ordered them to stop firing.

Hugh O'Donnell became the foremost recognized on the labor side of the troubles because he was chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers and his trial evoked more interest than any of the series because of his prominence as stated. Mr. O'Donnell was acquitted.

Hugh O'Donnell and wife are at present the guests of ex-Senator M. C. Watson and family, on South Main street. The two families have been on terms of intimate friendship for several years and about two years ago the ex-Senator and his wife were entertained most pleasantly at the O'Donnell home in Homestead.

A HERALD reporter called at the Watson residence yesterday afternoon and an introduction brought forth from Mr. O'Donnell, "I am pleased to meet you, especially because you are a newspaper man, for I appreciate that during the recent lamentable trouble I have found many of my best friends in the newspaper circles."

Mr. O'Donnell is a man of medium height, built proportionately, has a very dark complexion, such as would cause him to be taken for a Spaniard, and has jet black moustache and hair. His features are regular and when a pleasing topic is broached they beam with animation. Withal there is a stern expression which indicates a character that can cope with difficulties.

"You are but one of hundreds of newspaper men who have besieged me since I left Homestead," said Mr. O'Donnell as he offered the reporter a seat in the ex-Senator's study. "and you must pardon me if I built the scope of our conversation. I have determined to make no exception. I must decline to talk about the Homestead troubles. This decision I have adhered to on all occasions where interviews have been attempted. I will say, however, that my home is still at Homestead and I intend to have it remain there. My relations with the Carnegie people are of a friendly character, neighborly as it were, but there is a mutual implied understanding between us that we can never again be identified in business relations. I can say nothing more of Homestead at present. My presence in Shenandoah is purely of a personal character. Ex-Senator Watson is an old friend of mine and he has repeatedly asked me to pay him a visit. During my incarceration at Pottsville he was especially persistent in having me promise to call upon him at the first opportunity and now I have taken the opportunity. I am here as a guest of Mr. Watson, seeking rest. As you may imagine, the experiences of the past several months have been a severe strain upon me and I am in need of recuperation."

When asked if he had made any arrangement to enter any business or had made plans for otherwise seeking a means of livelihood Mr. O'Donnell said, "a man must live and must seek means of support for those dependent upon him and I am no exception to the rule. I have made plans and intend to put them in operation as soon as I secure a little rest."

The reporter then learned that Mr. O'Donnell had received many tempting offers to go upon the lecture platform, but he has decided to adopt quite a different course, one which will be equally profitable, or nearly, and give the people something for their money in addition to the satisfaction of seeing him. Mr. O'Donnell and Prof. John Edwards, also of Homestead, have formed a combination. Prof. Edwards is one of the evicted steel workers and has a remarkable family of musicians, six in number, including Master Thomas Edwards, only eight years of age, and his little sister, the youngest piano and violin dabbler in the world. They play by rote, not by ear. The intention is that Prof. Edwards and his family shall give concerts in the prominent cities and towns of the United States and Mr. O'Donnell will act as manager until he

A PRESENTATION.

Mr. Sanger Receives a Bronze Medal

The members of Major Jennings Council, No. 367, Jr. O. U. A. M., substituted a special programme in place of the routine order of business at the meeting last night to afford an opportunity for paying a compliment to Mr. Thomas Sanger. A short time ago Mr. Sanger resigned his position under the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company at Delano to accept one under the Union Coal Company at Mt. Carmel. The change necessitated a change of residences and in consequence Mr. Sanger was obliged to resign his position as secretary of Major Jennings Council.

Mr. Sanger's retirement from active service in the lodge was a source of regret to the members. He was instrumental in organizing the Council and the present membership of over two hundred was conceded to have been brought about, in a great measure, by his personal work without any compensation. It was decided to give some recognition of the services and last night Mr. Sanger was present on special invitation and received a large and handsome solid gold emblem of the order in pendant style and encased colors.

Electric Eclipses.

A new 250-horse power dynamo was unloaded at Wm. Penn yesterday and will be taken to the Schuylkill Traction Company's power house at Rappahannock. The dynamo will double the electrical power of the station.

A new car, No. 29, was put on the local division of the Traction line last night to replace a car that had its motor box injured at Wm. Penn.

John Gaudman, of Girardville, is putting a stone foundation under the car house at Rappahannock, which was recently raised four feet.

Three new boilers have been put in at the power plant and an additional smoke stack was raised yesterday.

A large black dog was killed by one of the cars on Main street this morning.

Stole a Pick.

The First Case.

The first arrest by the new police force is credited to Lieutenant William Flaherty. The victim was a Pole who was arrested for drunkenness in the First ward. Chief Burgess Burns enforced the payment of the usual fine and costs yesterday. This was also the first case for the new Burgess to try.
