RINGING CALL TO BATTLE

Mr. Clarkson's Noble Note to the Republican National League.
The call for the annual convention of the Republican National League has been issued by President J. S. Clarkson. It says in part: A national convention of the Republican National League is hereby called to meet at Louisville, Ky., for a session of two days on Wednesday, May 10, next, at 10 o'clock a. m. The national convention of the American Republican College League will be held at the same place on Thursday afternoon, May 11.

In the movement of the Republican column, preliminary to Republican victory in 1896, it is the fortune as it is the duty of the League to move first. Its national convention of 1887 led the way and made certain party victory in 1888. Its 2,000,000 of voters accept the party defeat of 1892 as a larger call upon them for renewed devotion and effort in the Congressional elections of 1894, the Presidential election in 1896 and in all state and local party contests for the time intervening. It is ready in its vast membership, with one of its own clubs at work in almost every neighborhood of the United States every day in the year, in all the subtle efforts of party methods, through popular effort and popular education, to bear the burden of daily party work in the four years to come.

In this new day of complete Democratic ascendancy in the nation and the restoration of sectional rule in the government, with the committee of the United States Senate being reorganized in the interest of a section comprising one-fourth of the states of the Union, in which states Republican voters are boldly and successfully disfranchised because they are Republicans, and when the Cabinet of the new President is made up mainly in the interests of the great corporations of the land, there is but added reason for increased ardor and activity on the part of every true friend of human rights, free labor and self-respecting Americanism.

The struggle did not end in 1892. As Abraham Lincoln, in the hour of a previous Republican defeat, so faithfully said, all Republicans may say with fidelity now: "The fight must go on. The cause of human liberty must not be surrendered. At the end of one or even one hundred defeats."

It must go on until the weak and helpless of all classes and conditions are protected under the laws and until the day shall come demanded by General Grant: "When the rights of a Republican shall be as fully admitted and as fully protected at every voting place in the land as the rights of a Democrat."

To this end the National Committee of the National Republican League cordially invite all citizens who believe in honest elections and the right of every American voter to cast one vote and have it fairly counted, who believe in the dignity of free labor and a faithful maintenance of the difference between American and European wages, who believe in the old American policy of protection to American industry and to American workmen, and the new American policy of reciprocity, who believe in the fullest protection of all classes of invested interest, and yet who are opposed to corruption rule in the government of either nation or state, who believe in sound money and honest gold and silver as money as pledged in the national Republican platform at Minneapolis, who believe in such improvements and extensions of the banking systems of the country as will bring banking facilities nearer to the people of the smaller towns and communities, who believe in practical civil service reform such as will separate the spoils man from politics and yet preserve the people in control of public offices and all public affairs, and who believe in liberal policies and yet in the assertion of American ideas in all American affairs, all such people and all who are in sympathy with the other policies and aspirations of the Republican party of the future are cordially invited to meet at once in membership with the League clubs of their own neighborhoods and participate in the election of delegates to the national convention at Louisville.

The Republican party, being non-sectional and instinctively American in all the better meanings of the terms, choose to open the new contest with this convention held on Southern ground especially inviting liberal attendance from all the Southern states and hoping to make historical this Republican meeting in a state which is sacred with traditions of Henry Clay, Abraham Lincoln and James G. Blaine.

OBBS OBSERVATIONS.

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.
The present local headquarters of the Adams Express Company, are to be changed. It is understood that the present quarters in the Lehigh depot are required by the United States Express Company, which seems to have the "pull" under the P. & R. combination, and the Adams company is preparing to get out before the official notice gets around. The new quarters of the Adams will be in the Ferguson building, at the corner of Main and Oak streets.

Probably no term of commercial significance is used more frequently than "O. K." How did it originate? Here is one answer: When all cattle west of the Alleghenies across the mountains the Kentucky cattle become famous for their quality, and the drovers to distinguish them marked O. K., meaning Old Kentucky. The brand caused comment and soon came to mean, in drover's parlance, a superior grade. It was soon converted into O. K. correct in the drover's and cattleman's slang and spread into all kinds of business.

The Coal and Iron police force throughout this region has received strict instructions to keep a sharp lookout for tramps and bums and promptly haul in all caught loitering about railroad property. The order is being enforced. Frank Shirey took one down to jail on Monday morning. Lieutenant Daniel took "Big Dutch" and Charles Wills down in the afternoon, and on Monday several of the U. & L. police, including Daniel, Boles and Connors, raided the "red hick" near Glenderville and seized six more, among them "Centralla Red." They were given a hearing and then committed to jail. The vigilance against the tramps and bums is caused by fears on the part of the railroad company that they may attempt to wreck trains, or commit depredations at the depots. Many of the fellows who bum around this region in the spring and summer are of a harmless character—the victims of chronic illness, but a large number are of a vicious and dangerous character, and will not hesitate to carry off a watch dog, chain and all. Charles Wills, for instance, has served time for stealing a watch, and "Big Dutch" and "Centralla Red" are not trusted by the officers. The former is said to have an especially bad reputation. It is hoped the officers will keep up the vigilance against all tramps, pool and bad.

A few weeks of the work will warn others on the road and keep them from this section. The bums don't mind the jails in winter, but they draw the line on spring and summer, when the green swarms on the mountain sides are so comfortable.

The Polish and Hungarian families who inhabit Robbin's row opposite the east end of Coal street, raise a large number of geese and chickens and the territory for scratching allowed the latter is so small that they frequently go about with sharpened appetites. Yesterday while a train was side-tracked near the row a number of the chickens got into one of the cars to see what they could pick up, and when the car was pulled out of the siding the chickens went with it. There was great excitement among the inhabitants of the row for a time, but the crew of the train discovered the cause and returned the fowl that had been innocently carried off.

I understand that a Lino street man owns a dog that will not eat anything but raw eggs. At first the animal was not fastidious in its tastes, but one day it received a raw egg and since then it has refused to eat anything else.

That old established rough remedy, Downs Elixir, still more than holds its own in the public estimation, despite sharp and active competition. It is a "home remedy" and in this locality needs no word of praise from us, so well and favorably known is it. It is the standard remedy for coughs, colds and all throat troubles, with great numbers of our people, and their continued use and unhesitating recommendation of it speaks volumes in its favor.—Burlington, Vt., Free Press, January 20, 1892.

Diving Into the Mud.
A drummer, whose name could not be learned, afforded considerable amusement for himself and others on North Main street last night by having boys scramble in the mud for coins. The drummer succeeded in disposing of a number of pennies, half-dimes and dimes, but when returning to his hotel he said the fun he had was worth double the amount expended. The scramblers were boys of all sizes and appearances, some ragged, others well dressed, but as the drummer threw the coins into the deepest and puddles he could find all the boys looked alike when the stranger declared the bank closed. A number of enraged mothers were inquiring for the drummer to-day, but he left town early this morning to have fun with the boys of some other place.

A New Feature.
Beginning Tuesday, 21st inst., a Pullman buffet parlor car will be run on the Reading Railroad's two-hour train for New York, from Philadelphia leaving Market St. Station at 7:30 a. m. and a car of the same character will be attached to the fast 4:00 p. m. train returning from New York. The regular parlor cars will also continue to be run on these trains and on all express trains which leave Market St. Station weekdays, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 4:00, 5:15 p. m., and 12:01 night. The Royal Blue line trains for New York still go from Twenty-fourth and Chestnut, and as may be seen from the published time tables, are very conveniently arranged. The Reading's New York trains have long been famous for speed, punctuality and speed and punctuality and the inauguration of the new station at Twelfth and Market has greatly augmented their popularity.
