OBEB'S OBSERVATIONS.

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.
It has again become necessary to say that extra vigilance must be exerted to try and discover the class of boys who mutilate school property, especially those who indulge in making obscene inscriptions. Last week some Philadelphia men photographed our schools and the classes and yesterday a little girl exhibited one of the pictures to her friends. It was a good one, but was wholly destroyed by the reproduction in one corner of an obscene inscription that had been cut on the school building. The photographers are responsible to some extent for allowing such a picture to pass their inspection.

An enterprising man with a lemon squeezer, a few lumps of sugar and a bucket of water as partners could reap in a few shekels every day if he would station himself near the red bridge. The promenade season on the Lehigh Valley railroad has re-opened.

The Allentown Critic tells of an April fool joke in its office on Saturday last. In the early hours of that morning, a tramp, who looked like the breaking up of a hard winter, sailed into the office and begged the editor for a dime to get a poor man a drink. This being refused, the "harbinger of spring" began to show signs of an extended gall. Then it was that a compositor, who is about as shrewd as they make them, got hold of the alarm clock and rang it twice in a rear room remarking, "Connect me with the police station." By this time the wandering gent began to get pale. Again the alarm clock was touched off and the conversation carried on to the wall: "Is that the chief? Yes. Well send an officer down here right away, there's a bum making a nuisance of himself in this office." But the applicant for Easter egg got cut rates never heard the end of the fake telephoning. He fled out the door and shot up the street like a streak of lightning.

PUSHING AHEAD.

Rapid Work Being Done on the Street Paving Contract.
Contractors Grant are pushing the street paving work on Main street as fast as men with picks and shovels can make it go. The surface of the street has already been cut down several inches as far north as the centre of the square between Oak and Centre streets. To day the working force was increased to thirty-five men.

This morning the work of fixing the grade was begun at the Cherry street end, and by to-morrow morning the final digging in that part will begin.

A gang of men were engaged in shifting some of the dirt taken from the street. The shovels will be used by the pavers. Most of the dirt and stone is being taken by Supervisor Llewellyn to repair the east end of Oak street, Plum alley and Poplar street. At all these places considerable filling is required.

It is now reported that the paving may be extended as far north as Coal street, on Main.

And So It Goes!

When Sewing Machines are mentioned the name of the STANDARD rises instinctively to the lips. Why? Because it will sew as much in four hours as others do in five. Because it is a labor-saver, and makes less noise than any machine on the market. Pay no attention to the disparaging talk of our competitors, as that only proves that it is their most dangerous rival. Call and see it for yourself.

"Plucking a Rose."
J. L. Tempest in his latest production "Plucking a Rose," occupied the boards at Ferguson's theatre last evening. As Larry Chogan Harry Tempest scored a success and proved himself more than an amateur. He sang several songs in a rich, sweet baritone, but was evidently suffering from a cold. The difficult part of Mickey, the Snake, was played by Tom Tempest, and could not have been improved on by a professional. We predict for the young man a brilliant future, should he enter the profession. Mr. J. L. Tempest, the author of the piece, as Sir Gerald O'Connor; Mrs. J. L. Tempest as Norine Delaney and Miss Gwendie Jones as Biddy O'Brien all measured up to the standard of their characters. J. Mulligan as Widow Murphy did very well and set the gallery wild by his singing and dancing. The company played under adverse circumstances, but acquitted themselves admirably. Prof. Warren Portz presided at the piano and was repeatedly applauded. To-night they will present "Joe."

Reasonable Hints.
Don't give your overcoat away for awhile yet.
Don't sit on the grass.

Don't be in a hurry to sit out in the open air—there's too much pneumonia about as it is.
Ice is very scarce now for skaters—except in sherry cobbles.

Grand Display of FINE DRESS GOODS

DRESS GOODS is such a bewildering topic that we will not attempt a full description, but give a partial outline, which you can fill in by a personal inspection. There are the plain and changeable diagonals; plain, plaid, striped and invisible plaid serges; fancy mixtures in all sorts of odd weaves, dots, threads, cross-threads, hair-lines, lines here and there, many at a glance appearing alike, but upon examination are found entirely different. Our assortment of silks is complete—china silks, china surah, plain surah, bengaline, plain, figured and changeable silks, in all the new shot effects. Full line of fancy braids to match any color of dress goods.

.....In Wraps We find the most stylish and the prevailing mode to be the Cape, in some of its variations, single, double or triple capes. Some are plain, others very highly decorated, with fancy induscent braid, butterfly colors, or some full arrangement at the neck, so much approved this season by the feminine fancy. To some, coats only are the correct garment. To those we would say coats, are equally fashionable and stylish, many of these having capes also attached—sometimes one, two or three, as the taste or inclination of the wearer may desire.

We have this season, for the first time, added a Millinery Department, and have spared neither trouble nor expense to make it a success. The result exceeds our most sanguine expectations. This department will be under the same management and conducted on the same principles that have always characterized our entire business. We shall keep everything in trimmed and untrimmed hats, novelties of every description. Having secured a trimmer noted for her artistic and skillful work, we are enabled to suit all tastes. We invite a careful inspection of our entire store. All welcome.
