Messes. Andrews, Highby, Baker, Taggart, Franklin, Forrest, O'Kell and Quinan are each allowed $1,000.

The calendar of senate bills on second reading was then taken up.

Mr. Kunkel called up senate bill No. 20, known as the McCarrell bridge bill, and it pussed accord reading with amendments as prepared by Mr. Kunkel. The princi-pal amendment is as follows: "That in case any bridge company shall permit the laying or construction of any street pas-senger railway tracks upon such bridge the same shall be so had and constructed with one track only and as close as possible to one side of said bridge, so as to interferewith other public travel to the least posible extent.

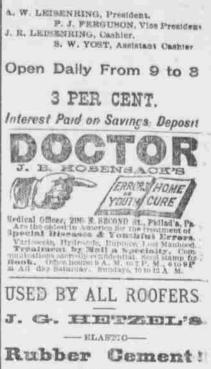

Other amendments provide that the bridge shall be free to children attending private and public schools; the privileges granted by the act shall not be exercised unless authorized by the judge of each county in which the bridge is located. The Philadelphia wharf bill passed sec-ond reading after considerable debate be-tween stewart. Elter and Wharry, withaut amendment. There was no opposition to the senate bill repealing local option in Verona, Alle-gueny county, in fact the house was so unconcerned regarding it that only a few voices said "eye" in agreeing to the bill on second reading The senate bill to provide for the quiet ing of titles to land was regarded with suspicion by Mr. Crawford, and he wanted to know what it meant.

Mr. Fow explained that when railroads were first built engineers regarded curves as necessary, and a great deal more land Celebrated Porter, Ale and Bee as covered than necessary. The object of this bill is to permit the straightening of roads which will necessitate the aban doning of land, and give the land back to original owner. Mr. Crawford thought the curves ought to be taken out of the bill, but it passed and the house adjourned until Monday.

on Monday the Right Reverend N. L. Rulison, Assistant Bishop of Central Pennsylvania, visited Christ's church for the purpose of administering the rite of confirmation. After confirmation the Right Reverend Father very eloquently portrayed the beauties. of the several rites of the church, and the uccessity of observing them. The Bishop men addressed the children present, dwelling at length upon the necessity of thoroughly instructing the little ones in the catechism. The Reverend Father then catechized the shildren, and seemed pleased by the promptaess and correctness with which the little unce answered every question.
