An Engineer's Death.
The funeral of Frank Brown took place at Delano to-day. The deceased was 34 years of age and had been an engineer on the Lehigh Valley railroad for several years. He ran the "flyer" between Pottsville and Easton for some time and was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. One day last summer Brown was seized with an epileptic fit just as his train reached the depot in town. He recovered, but shortly after resuming his position as engineer he was seized with a like fit at the Hazleton depot. Again he recovered, but his health steadily declined. About two weeks ago he took his bed and fell into a coma. He remained almost continually in that condition until Wednesday night, when he died.

Letters of Thanks.
To the officers of the Home Friendly Society of Baltimore, Md.

GENTLEMEN:—We do hereby return our sincere thanks for the promptness in which we received $107 through your Superintendent, William T. Evans, and Agent, James Patterson. We do hereby recommend this company for their promptness in paying claims, as we testify it is a great benefit in time of need.

JAMES BOCK,
MRS. MARTHA GRADWELL,
West Coal Street,
Shenandoah, Pa., May 10th, 1893.

I do hereby return my thanks for the manner in which I have been treated by your officers, this being the second time for me to receive from you, as your Superintendent and your Agent, David Williams, called at my home and paid me in full seventy-two dollars ($72) upon the death of my brother, Jacob Plopper. I can recommend the company to all my friends that need insurance to relieve them in time of need.

Birthday Party.
The following is the list of those who enjoyed the festivities attending the birthday party held by Master William Dabb at the residence of his parents on North White street: Miss Laura Powell, Jennie and Carrie Kendrick, Naomi Williams, Bolla Fishburn, Mame Shoppe, Gerie Shoemaker, Lena Horman, Hannah Bradley, Lillie Smith, Florence Harsley, Annie Schaeffer, Esther and Edith Dinklocker, Clara and Minnie Dabb and Lizzie Mealing, of Minersville. Also George Knott, Walter Ringbold, Geo. Powell, Robert Bodenbusch, Samuel Kendrick, James Mader, Charley and Eddie Bonghey, John Dinklocker and Bennie and Leon Lauterstein.

Let the Authorities Act.
It is time the authorities took some steps to teach the gypsies who are encamped near the cemeteries that when in this town they must behave themselves as the citizens are required. To-day one of the women of the camp made a disgraceful scene staggering through the streets with an intoxicated man on each side of her. It is also stated that the gypsies are establishing horse marts on Main street and they leave their horses at hitching posts for hours without any attention. The gypsies' mart belongs properly to their camp, and not in the town.

OBES' OBSERVATIONS

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.
The Farr compulsory educational bill has passed the Senate and now awaits the signature of the Governor. The bill met with defeat at the last session of the Legislature but with a few amendments and alterations which disposed of the previous objections it was brought up again in a shape that satisfied a good majority of the law makers. The measure is one of the most important the present Legislature has passed upon. It means that the people of Pennsylvania shall be an educated people, and certainly there can be no objection to this. One of the strongest objections to the bill among the people was that it would be a hardship to compel the poorer classes to send their children to school when the parents were obliged to purchase school books, but this objection was effectually disposed of when the Legislature passed the free text book bill by an almost unanimous vote. These laws, of course, will not meet with a universal popular sentiment at the start. Some people have peculiar ideas and it is impossible to meet all ideas in one or two measures, but after the have time to show their fruits the whole people will rejoice in them.

The other day I spoke of the deputy tax collector of town finding a large sum of money in the pockets of a Hungarian who protested he had no money with which to pay his taxes. The case led a physician to tell of an experience. He treated a Hungarian and presented a bill for $15. The man offered ten dollars in payment and said that was all he would or could give. The amount was refused and the Hungarian borrowed a dollar from a neighbor and added it to the offer. The physician held out for the full amount and finally the debtor opened a bureau drawer and took from a wad of several hundred dollars a sum sufficient to pay the bill in full.

The following little storylet is told in the interest of home industry. The other day a lady of town purchased some millinery at Pottsville. Upon returning and exhibiting her purchases she was told by friends that the same or better goods could have been purchased here at less cost. The lady made another trip to Pottsville and returned the millinery, but instead of receiving her money got a due bill for anything else she might wish to purchase at the place. This only goes to show the embarrassment some people bring upon themselves by entertaining peculiar ideas about home merchants. "When you add car fare and other expenses Shenandoah is the cheapest place after all," said a lady yesterday.

B. J. Yost had the tables suddenly turned upon him the other day while trying to crack a joke at the expense of Councilman Finney, who recently purchased the Shapira drug store in the post office building. Yost entered the store and pretending to be distressed by a cough he asked, "Where is Finney—Dr. Finney?" The "doctor" was behind the prescription counter with a visiting physician and recognizing Yost's voice told the visitor to go into the store and carry out the joke. The physician took hold of Yost, sounded his chest, asked a score or more questions, went into the prescription department, and in a few minutes returned to Yost with a bottle of cough mixture and a polite request for 70 cents.

Yost thought the affair was becoming too serious and in a flurried manner exclaimed, "I don't want that, I want to see Finney." "The 'doctor' is not in at present," said the physician, "but I assure you I have done all that he could do for you and this will knock that cough into a cocked hat." Yost attempted to explain, but it was all to no purpose. He paid the seventy cents, but said he would call again for the medicine. Finney then appeared and gave him a laughing bon jour.

Imitators and Impostors.
The unequalled success of Alcock's Porous Plasters as an external remedy has induced unscrupulous parties to offer imitations, which they endeavor to sell on the reputation of Alcock's. It is an absurdity to speak of them in the same category as the genuine porous plaster. Their pretensions are unfounded, their vaunted merit unsupported by facts, their alleged superiority to or equality with Alcock's a false pretense. The ablest medical practitioners and chemists and thousands of grateful patients unite in declaring Alcock's Porous Plasters the best external remedy ever produced. Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Alcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

Tony Farrell.
Tony Farrell is a natural actor, possessing an attractive face and pleasing voice. He makes of an Irish peasant a human being, instead of a gross caricature, which is the way most comedians essay similar roles. He is without doubt one of the best Irish dialecticians on the stage to-day, and "My Colleen" is a very strong Irish comedy drama.—Pittsburg Glassworker. At Ferguson's theatre this evening.

AHEAD AGAIN!
We have mounted another rung on the ladder of popularity. It is the Standard Grand this time, a drop-head, half-cabinet at a reasonable price. The head rises automatically to its place when the seat is laid back. With a single movement the head disappears, the cabinet closes, and you have an elegant ornamental piece of furniture. Drop in and look at it. And while we are talking of cabinet work we might mention the different kinds of wood the Standard is made up in—Antique Oak, XVI Century Oak, Walnut, Hungarian Oak, Mahogany and Sycamore.

Grand Display of FINE DRESS GOODS

DRESS GOODS is such a bewildering topic that we will not attempt a full description, but give a partial outline, which you can fill in by a personal inspection. There are the plain and changable diagonals; plain, plaid, striped and invisible plaid serges; fancy mixtures in all sorts of odd weaves, dots, threads, cross-threads, hair-lines, lines here and there, many at a glance appearing alike, but upon examination are found entirely different. Our assortment of silks is complete—china silks, china sarah, plain sarah, bengaline, plain, figured and changable silks, in all the new shot effects. Full line of fancy braids to match any color of dress goods.

.....In Wraps We find the most stylish and the prevailing mode to be the Cape, in some of its variations, single, double or triple capes. Some are plain, others very highly decorated, with fancy indented braid, butterfly colors, or some full arrangement at the neck, so much approved this season by the feminine fancy. To some, coats only are the correct garment. To those we would say coats are equally fashionable and stylish, many of these having capes also attached—sometimes one, two or three, as the taste or inclination of the wearer may desire.

We have this season, for the first time, added a Millinery Department, and have spared neither trouble nor expense to make it a success. The result exceeds our most sanguine expectations. This department will be under the same management and conducted on the same principles that have always characterized our entire business. We shall keep everything in trimmed and untrimmed hats, novelties of every description. Having secured a trimmer noted for her artistic and skillful work, we are enabled to suit all tastes. We invite a careful inspection of our entire store. All welcome.
