THE OPINION TO STAND

No Re-hearing to be Had on the Chinese Question.

HOW THE NEWS WAS RECEIVED

No Money in Sight With which to Deport Chinese and no Order yet issued to Deport Them—At Least $6,000,000 Required to Send Them to their Native Land—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The decision of the supreme court sustaining the legality of the Geary act relative to the exclusion of the Chinese, was received here with mingled expressions of gratification and denunciation.

At the treasury department, up to the close of business yesterday afternoon, no orders had been issued for the deporting of the Chinese under the Geary act. The instructions under which collectors of internal revenue and United States marshals are now operating, direct them to make no arrest of unregistered Chinamen until further orders.

These orders may be given to-day after cabinet meeting or deferred for a longer period. Secretary Carlisle soon after he heard of the decision of the supreme court went to the executive mansion and had a conference with the president. He remained an hour or more. Attorney General Olney said until the line of action to be pursued by our government was mapped out he could say nothing on the subject except that the department of justice had no money available for deporting Chinese.

Conservative estimate places the amount necessary to deport the unregistered Chinese at $6,000,000. The suggestion is made in official circles here that Chinese unregistered may now go to the courts and ask to be allowed to register and remain in this country.

On this plan Solicitor General Aldrich, who received yesterday many compliments on his victory in the Chinese case, said: "An analysis of the law shows that: 'First. That the failure to have a certificate after the expiration of a year's residence puts the burden of proof on the Chinese resident laborer.

"Second. The judge before whom such labor is brought is to try primarily the question of fact of possession of certificate—that is whether the person before him has complied with a law enjoining a duty upon him.

"If he has not complied with such law, it is made the duty of such judge to order his deportation, unless he establishes clearly to the satisfaction of said judge that by reason of accident, sickness or other unavoidable cause, he has been unable to procure his certificate, or unless he establishes clearly to the satisfaction of the court, and by at least one credible white witness that he was a resident of the United States at the time of the passage of the act.

"If upon hearing it shall appear that he is entitled to a certificate, it shall be granted upon his paying the cost."

After the recess the court denied the motion for a re-hearing, so the opinion stands as announced.

Will Have to Take its Course.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The settlement of the legal controversy between the General Electric and Westinghouse companies will not be expedited by the supreme court of the United States, as asked by counsel. The Edison company which has been absorbed in the General Electric, brought suit for an injunction to restrain the Sawyer-Man company, a constituent part of the Westinghouse company, from manufacturing incandescent lights on the ground that the product of their works was an infringement of the patent granted to Edison, the validity of which had been sustained in an order proceeding. Chief Justice Fuller announced that the motion would be denied, thus leaving the case to take the regular course of procedure.

A Tennesseean Appointed.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Robert F. Roemer, Jr., of Tennessee, has been appointed member of the United States Indian Commission in the general land office have been accepted as follows: Henry H. Haines, of California, receiving clerk; Henry W. Sanford, of New York, chief of contest division, and M. F. O'Donoghue, of California, acting chief of mineral division.

The Infanta is Coming.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Infanta Eulalia is coming and the cloud that spread over international etiquette has partly cleared away. A cable message received by Secretary Gresham yesterday from Mr. Williams, the United States consul general at Havana, states that their royal highness, the Infantas, have sailed.

They were not Hall Brothers.

HARRISBURG, May 16.—The Pennsylvania victims of the green goods man who are held prisoners in the Raymond street jail, New York, for shooting George Phillips, the green goods man, are not Hall Brothers, of Steelton, as first reported. Their names are Edward K. and Robert K. Hoerner. One of them lives in Steelton and the other in this city.

Dozens of Passengers Drowned.

St. Petersburg, May 16.—Panic on a small ferryboat on the River Ufa, in the government of Ngorod, caused the drowning of dozens of passengers. The boat had become unmanageable and some terrified passengers jumped overboard, while others overcrowded a boat, which was swamped. Those who stayed on the boat were saved.

The Columbus Will Resume.

CHICAGO, May 16.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Columbian National bank, it was unanimously resolved to resume business at an early date, and committees were appointed to perfect the plan and to carry into effect the course determined upon.

Fell Down the Elevator Shaft.

New York, May 16.—James Burns, 27 years old, of No. 78 Little Twelfth street, was repairing an elevator in the stable, No. 222 West Twenty-first street, when he fell from the fourth floor to the cellar through the shaft. He was instantly killed.

Still Another Bank Goes Under.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 16.—The Farmers' and Merchants' State bank has suspended payment. The bank was a small concern and its collapse caused little or no excitement.

Only One Man was Killed.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 16.—Only one man was killed and three injured by the explosion in the Citizens' coal shaft here yesterday. The first report stated that five were killed.

FRANK G. ALMY HANGED

Christie Warden's Slayer Dies on the Scaffold.

A LONG CAREER OF CRIME ENDED.

In the Presence of Witnesses Invited by the Sheriff, the Heartless and Cowardly Murderer Pays the Death Penalty—A Sketch of the Atrocious Crime for which Almy was Executed.

CONCORD, N. H., May 16.—Frank G. Almy, the murderer of Christie Warden, who was sentenced to death over a year ago, was hanged in the prison here to-day in the presence of those invited by Sheriff Hurlbut to witness the execution.

The murder for which Almy paid the death penalty was a peculiarly daring and atrocious one. The victim was Miss Christie Warden, daughter of A. A. Warden, one of the most influential citizens of Concord, New Hampshire, and the crime was committed on the night of Friday, July 17, 1891.

Mr. Warden lives about a mile from the village. He had three daughters all of whom are bright and well educated. On the night of the murder Mrs. Warden, with her daughters Christie and Fanny, the former about 35 years of age, and the latter much younger, and Miss Louise Goodell, a young neighbor, spent the evening in the village. It was bright moonlight, so they did not start to walk home until 10 o'clock.

About midway between the center of the village, where the Dartmouth college buildings are, and the Warden residence is what is called the Vale of Temp. from the renowned vale of Greece. Here the road is lined by dense bushes, and a small brook runs beneath the roadway. As the Warden party reached this spot a man jumped from the bushes into the road in front of them.

They all recognized him at once, and as they did so he said: "You know me. I am Frank Almy. I have come 1,000 miles to see Christie, and will see her alone. Now, Mrs. Warden, you and the other girls go on and I won't harm you, but I will see Christie."

Then he drew from his breast a revolver, which he cocked. The four women stood petrified, and the stillness was broken only by Almy saying in a harsh, cold voice: "Mrs. Warden, you know me, I believe. I am Frank Almy, and you never knew me to break my word. Move on or I will shoot. Move on, I say!"

Mrs. Warden was dragged away by Miss Goodell, who had accompanied them, leaving Christie and Fanny with Almy. Christie, up to this time, had been so overpowered by fear that she was hardly able to move, she being tenderly to her sister, Almy, however, lost no time in carrying out his design. He seized Christie by the left shoulder, and locking his left arm around her neck, he placed the muzzle of his weapon against the breast of her sister and said:

"I have hated you, Fran, and unless you let go of Christie I will blow you into eternity."

The girl knew he meant all he said, but thinking only of her sister, she answered, "Shoot, then! I will not let her go."

What inspired the murderer not to fire his revolver into the body of the girl can only be explained by the fact that her feet struck uneven ground at this moment and she fell, nearly carrying her sister with her. This was Almy's opportunity, and grasping Christie around the waist, he dragged her to the bars, which he had previously lowered, and pulled her over into the brush beyond. Fanny followed close behind, despite Almy's threat to shoot. Meanwhile Christie had been struggling to escape, and Almy had his hands full in holding her. Nearly all of her clothing was torn off in the struggle.

Fanny's presence evidently disconcerted the murderer, for he raised his revolver and fired once, but the bullet missed its mark and she kept on. Again he fired, and she felt a strange sensation at her shoulder. She knew that the ball had struck her dress, but still she was untrifled. Suddenly a thought struck her. Perhaps if she should reach for a time, she might break the bullet's force and spare her sister until help could come to hand. So, concealing herself nearby, she paused. Then another shot was fired. Almy evidently had not noticed that she had moved and still aimed in the direction where he had last seen her.

Almy then fired three bullets into Christie Warden's body, killing her almost instantly, after which he fled. He was captured about four weeks later in Warden's barn after being wounded several times by the officers, one shot having broken his leg. His trial was a rather short one and resulted in the jury bringing in a verdict of murder in the first degree.

Besides the crime for which Almy was hanged he had several other murders to his credit and was known to have been guilty of any number of crimes of less importance, which, put together, made him one of the most cowardly and heartless criminals ever known in this country.

The Mother Failed to Return.

New York, May 16.—Lizzie Hughes, a domestic living with a family in Hoboken, came to this city to visit friends at No. 26 Cherry street. While passing through Cherry street a woman asked her to look her baby a minute. Lizzie did so, and as the mother failed to return she took the child home. The baby was turned over to Matron Travers at Police headquarters.
