Another Spread.

Michael Scheider, proprietor of the restaurant at the corner of Centre and White streets, last night tendered the Councilmen and other borough officials another supper. After adjourning in the Council chamber the fifteen Councilmen, Town Clerk Cookley, Supervisor Llewellyn and Chief of Police O'Hara marched in a body to Mr. Scheider's place. Three large tables were spread in the dining rooms on the second floor of the hotel. Mr. Scheider was voted an excellent entertainer.

OBIE'S OBSERVATIONS.

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.

There was a jolly trio in Squire Shoemaker's office yesterday afternoon and for hours the Justice was entertained by pathetic and amusing recitals of incidents in the Rebellion. The trio was composed of Jeff. Canfield, an old resident of Coal Castle, Thomas W. Taylor, of town, and William Timmons, of Lost Creek. The meeting was an accidental one and the three called at the office on pension business. Taylor had not seen Canfield since the second battle of Bull Run, when the latter and Timmons were carried off the battle field badly wounded. Canfield is white-haired and wrinkled, and his health is badly broken; Timmons shows the advance of years and is lame, yet he still has the appearance of a pretty strong and healthy man; Taylor is the best preserved of the three. The men served in the same regiment—the 48th Pa. Vol.—in the war, and from the exchange of reminiscences yesterday it was clear that they were close together many times during the fight to save the Union. Taylor was in Co. B, Timmons in Co. D, and Canfield in Co. E. The latter was born and has always lived in Coal Castle.

The Seranton Tribune, in referring to the death of Benjamin Hart on the railroad near that place, says that Hart worked in the mines at Priceburg from April 11th until last Saturday, when he quit and gave directions that the wages coming to him, after his board had been paid, be sent to his widowed mother in this town.

There is to be a great series of "Women's Congresses" held at Chicago during the fair. The purpose is to illustrate and celebrate the progress of women. But so far as the published programs enable us to judge not one thing is to be done to show the progress of women as women. There will be no showing made of an increased capacity on their part to make homes happier, to make their husbands stronger for their work in the world, to encourage high endeavor, to maintain the best standard of honor and duty, to stimulate, encourage uplift—which from the beginning of civilization has been the supreme feminine function. We need no congress to show us that women are more thoroughly educated than they once were, or that they can successfully do things once forbidden to them. But have wider culture and larger opportunities made them better wives and mothers? A Congress which should show that would make all men advocates of still larger endeavors for woman's advancement.

The Philadelphia Times is soliciting a series of articles from its many readers to ascertain why a man neglects his wife. In nine cases out of ten it is simply because he is a brute. Every true man knows that a good wife is always good. Nothing puts her out. She may have neuralgia, a tipsy cook, and twins who always cry at the same time, but she never looks cross nor speaks hastily, and she always sees that dinner is ready at the proper moment. The children may have the mumps, chicken pox and measles, and the plumbers may have stopped the water in midsummer because they are fixing the main pipe; the baker, butcher and candlestick maker may present their little bills with exasperating frequency, and with reproachful remark appended, but when the lord of creation comes home from his little excursion with Jones and Robinson, she always smiles beautifully and always has something nice ready. She never mentions disagreeable bills to the partner of her soul, and she never asks for money, but she is always nicely dressed. No dowdy wrapper on her. She makes everything herself—out of nothing—elegantly. She is charming; all men envy him; but she never flirts. She is always glad to have his men with them and to take her advice in everything. But most of all, when he comes home at 4 o'clock in the morning, walking very feebly, and with exceedingly weak knees, she never casts a doubt upon his statement that they're been taking stock, whatever may be the season of the year; and she always pities him for having to work so hard. Yes! verily, these are some of the many sound reasons why a man should neglect his wife. OER.

AHEAD AGAIN!

We have mounted another rung on the ladder of popularity. It is the Standard Grand this time, a drop-head, half-cabinet at a reasonable price. The head rises automatically to its place when the leaf is laid back. With a single movement the head disappears, the cabinet closes, and you have an elegant ornamental piece of furniture. Drop in and look at it. And while we are talking of cabinet work we might mention the different kinds of wood the Standard is made up in—Antique Oak, XVI Century Oak, Walnut, Hungarian Oak, Mahogany and Sycamore.

FINE DRESS GOODS

DRESS GOODS is such a bewildering topic that we will not attempt a full description, but give a partial outline, which you can fill in by a personal inspection. There are the plain and changable diagonals; plain, plaid, striped and invisible plaid serges; fancy mixtures in all sorts of odd weaves, dots, threads, cross-threads, hair-lines, lines here and there, many at a glance appearing alike, but upon examination are found entirely different. Our assortment of silks is complete—china silks, china surah, plain surah, bengaline, plain, figured and changable silks, in all the new shot effects. Full line of fancy braids to match any color of dress goods.

.....In Wraps

We find the most stylish and the prevailing mode to be the Cape, in some of its variations, single, double or triple capes. Some are plain, others very highly decorated, with fancy indecent braid, butterfly colors, or some full arrangement at the neck, so much approved this season by the feminine fancy. To some, coats only are the correct garment. To those we would say coats are equally fashionable and stylish, many of these having open also attached—sometimes one, two or three, as the taste or inclination of the wearer may desire.

We have this season, for the first time, added a Millinery Department, and have spared neither trouble nor expense to make it a success. The result exceeds our most sanguine expectations. This department will be under the same management and conducted on the same principles that have always characterized our entire business. We shall keep everything in trimmed and untrimmed hats, novelties of every description. Having secured a trimmer noted for her artistic and skillful work, we are enabled to suit all tastes. We invite a careful inspection of our entire store. All welcome.
