GERMAN ELECTORAL OUTLOOK. the Manifesto of the Centrists and How It is tingurated.

Bentax, May 20. - The electoral outlook ass been considerably cleared since the saue by Dr. Diber of the manifesto of the centre or Catholic party. The Inbored chraseology of the manifesto and its long winded sentences were calculated to impress the public, and have elicited just didicule from the press. But it did not all to inform the Government the price which it must pay for the support of the party in the new Reichstag.

The Germania, the Clerical organ, has mought it necessary to explain to the athoric electors that this declaration means, with the inviolability of the late free Windthorst's demands for the read-mission into Germany of the Jesuits and affiliated orders, full liberty to make terms with the Government on the Army

The Lieber faction of the Centre party is, in short, ready to negotiate with Chancellor von Caprivi on the basis of a repeal of the remaining religious disabili-ties, in return for its adhesion to the Government's military demands.

Protection to German agricultural interests is another, but subordinate, plank in the manifesto. The demand for a reform in taxation, the protest against monopol-ists and the suggested increase of the taxation on luxuries, contained in the manifesto, are also secondary considera-

The reactionary Conservative organs threaten that if the new Reichstag is intractable the Government will restrict the tranchise and thus get an obedient Parliament. The manifesto, in response to this threat, declares that the highest law is the Constitution, adding: "We hold fast to the character of the Empire as a Federal State. The prerogatives of the people are based upon universal, equal, direct and secret suffrage."

To some of the aristocrats signing the manifesto—men like Freysing, Hompesch, Buol, Bruel, Heereman and von Zundwyk -this language is foreign. Like puppers in Dr. Lieber's hands, they seem to have as sented to the declaration without ponder-ing upon what it involved.
