

STRUCK OUT BY DEATH

Many Ball Players Retired by Consumption's Frowns.

TAYLOR SAYS TRAINING KILLS.

Darby O'Brien Said to Be Dying of the Disease—The King's Return to Baseball. The Hot Throwing Game at St. Louis. Hurt by the Fall.

ESIDE Jefferson and Salvi, that other eminent actor, Michael J. Kelly, who has just left the grounds for the ground, seems to enjoy unusual advantages. Very few of America's electricians turn their versatile talents so easily into equally remunerative business as this one. He has been a champion pitcher for a month of the championship season had gone by in the nature of an ovation. He is one of the best ball players that the publishers of the profession. He is not in a scientific sense a wonderful ball player, but rather what is known as a winner. There are a score of players who have superior abilities as batters, fielders and base runners, and yet not one of the score outrives him as a valuable man to a team, because none of the lot knows so many tricks of the game and has the ability to use them when they will do the most good.

It is sometimes better to be lucky than rich. The New York club from a standpoint of recent gain cannot be classed as rich, but it has certainly fallen heir to several decided pieces of luck. It needed a steady catcher who could also "jolly" the team when the fast threatened, and it was fortunate in finding just such a man in Kelly. It needed a pitcher badly when tried pitchers were at a premium and could not be had even if they could be had. It needed a catcher who could also "jolly" the team when the fast threatened, and it was fortunate in finding just such a man in Kelly. It needed a pitcher badly when tried pitchers were at a premium and could not be had even if they could be had.

Baldwin's abilities are not disputed. His only failing is an ugly temper—a fault which has handicapped many other players, notably Mullane and McMahon. With Kelly to act as a sort of steam governor, Baldwin would be able to hold his temper in check while with the New Yorks.

The news that Darby O'Brien, the noted outfielder and captain of last year's Brooklyn team, is dying from consumption at his home in Florida comes with almost stunning surprise to the patrons of National league games throughout the circuit. Of all the baseball players from the 12 teams of 1899, O'Brien—broad chested, broad faced, broad minded—would have been among the last suspected of concealing the seeds of that dread disease in his system.

O'Brien's unfortunate condition calls up a fact that I noted last year—namely, the extraordinary number of deaths from consumption among baseball players. Flint, Whitney, Brantley, Fogarty and McCormick all went to the grave by reason of consumption. Kelly expressed to me recently his belief that overtraining had much to do with this strange attack of consumption upon baseball players. He says it means an early death to every man who fattens himself in winter by overindulgences and idleness and trains off from 50 to 80 pounds every spring before he is able to play a fair game of ball. He says he is right. If he is, baseball players should be apprised of this great danger which menaces them, so that those who value a long life may take proper care of themselves during winter months.

It is an established fact that the men who have remained the most years on the ball field are those who each spring had little training and reducing to do before they were in good condition for play. James O'Rourke, A. C. Anson, Jim White and John M. Ward are men who always reported to their clubs in the beginning of each season physically ready to go into a game and do good work without a day of "training down." They are the men who have best stood the wear and tear of a life on the ball field.

The fact that "Silver" King was given 10 days' notice of his release by the New York club on the same day that the club signed Baldwin recalls the fact that it was on account of King that Baldwin was arrested and jailed in St. Louis. The St. Louis club claimed that King was under contract with them in 1890. Baldwin went to St. Louis and became in a manner King's guest. The two were a great deal together. It was known that Baldwin had already signed with the Pittsburghs and that the latter club also wanted to take King away from St. Louis. Later on King did desert Von der Ahe and went to Pittsburgh. Then Von der Ahe had Baldwin arrested under the conspiracy act and sent to jail. On the preliminary trial the prosecution failed to make out a case, and Baldwin was discharged. Afterward he got service on Von der Ahe in Philadelphia and entered suit at that place for $10,000 damages for false imprisonment. The suit is still pending, the trial having been postponed several times at the defendant's request. It is quite generally believed that when it does come to trial Baldwin will get a verdict.

Meanwhile King's notice of release is likely to be recalled before the 19 days expire, and Pitcher Crane will then get the "grand bounce" instead.

The Vaughn-Brodie-Verden bat throwing incident in St. Louis was the first disgraceful act done on the ball field this season. Vaughn has the reputation of being quarrelsome. After all the trouble which resulted from his act of throwing the bat at St. Louis when the rules prohibited the play, he repeated it in Cincinnati on the St. Louis team's visit to that city. The Cincinnati spectators very promptly and fairly showed their contempt of the catcher's action, and the club did what it should have done before—put him under discipline.

The Boston club is playing its twenty-second consecutive season. No other club in the country can count up that many interrupted years of professional playing. By this way, the fans expressed by Chicago officials last winter that the World's fair would hurt baseball attendance in that city is being verified. Everything gives way to the fair. If it were not for the club's great Sunday crowds, they would have a good prospect before them of a big loss on the season.

STATE PRINTING INVESTIGATION.

Three Reports Presented to the Legislature Before Adjournment.

HARRISBURG, June 2.—Three reports were presented before the legislature adjourned yesterday by members of the committee appointed to investigate the state printing, one by the majority, represented by Senator Grady, one by Representative Skinner and Thornton, and a third by Senator Herring.

The majority report says that the testimony shows that there was considerable delay in the work of the state printing, and that the responsibility for the delay is divided between the superintendent and state printer. The delay in printing certain works, the report says, was due to the hasty manner in which copy was furnished. The testimony as to the responsibility for a book for the insurance department is so conflicting that the members signing the majority report are unable to ascertain what would be a proper charge therefor. In general, the state printer is commended for the charge of overcharging for work done. The law governing the public printing needs revision and the report so recommends.

The report of Representatives Skinner and Thornton says that the whole responsibility for the conduct of the public printing rest upon the superintendent, and that while it does not appear that any of the three who have held office during the eight years of the present state printer's term have been willfully negligent, the committee is of the opinion that a more vigilant and careful supervision of the work is necessary. Mr. Herring's report finds that there were in many cases unnecessary and unjustifiable delays in the printing of the articles had been discussed synodally and approved by the committee, which was then referred to the various classes. If a majority of the classes accept the constitution it will be so reported to synod, and that body will then declare it to be approved.

The committee on foreign missions presented its report through Rev. S. G. Wagner, of Allentown. The committee asks for $80,000 for the next three years to carry on the work in Japan; also for an immediate loan of $10,000, and that for general purposes $40,000 be appropriated for the first year, $30,000 for the second year and $30,000 for the third year.

The reports of the minutes of the several classes closed their discussions. The appeal of Philadelphia classes from the decision of the East Pennsylvania Synod concerning Trinity church, Slipkirkville, was sustained by a vote of 94 yeas to 48 nays. The Reformed synod adopted the recommendations of the board of foreign missions. Resolutions were passed urging the several synods to increase their contributions to foreign missions so as to yield not less than $50,000 per year for the next three years. The n. t. of a transfer of church property at Newport, Kan., to the synod of the interior, was left to a committee of five, to consist of three ministers and two laymen, who will dispose of the question.

To Be Heard Next Wednesday.

HARRISBURG, June 2.—The supreme court has fixed next Wednesday, in Philadelphia, as the day for hearing arguments in the building commission case. Mr. Sell asked that the argument take place at once, and Mr. Warwick did it take place on July 18, which the court peremptorily refused. Then the court withdrew for consultation and agreed upon the time and place, so notifying counsel. The case of Arnot vs. Reading Railroad Company was argued yesterday.

The case of Arnot vs. the Philadelphia and Reading railroad was also heard in the supreme court yesterday. No decision was rendered.

Caster Hanway's Funeral.

WEST CHESTER, June 2.—Yesterday the funeral of Caster Hanway, the hero of the "Christiana riots," took place at Longwood. It was very largely attended. Services were held at the home of his friend, Samuel Penneck, Kennett Square, where the Rev. Robert G. Gries was the officiating minister. At the grave services were read by Rev. Mr. Burrows. The pall-bearers were Robert Walters, Jr., M. P. Barnard, Albert Waters, Elwood Cox, Henry Marshall and Joseph J. Bulley.

His Injuries Were Fatal.

ALTOONA, June 2.—Another fatality has occurred at the scene of Tuesday's disastrous circus wreck. Yesterday while working with a wrecking crew to remove debris a rope broke which was attached to a tank for the purpose of pulling it up the bank. The tank fell on the chest of the unfortunate victim who was single, aged 38, and lived at Tyrone.

Keach Under Arrest.

LANCASTER, June 2.—William G. Keach, who is charged with causing the death of Kate Zelner in Philadelphia ten days ago by the administration of drugs, was arrested yesterday. He entered bail in the sum of $500 for his appearance. The offense was committed in Philadelphia, the probability is that he will be handed over to the Philadelphia authorities.

A Prominent Democrat Dead.

LANCASTER, June 2.—Jacob W. Leber, a prominent democrat, died yesterday at Ephrata. He was 92 years old. For over a quarter of a century he was a member of the democratic county committee. He was county commissioner from 1888 to 1891. He was prominent in the Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias.

Reading, June 2.—The General Synod of the Reformed church is preparing to adjourn. A number of the delegates left for their homes yesterday. A long session was taken up with the consideration of the constitution. After a little over half of the articles had been discussed synodally and approved by the committee, which was then referred to the various classes. If a majority of the classes accept the constitution it will be so reported to synod, and that body will then declare it to be approved.

Both Had Eczema In Its Worst Form

After Physicians Failed, Hood's Sarsaparilla Perfectly Cured.

Great mental agony is endured by parents who see their children suffering from diseases caused by impure blood, and for which there seems no cure. This is turned to joy when Hood's Sarsaparilla is resorted to, for it expels the foul humors from the blood, and restores the diseased skin to fresh, healthy brightness. Read the following from grateful parents:

"To C. H. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: "We think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most valuable medicine on the market for blood and skin diseases. Our two children suffered terribly with the same."

Worst Form of Eczema for two years. We had three physicians in that time, but neither of them succeeded in curing them or even in giving them a little relief. At last we tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a month both children were perfectly cured. We recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as a standard family medicine, and would not be without it." Mr. and Mrs. M.
