A MOB AT THE INQUEST

Wild Scene at the Fords Theatre Investigation.

COL AINSWORTH THREATENED

Charlet Barnes Accuses the Chief of Murdering His Brother, and a Scene of the Wildest Confusion Ensues-Instructions to Witnesses from the Secretary of Washington, June 13 .- The inquest over the body of J. A. Chapin, one of the victims of the Ford Theatre horror, was resumed at 11 o'clock this morning. Because of the sensational developments of yesterday, the hall in which the proceedngs are held was crowded. Just at 11 o'clock yesterday Col. Alusworth, chief of the Record and Pension Pavilion, who has been placed on the defensive by implied accusations that he was responsible that he was responsible for the presence of clerks in the old building, entered the hall and engaged in a short consultation with his attorney, Mr. R.

Post Perry, of this city.

About a hundred persons were present, most of them the clerks of the Record and Pension d vision, with a sprinkling of War Department officials, builders, contractors and policemen.
Dr. Shuffer, the deputy coroner of the district, conducted the inquest. The jury, which was sworn in Saturday, consisted of B. H. Warner, C. J. Kellong, J. A. Sibley, Frank L. Hanvey, Wm. Ayer, fr., and Charles F. Schneider, and Included archiects and builders.

The Deputy Coroner called the jury to order, and prefaced the investigation by a statement that, holding an investigation in a public hall was something of an ex-periment, and be admonished the people periodic, and he admonished the people bresent to keep perfect quiet. There was nobody on trial, he said. The jury would simply endeavor to get at the facts in the case. He stated that the inquest was to be held over the remains of J. A. Chapin, whose body had been selected for that pur-

The statement of a witness that the clerks held themselves in abject fear of Ainsworth was responded to by a round of appliause. A letter from Secretary Lamont was read, giving assurance that no clerk need fear dismissal on account of his testimony. Benjamin Reiss, a clerk o' Class I, em-ployed in the old theatre building was the first witness called. He had been excused, he said, at 9 o'clock on the morning of the disaster on account of business, and was not present when the building fell-lie had not seen any area roped off as dan-gerous inside the old theatre. For several ears he had heard it rumored that the building, particularly the rear wall (which did not fall), was unsafe. He had heard no talk about the danger-ous condition of the building within a

Charles Troutman, also a clerk in the old theatre, knew of no protest having been sent by employes in the building to be authorities about the dangerous conlition of the building.

He had been warned by J. W. Webb, in charge of the first door, not to approach in area on that floor, which had been roped off while the excavation was going The day before the accident he had seen Col. Ainsworth examining the roped-off space minu ely, and he thought he went lown stairs to see the excavation.

Col. Answorth came nearly every day while the excavation was going on. The old employes of the building had told him it was a -hell and a "death trap."

Smith Thompson, another clerk in the theatre building, who made a bitter speech denouncing Col. Ainsworth at the relief meeting on Friday, testified that there was no fire escape on the building and only one door for entrance and exit. He said that the clerks had frequently been warned to go up and down stairs on tip toes by messengers of Col. Ainsworth as a matter of general safety.

He saw no pillars or props used in holding up the first floor while the excavation was going on.

It was a matter of common talk that this work was danverous and a fellow clerk had warned him not to go there.

At the afternoon assion of the inquest a well dressed man walked forward and in a voice trembling with passion, shaking als fist in Col. Ainsworth's face, showted: "You murdered my brother and you shan't sit there intimidating these wit-The man was Charles Barnes, whose brother was a victim of the disaster. After the uproar thus occasioned had quieted Mr. Davis, representing Col. Ainsworth started to speak, when a dozen excited de-partment cierks rose to to their feet and shouted for him to sit down.

The lieutenant of police present en-deavored to quiet the outbreak, but his voice was as ineffectual as it would have been in a creione.

The excitement grew in intensity.

Nearly every cierk present who was employed in the old theatre building was on its feet shouting. At first they only called "Sit down; shut your mouth;" but finally ome frenzied individual cried "hang aim, hang him."

On that occasion, when Mr. Barton declared it would not go on, the court said that it would. Mr. Barton said he could not prepare the case in that time. The court said he'd have to or get out of it. Half a mile from the spot where the mitiny broke out the eleven guards over-took the fugitives and ordered them to surtook the ingitives and ordered them to sur-render. The convicts who had arms ans wered with a volley, which wounded two men and killed three horses. The return volleys of the guards killed thirty nine But after thinking the matter over, Mr. Barton decided that it was a great deal easier to gain his point by soft words than convicts. The eleven other convicts es
