P. M. CHURCH.

The ceremonies of the day in the Primitive OBE. Methodist church were on a more extensive scale than usual. In the morning the lesson for the day was read by the pastor and cholars, followed by an impressive discourse on the same subject by the Rev. J. Proude. In the afternoon the services consisted of inging and recitations, the latter being dolivered in an excellent manner. A service of song entitled, "Voices of Spring," was rendered by the scholars, with the assistance of the church choir. One of the main features of the decorations, which were very elaborate, was the erection of a lighthouse nearly twenty feet high, with a ministure ship upon the ocean.
