SCHOLARS GRADUATE,

Very Pleasing Exercises in Ferguson's Theatre.

A VERY LARGE AUDIENCE

The Class Was the Largest That Has Ever Graduated From the Grammar Schools of This Town—A Lengthy Programme Rendered With Excellent Success.

THE sixth annual commencement of the graduating classes of Shenandoah's grammar schools took place in Ferguson's theatre last evening under the direction of Superintendent M. P. Whitaker and Misses Lizette M. O'Connell, Anna Deugler and Bridget A. Burns, the teachers of the classes. The attendance was very large and there was not a spare seat in the theatre for the late arrivals. The advance sale of seats was very large, showing that the citizens continue taking a great interest in the annual public school exercises.

The class was the largest that ever graduated from the grammar schools in this town. The class numbered 66, of which 39 were girls and 17 boys. All the graduates were attired in white and presented a very fine appearance which seated on the terrace platform which had been erected at the rear of the stage. Superintendent Whitaker occupied a seat to the left of the graduates and announced the members of the programme. To the right Messrs. Conry Gallagher, Hanna, Burke, Lynch, O'Hearn, Bennett, Manley, Ogden, Gable, Trezise, Brennan and Beddall, members of the School Board, were seated.

The stage decorations consisted of American flags at each side and the only flowers displayed were those presented to the graduates by the friends in the audience during the exercises. Many large and beautiful baskets were in view before the close. Miss Daisy Hess presided at the piano.

The programme was an exceedingly lengthy one, comprising fifty-seven numbers, and it was 11 o'clock when the "good night" chorus was rendered.

Everything passed off as smoothly as good management could make it and at no time was there an embarrassing feature. All the graduates did remarkably well and the audience was so much interested that not one left the theatre until the final bows were made and the graduates marched off the stage. It was one of the most successful commencements ever held here and reflected much credit upon instructors and pupils. All the numbers were heartily applauded and the graduates acknowledged the compliments very gracefully. Three of the graduates are deserving of special mention for the excellent manner in which they acquitted themselves of the tasks before them. They were Miss Ruby E. Yost and Katie P. Sheehy, each and Anthony J. Monaghan. Each were warmly encoered and narrowly escaped being called to the footlights the third time. The valedictory of Miss Maud A. Keiper was very graceful.

The following rendition of the programme was made: Chorus, "Song of Greeting," class; essay, "The necessity of having a good purpose," Ella E. Creary; declamation, "A lucky horse shoe," Elizabeth E. Beck; essay, "Moral courage," Annie B. Bartsch; declamation, "The learned Negro," Edward T. Johnson; chorus, "Gaily our best glides," class; essay, "Birds," Sophia M. Beck; declamation, "The stylish church," Mary E. Lechleitner; solo and chorus, "Song of the roses," Misses Bell, Stank, Powell, Dovey and Leitzel; and Messrs. Grabler, Cather, Rogers and Malone; essay, "Behind Time," Bridget F. Maher; declamation, "Where do you live?" Kate L. Conville; chorus, "Courage," class; essay, "The tongue," James J. Stack; declamation, "A leap for life," Gertrude A. Reese; essay, "Electricity," Wacław Cyszewski; declamation, "The origins of scandal," Jennie E. Fitzgerald; essay, "Method in daily life," George Johnson; declamation, "Worthless Robbins Green," Annie B. Feeler; trio, "The sunbeams are glancing," Misses O'Hara, Finney and Young; declamation, "Elizabeth Zane," Gertrude A. Levine; essay, "A taste for reading," Emily L. Jones; declamation, "The strange request," Annie G. Kane; chorus, "The world is what we make it," class; declamation, "Count Pulaski's banner," Mary C. Sullivan; essay, "The battle of Chickamauga," Isaac N. Griffiths; declamation, "The green flag at Spottsylvania," James C. Higgins; solo, "Swabian Maiden" and "In the gloaming," Ruby E. Yost; essay, "A trip to the World's Fair," M. Agnes Cantlin; declamation, "The irrepressible Yankee," Benjamin F. Becher; essay, "Advantages of a good education," Jimmie Davis; declamation, "The cyclone," Michael D. Kough; chorus, "The moon is beaming o'er the lake," class; essay, "The reward of patience," F. May Bolly; declamation, "Advice to a young tradesman," Peter H. Scanlan; declamation, "Bessie's Christmas eve lark," Elizabeth B. Balmridge; essay, "Flowers," John J. Conry; solo and chorus, "Beautiful summer," Nora M. Stanton and class; declamation, "His mother's songs," George S. Roxby; essay, "A ray of sunshine," Annie C. Watson; declamation, "Dead name unknown," Harriet B. James; essay, "The liberty bell," Malcol L. Straub; double quartette, "Far away," Misses Stank, Powell, Dovey, Leitzel, and Messrs. Grabler, Cather, Rogers and Malone; declamation, "The spoiled statue," Kate G. McDermott; essay, "A summer morning," Boulah B. Bower; declamation, "The bishop

OVER HALF A MILLION

50,000 VOTES YESTERDAY

Miss Baird Still Retains the Lead and Has Nearly 100,000 Votes to Her Credit—Miss Stein is Second With Over 100,000—Still Fouring In.

THE flood gates are open and now the votes for the leading contestants in the HERALD's popular public school teachers' contest are flowing in upon the editor by the fifty thousands.

The spirit shown in the affair is amusing and the great struggle is attracting attention throughout this and adjoining counties. The first thing people ask when they alight from the trains is, "What is the latest about the HERALD's teachers' contest?"

It is the greatest competition of its kind ever held in this country and all records of votes polled in similar contests have been smashed and buried out of sight. The famous 100,000 figures which told the result of the Philadelphia Press European teachers' contest last summer are way in the rear of the grand total which appears in this column to-day.

Over 50,000 votes were polled yesterday afternoon and the grand total figures have been forced above the 500,000 notch and still the votes are coming in by the ten thousands. Where the contest will stop no one is able to tell. Half a million was considered the highest possible figure, but that calculation has now been knocked out and the contest editor has given up guessing.

One would think that the great poll of votes made yesterday would change the position of at least one of the contestants, but it didn't. Miss Baird still retains first place, Miss Stein second and Miss Wasley third, and Miss Baird has increased her tremendous lead upon Miss Stein. The leader now has almost as many votes as the management expected to poll from all quarters during the entire contest.

It is impossible to describe the interest evinced in the contest by the public. The Reading Railroad dilemma, the parboiling of the anarchists and the collision of the British war ships "Victoria" and "Camperdown" have commanded much attention, but the one great topic of discussion is the progress and probable result of this contest.

While Messrs. Swigard and Hancock, the Reading Railroad officials, were in town on their tour of inspection yesterday, almost the first question they asked was, "How many votes have been polled in the HERALD's teachers' contest now?" and when told nearly half a million they were amazed.

Mr. C. H. Lewis stamps as utterly false the report that he has been urging the friends of Miss Baird and Stein in this contest with a view to profiting by commission on the sales of papers. The public is warned against wild and vindictive and jealousy to throw distrust upon the contest in the closing hours.

RULE FOR INJUNCTION

Supervisor Welsh Against the Beaver Meadow Company.

SUIT COMMENCED TO-DAY

The Supervisor Says The Beaver Meadow, Hazleton, Mahanoy City and Shenandoah Railway Company Has No Right to Lay Its Road Through Mahanoy Township.

SUPERVISOR WELSH to-day secured a rule for injunction in behalf of the township of Mahanoy and against The Beaver Meadow, Hazleton, Mahanoy and Shenandoah Railway Company. The suit is the outgrowth of the company's attempt to construct its road through the township on a right of way granted after a right of way was granted to the Lakeside Railway Company.

The supervisor sets forth in his bill of complaint that among the public roads and highways in Mahanoy township is the public road leading eastward from the eastern line of the borough of Shenandoah to a point in said township known as Fowlers' or Yatesville. That The Beaver Meadow, Hazleton, Mahanoy and Shenandoah Railway Company has entered on and occupies the aforesaid public road and has commenced the construction of a railway thereon without the consent of the local authorities of said township. That the complainant, the supervisor, has notified the company to cease the occupancy of said public road and to stop the construction of a railway thereon, but up to this time said notice has been ignored.

After setting forth these and other formal details the supervisor asks the court to grant a preliminary injunction against the railway company, its officers, agents and employees restraining them from occupying or disturbing the said public road, or from constructing a railway thereon.

The papers in the case were presented to the court at Pottsville to-day by J. H. Pomeroy, Esq., the solicitor for the supervisor, and a rule for an injunction was granted, the court making the following order: "And now, to wit, June 29, 1893, the court having heard the foregoing bill in equity, the same is directed to be filed, and service thereon on the respondents shall be made by copy. And it is further ordered and directed that a rule for a preliminary injunction be granted as fully and entirely as is prayed for in said bill, returnable July 6, 1893.

More people, adults and children, are troubled with constipation than with any other ailment. Dr. Henry Baxter's Man-drake Bitters will cure constipation and prevent the diseases which result from it. It is a natural convenience, and the opportunities afforded in a social way are unsurpassed. The National Guard could not select a more suitable place to encamp than Lakeside, when everything is taken into consideration.

State Guard Encampment. It is amusing to read the silly trash published by a county seat exchange as to the availability of Pottsville as a suitable place to hold the encampment of the Eighth regiment. The reasons offered are especially ridiculous to the members of the state guard, who are well acquainted with the inadequate facilities offered by a prominent member of the Eighth regiment yesterday, the only representative was informed that the only person in this county that is even thinking of Pottsville in reference to the encampment is the editor of the Republican. He stated he was heartily in favor of Lakeside park, and in this respect he voiced the sentiment of a majority of his comrades. The necessity, he said, of putting the camp grounds in an condition, obtaining sufficient water supply, and many other things necessary for the convenience of the soldier boys, should the encampment take place at Schuylkill's popular summer resort, would all be done away with. No other place in the state offers so many natural conveniences, and the opportunities afforded in a social way are unsurpassed. The National Guard could not select a more suitable place to encamp than Lakeside, when everything is taken into consideration.

The Best in the World. Senator Henry C. Nelson, of New York, writes: "On the 27th of February, 1887, I was taken with a violent pain in the region of the kidneys. I suffered such agony that I could hardly stand up. As soon as possible I applied two Alcock's Porous Plasters, one over each kidney, and laid down. In an hour, to my surprise and delight, the pain had vanished and I was well. I wore the plasters for a day or two as a precaution, and then removed them. I have been using Alcock's Porous Plasters in my family for the last ten years, and have always found them the quickest and best remedy for colds, strains and rheumatic affections. From my experience I believe they are the best plasters in the world."
