In addition to the above comes the gratify ing news that West Shonandoah colliery, which has been idle for the past two months, will resume operations on Monday. This report was semi official and when spoken to on the subject last night some of the officials of the colliery said they had received no orders to secure the return of the mules, which were distributed among the other collients when the place shut down. They said, however, that they too had heard the rumor and ex sected orders to day.

If this report should be confirmed all the collieries in this district will be in operation for the first time in several months.
