THE GREAT THE FAIR.

Twelve Bodies Recovered from the Ruins Thus Far.

BEYOND ALL RECOGNITION

It is believed, however, that there are many bodies lying beneath the network of pipes in the Keined Cold Storage Building.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

CHICAGO, July 12, 1893.

HE dead by the fire on Monday night are now known to be twelve, while two sufferers are lying in the Emergency hospital gasping away the few hours of life which are yet allotted to them. The numbered dead include those who died in the hospital from their injuries and the unfortunates whose charred and blackened trunks were taken from the mass of debris now adorning the space near the Sixty-fourth street entrance, where on Monday stood a handsome whitewashed structure. The unknown dead will probably never be known, but efforts are being made by the aid of powerful machinery, to lift the network of freezing pipes, allowing the firemen to delve still deeper for the remains which, it is conceded by all, are certainly wedged below. The following list is explanatory of the fatalities thus far known:

James Fitzpatrick, 24 years old, captain Engine Company No. 2; John H. Freeman, lieutenant Company No. 1; William Hartmann, Engineer Company No. 1; N. Deming, Engineer Company No. 1; John McElrick, Engineer Company No. 1; John Cahill, Truck Company No. 8; Paul Schroeder, Truck Company No. 8; Burton E. Page, captain Truck Company No. 3; Charles Purvis, lieutenant Engine Company No. 4; John A. Smith, driver, Engine company No. 4.

Fatally injured—L. J. Frank, Engine Company No. 1, expected to die today; Sigmund Norrman, Engine Company No. 3, cannot live twelve hours. The four Columbian Guards who were reported in the list of missing have been heard from.

At daylight yesterday Marshal King and twenty laborers were at work on the ruins. They used their implements well and by 7 o'clock three bodies were recovered from the ruins, but they were so badly charred and disfigured as to make recognition absolutely impossible. One thing seems quite evident, however, and that is that the bodies discovered are not the remains of firemen. The locality in which they were found seems to preclude the possibility. All the firemen who lost their lives were huddled in that dreadful fire trap at the top of the shaft, and their bodies fell somewhere within the small circle surrounding the smokestack.

Those recovered yesterday were evidently not the remains of any who jumped or fell from the tower, because they were found at a somewhat remote distance from this point, and under a mass of steam pipe and machinery that must have fallen from above. That gives color to the fearful apprehension that the rescue of any by no means the only ones who fell victims to the flames, and the public is disposed to doubt the declarations that employes and visitors were out of the building before the conflagration had reached a dangerous stage.

The search work went on with but one short intermission until shortly after 4 o'clock, when one body was brought to the surface. Like the others it was charred beyond recognition. The only remnant of clothing left was a patch of linen the size of a hand, which clung to the small of the back of the victim. At 5 o'clock the planks of the workmen struck on another body. It was found just under the edge of the network of pipes, and was extricated with difficulty. The carcass was broiled all to pieces, and an identification was out of the question, it was taken to the morgue.

This makes the total number of bodies recovered twelve. There are reports to be heard to the effect that Henry Geduldig, foreman of the painters in the Cold Storage building is missing, together with a carpenter, John Campbell, but as many others who were thought to have been lost have turned up it is presumed that these men have escaped.

Marshall Murphy is convinced that there are more bodies in the ruins. He said: "We have accounted for the firemen and a fireman, but what of those carpenters and painters? The joint was full of men when I went up there, and I noticed particularly two men carrying little blast stoves used in soldering. They, as was the case with the carpenters, did not realize the extent of the danger, and were standing around."

In regard to the reports he had made on the unsafe condition of the building, the chief said guardedly: "I corresponded in my official capacity with Mr. Burnham, director of the works. I have sent him three letters in regard to the condition of the building and have reported to him after each one of the four fires, and recommended that something be done at once to prevent a recurrence of the affair."

After the fire broke out the display of practical human sympathy for the widows and children of the brave men who died at the post of duty. Subscriptions and offers of substantial help came in all day to President Higginbotham, who sat at his desk in his shirt sleeves saying little about the calamity, but working hard. He acted as trustee of the relief fund and reported that the total amount of the subscription amounts to $6,000, but it will not stop there by any means. The spirit of aid for

A Secret Pension Inspector Visits Town.

COMES AND GOES QUIETLY

His Visit Will Very Likely Cause a Falling Off in the Number of Pensioners in This Vicinity When the Next Pay-day Comes Around.

It has just leaked out that a secret pension inspector has been at work in this town and that many less checks will be received here from the pension department during the next quarter than were secured last. And it would not be surprising if this reduction should be followed by some sensational disclosures.

There is no doubt that the talk which has been going on in town for some time past regarding the amounts certain people have been receiving from the government in the form of pensions for apparently no reason has at last reached the ears of the government and if the inspector who has been here heard and substantiated one-half of the reports there will be some queer house and record cleaning. The gentleman who gives the information of the inspector's visit here says there will be.

Four informants is correct the inspector has learned that several people are receiving pensions of from $6 to $12 per month for injuries or infirmities contracted long after the war ceased; and that late and hearty men who make good wages and scarcely complain of sickness are getting the cream under the new law, while the most deserving, from a pecuniary standpoint as well as on account of injuries sustained in the war, get only from $2 to $4 under the old law.

There is one case, it is said, in town where a soldier who served in three different regiments during the war, who suffered from typhoid fever in his first term and returned home broken in health; was wounded at Antietam during his second enlistment; was taken prisoner; served nine months in that Southern hell-hole—Andersonville; became a mere skeleton and completely broken down in health—and is now getting only $2 per month, while a big, hearty man with no other ailment than slight deafness, is drawing the monthly competence of $12.

It is said that the first notification the unworthy parties will receive will be the return of their vouchers unpaid.

It is hoped the inspector has done his work well and that if any discrimination is made it will be in favor of those who served and suffered.

The Pension Bureau has notified a great many pensioners throughout the entire country, who are drawing pensions under the Department Pension act, that payment of their pensions will be suspended for sixty days, during which time they are required to show cause why they should continue to draw pensions. The testimony necessary to prevent their being dropped from the rolls is the certificate of a reputable physician, attested by two witnesses to the effect that the pensioner is totally precluded from active labor owing to injuries or disability out of the result of his own vicious habits.

In case no attention is paid to the department notification within sixty days, the pensioner will be dropped from the rolls. On the other hand, should the necessary certificate, properly drawn up and signed, be forwarded to the bureau, the pensioner will be requested to appear before the local board of medical examiners for examination as to his condition.

It is estimated at the pension office, although the work has but recently begun here, that something over 1000 suspensions have already been made.

THE WATER WORKS.

Their Progress Considered by Council Last Night.

A LARGE FORCE WORKING

The Implications Point to an Uninterrupted Completion of the Plant—Contractors Quinn & Kerns Make Arrangements for an Official Inspection.

THE Borough Council recently decided that it would meet on the second Tuesday of each month to consider only matters in connection with the construction of the public water works and the first meeting under that arrangement was held last evening. Councilmen Gable, VanDusen, Kane, Dougherty, James, Finney, McGuire, Oakley, Gaffigan, Gallagher and Scheily being present.

After exchanges of opinions on the progress of the work the meeting considered two bills, one for $1,250 in favor of Quinn & Kerns, the contractors, and another for $250 presented by Mr. A. J. Womelsdorf, who is supervising engineer for the borough. A certificate by Mr. Womelsdorf that the charges were correct accompanied the bills and they were paid.

There are now eighty men employed in preparing a site for the storage reservoir which is to receive the water pumped from the valley and they are making good progress with the work. It now looks as if the undertaking will be pushed to completion as fast as the contractors can make it go. Only one thing is now in the way, and that is a public road which passes over a piece of land which is required as a site for the pumping station.

It will be necessary to have the course of this public road changed and the permission of the court must be secured to do that. Before adjourning last night Council instructed Borough Solicitor Pomeroy to prepare the necessary petition for an application to the court and Councilman VanDusen was appointed a committee of one to secure the consent of the parties who have an interest in the road to a change of its course.

On Sunday, 23rd inst., upon invitation of Contractors Quinn & Kerns, the Councilmen will visit the scene of operations in a body and the work done and steps contemplated will be fully explained to them. The trip will be made in carriages, starting from the borough building.

A mistake will often make a cripple for life. A bottle of Henry & Johnson's America and Oil Liniment at hand, will not prevent the mistake, but used immediately it will save being a cripple.

OBSE'S OBSERVATIONS

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.

In conversation with a Catawissa farmer the other day, he explained to me a new scheme that is being used to swindle the farmers. A few days ago he received a circular containing a description of a manufactured product which is called "gilt-edge butter compound." It is alleged by this substance the farmer can double the quantity of butter obtained from a single cow or from any number of animals.

The process is a very simple one. You take a pint of fresh milk and as much of the "compound" as you can heap on a silver dime. These you put into a churn together with one pound of soft butter and you agitate the mixture for a short time, at the end of which it is found to be transformed into two pounds of good butter. How could any farmer resist the temptation to double his output of butter by such an easy means?

CIVIL SERVICE.

The Second Examination to Take Place Next Month.

The second examination, under the civil service laws, for this place, for the grade of clerks and carriers in the Shenandoah post office, will take place in the High School building on Saturday, August 5th, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m.

The examination for the clerk and carrier grades will be similar, and will consist of lessons in the following branches: Orthography, copying, penmanship, arithmetic, (fundamental rules, fractions and percentage), elements of the geography of the United States and reading addresses. Physical tests also form a part of the examination. Applicants for the grade of clerks must not be under 18 years of age; those for the carrier grade not under 21 nor more than 40. No application will be received after the 17th day of the present month.

The examinations are open to all reputable citizens who may desire to enter the postal service without regard to their political affiliations. All such citizens, whether Democrats or Republicans, or either, are invited to apply. They will be examined, graded and certified with entire impartiality, and wholly without regard to their political views or to any consideration save their efficiency, as shown by the grades they obtain in the examination. For application blanks, full instructions and information relative to the duties and salaries of the different positions apply at the post office to H. E. Deagler, secretary of the board.
