RELIABLE HAND LAUNDRY,

LONDON, July 29.-Much space on the editorial pages of the Landon dailies is devoted to comment on the fight in the house of commons. The Timessays: "Mr. Gladstone must feel some qualms when he looks upon the working out of his latest." which Mr. Chamberlain was assailed. The political manners of the president of the house might have been left to serve an example of what would occur in the Irish legislature should Mr. Gladatone succeed in establishing that preposterous body."

The Standard says: "We had all, without distinction of party, believed that discrete leaves that disorder in our legislature never would degenerate to blows. We cannot longer flat-ter ourselves thus. We must in the future enounce the privilege of observing from a innacle of conscious dignity the affrays in the colonial assemblies and the broils in the French chamber. The episode must have been unspeakably painful to Mr. Gladstons. His bitterest opponent must allow that he has sought to maintain a high standard of courtesy and dignity in regret that the most illustrious statesman of the age was exposed to such insults as those flung by Mr. Chamberlain. To compare Mr. Gladstone with the impious Herod at the awful close of his career met the warmest approval of the opposition. To refer to Mr. Chamberlain as "Judas" was an outrage to be resented with violence. It is noteworthy that, whereas Mr. O'Connor apologized, there was no hint of apology or retraction from Mr. Chamberlain and his abettors. The people of the country will resent the insult in a manner which may cause Mr. Chamberlain and his friends regret for the rest of their

The Daily Chronicle (Unionist) says that Mr. Chamberiain must bear the responsibility for the scene. "While Mr. Gladstone's epithet (devil's advocate) for Mr. Chamberlain was playful and perfectly good natured," says The Chronicle, "the other was uncourteous and unwise and issued from a bosom in which Mr. Gladstone's shaft was still rankling."

The Daily Telegraph (Unionist) finds in Mr. Gladstone the cause of the trouble. "The members of the opposition," it says, "were justly exasperated by the brutal despotism under which they had suffered for a month, and were further provoked beyond endurance by the usual insolent
