CHAPTER L.

THE BOY WITH A LAME BACK. A young fellow who is pretty smart on general principles and who is always in good humor went into a store the other morning limping and seemed to be broke up generally. The proprietor asked him wouldn't sit down, and he said he couldn't very well, as his back was lame. He seemed discouraged, and the proprietor asked him what was the matter. "Well," said he as de put his hand on his pistol pocket and groaned, "there is no encouragement for a boy to have any fun nowadays. If a boy tries to play an innocent joke, he gets kicked all over the house." The storekeeper asked him what has nappened to disturb his hilarity. He said he had played a joke on his father and had been limping ever since.

"You see, I thought the old man was a little spry. You know he is no spring chicken yourself, and though his eyes are not what they used to be yet he can see a pretty girl further than I can. The other day I wrote a note in a fine hand and addressed it to him, asking him to meet me on the corner of Wisconsin and Milwaukee streets at 7:80 on Saturday evening, and signed the name of 'Daisy' to it. At supper time Pa he was all shaved up and had his hair plastered over the bald spot, and he got on some clean cuffs and said he was p g to the consistory to initiate some candidates from the country, and he might not be in till late. He didn't eat much supper and hurried off with my umbrella. winked at Ma, but didn't say anything. At 7:30 I went down town, and he was standing there by the postoffice corner in a dark place. I went by him and said, Hello, Pa, what are you doing there? He said he was waiting for a man. I went down street, and pretty soon I went up on the other corner by Chap-man's, and he was standing there. You see, he didn't know what corner 'Daisy was going to be on and had to cover all four corners.

'He gave me a dollar "I saluted him and asked him if he hadn't found his man yet, and he said no; the man was a little late. It is a mean boy that won't speak to his Pa when he sees him standing on a corner. I went up street, and I saw Pa cross over by the drug store in a sort of a hurry, and I could see a girl going by with a waterproof on, but she skited right along, and Pa looked kind of solemn, the way he does when I ask him for new clothes. I turned and came back, and he was standing there in the doorway, and I said: 'Pa, you will catch cold if you stand around waiting for a man. down to the consistory and let me lay for the man.' Pa said, 'Never you mind; you go about your business, and I will attend to the man.'

"Well, when a boy's Pa tells him to never you mind and looks spunky, my experience is that a boy wants to go right away from there, and I went down street. I thought I would cross over and go up the other side and see how long he would stay. There was a girl or two going up ahead of me, and I see a man hurrying across from the drug store to Van Pelt's corner. It was Pa, and as the girls went along and never looked around Pa looked mad and stepped into the doorway. It was about 8 o'clock then, and Pa was tired, and I felt sorry for him, and I went up to him and asked him for half a dollar to go to the Academy. I never knew him to shell out so freely and so quick. He gave me a dollar, and I told him I would go and get it changed and bring him back the half a dollar, but he said I needn't

"As I turned the corner and saw him standing there shivering, waiting for the man, my conscience troubled me, and I told a policeman to go and tell Pa that 'Daisy' had been suddenly taken with worms and would not be there that evening. I peeked around the corner, and Pa Well, when I went home, the joke was so I guess she was mad at me for treating Pa that way. I heard Pa come home about 11 o'clock, and Ma was real kind to him. She told him to warm his feet, cause they were just like chunks of ice. Then she asked him how many they initiated in the consistory, and he said six, and then she asked him if they initiated Daisy' in the consistory, and pretty soon I heard Pa snoring. In the morning he took me into the basement and gave me the hardest talking to that I ever had with a bed slat. He said he knew that I wrote that note all the time, and he ty soon if I don't look out. There! thought he would pretend that he was looking for 'Daisy' just to fool me. go and split the kindling wood." 'Twas looking for 'Daisy' just to fool me. looking for 'Daisy' just to fool me.

"It don't look reasonable that a man would catch epizootic and rhenmatism just to fool his boy, does it? What did he give me the dollar for? Ma and Pa don't seem to call each other pet any more, and as for me they both look at me as though I was a hard citizen. I am going to Missouri to take Jesse James' place. There is no encouragement for a boy here. Well, good morning. If Pa comes in here asking for me, tell him that you saw an express wagon going to the morgue with the remains of a pretty boy who acted as though he died from concussion of a bed slat on the pistol pocket. That will make Pa feel sorry Oh, he has got the awfulest cold.

And the boy limped out to separate

CHAPTER II. THE BAD BOY AT WORK AGAIN. Of courseall boys are not full of tricks, but the best of them are. That is, those who are the rendiest to play innocent jokes and who are continually looking for chances to make Rome how! are the most apt to turn out to be first class busi ness men. There is a boy in the Seventh ward who is so full of fun that sometimes it makes him ache. He is the same boy who not long since wrote a note to his father and signed the name "Daisy" to it and got the old man to stand on a corner for two loans waiting for the girl. After that scrape the old man told the boy that he had no objection to inno cent jokes, such as would not bring re proach upon him, and as long as the bo confined himself to jokes that would simply cause pleasant laughter and not cause the finger of scorn to be pointed at a parent he would be the last one to kick. So the boy has been for three weeks trying to think of some innocent joke to play on his father. The old man is getting a little near sighted, and his teeth are not as good as they used to be, but the old man will not admit it. Nothing that anybody can say can make him own up that his eyesight failing or that his teeth are poor, and he would bet $100 that he could see as far as ever. The boy knew the falling and made up his mind to demonstrate to the old man that he was rapidly getting off his base. The old person is very fond of sticks of macaroni, such as is used on accept the reduction. nursing bottles and other rubber utensils. It was white and nice, and the boy's mind was made up at once. He bought a yard of it and took it home. When the macaroni was cooked and ready to be served, he hired the table girl to help him play it on the old man. They took a pair of shears and cut the rubber hose in pieces about the same length as the pieces of boiled macaroni and put them in a saucer with a little macaroni over the rubber pipes and placed the dish at the old man's

First the old delegate attempted to cut the macaroni into small pieces, and failing be remarked that it was not cooked The boy said his macaroni was cooked too tender, and that his father's teeth were so poor that he would have to eat soup entirely pretty soon. The old man said, "Never you mind my teeth, young man," and decided that he would not complain of anything again. He took up a couple of pieces of rubber and one piece of macaroni on a fork and put them in his mouth. The macaroni dissolved easy enough and went down perfectly easy, but the flat macaroni was too much for him.

He chewed on it for a minute or two and talked about the weather in order that none of the family should see that he was in trouble, and when he found that the macaroni would not go down he called their attention to somethin out of the window and took the rub

He was more than half convinced that his teeth were played out, but went on eating something else for awhile, and finally be thought he would just chance the macaroni once more for luck, and he mowed away another forkful in his mouth. It was the same old story. He chewed like a seminary girl chewing gum, and his eyes stuck out, and his face became red, and his wife looked at him as though afraid he was going to die of apoplexy, and finally the servant girl burst out laughing and went out of the room with her apron stuffed in her mouth, and the boy felt as though it was unhealthy to tarry too long at the table, and he went time was called. At the outset Murphy forced the fight-ing. Both showed great cleverness, al-though Mcliride had slightly the advan-tage in hard bitting. Murphy showed the most scientific work, but McBride depended on his heavy blows. In the fourth round Mac drew first blood by hitting Murphy a swinging blow on the eye. A second later honors were even in this re-gard, Murphy returning the compliment by slashing Mac on the nose. In this round the fighting was fast and furious, and when it ended blood was running from the men in streams. From the fourth round on Mac forced the fighting, but Murphy responded promptly to the call of time at the beginning of each round. In the tenth round Murpby put in some stiff punches, but he had waited too long, and at the call of time the referee awarded the

EDDIE PIEBCE.

Eddie Pierce when he marched down through the hall from his dressing room and climbed upon the stage. It was a reg-ular pandemonium, as there were fully twenty Pierce men present to one Dixor admirer. It was ten minutes of 10 o'clock when the men began their great battle. The purse they battled for was $6,500, of which the loser receives $500.

The seconds of Dixon were Tom O'Rourks, of New York, and Jack Haver-line and Morris Kelly, both of Boston. The men who looked after Pierce were Charley Norton, Con Corcordan, Nick Dunn, John White and Sammy Kelly. Mike Brashy had the time for Dixon and Jim Lavella for Pierce.

ter a little feinting and caught Pierce in the wind. He visited the same spot again. After some cautious sparring, in which Dixon showed up to the best advantage, the men clinched on the ropes, but broke away of their own accord. Dixon then smashed him with his left and again with his right. A clinch followed and Dixon showed he was a good hand at the game of infighting, and made Pierce break his hold Dixon caught Pierce again and the round

Second Round-After a short feint by Dixon, Pierce led lightly on Dixon's face and then ducked a right hand swing cleverly. A sharp raily followed, of which Pierce appeared to have the advanage. Dixon endeavored to land his right, but was met and stopped very cleverly. Pierce appeared to have gained confidence in him self as the round ended.

Third Round—Dixon sent in his left and sent his man to the ropes. Dixon repeatedly sent in right and left on Pierce's wind and jaw and knocked Pierce silly. He went down and out after repeated jabs on the jaw that would have settled a bigger and stronger man than Pierce.

It was the universal verdict that Pierce was a softer mark than even Skelly. He was clearly outclassed, and his aspirations as a pugilist are forever settled. It took nearly ten minutes to bring him to. The very wildest kind of excitement prevailed after the battle was over, and several free fights were started in different parts of the house, but owing to the heavy police force present the scrappers were quickly separated. Pierce was in no respect the equal of Dixon and the majority of the spectators went home feeling that they had been buncoed into thinking Pierce was a fighter by the glowing press accounts that were published from day to day lauding Pierce and his wonderful
