The wreck is the worst ever known on the railroad. The bridge was being strengthened for the big locomotives, and the workingmen who were putting on the plates were at dinner when the crash came. The locomotive passed over the structure, but was smashed, the water tank being thrown a long distance. The buffet, two sieepers and a dining car were smashed to pieces when the struck the stream twenty feet below, but the day coaches and a smoker in the rear did not leave the track. It is believed that there are two more bodies in the ruins.

VANCES MENS. He Speaks Against the Repeal of the Sherman Law.

THE MONEY KINGS TO BLAME.

Land State State of the State o

The Veteran Carolina Statesman Says the Gold Bags Are Besponsible for Our Corrency Troubles-Numinations Confirmed by the Schutz.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The house bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sher-man act not fairly under way yesterlay in the senate. It was taken up early in the morning hour to give an opportunity to Mr. Vance, of North Carbillon. to make a speech against it. Mr. Vance is one of the Democratic minority members of the finance committee, and for an hour and forty minutes be kept his batteries of with humor and sarcasm playing upon the measure and upon the members of his own party for supporting and advocating it. He prefaced his remarks with the statement that the great law of supply and de-mand operated in regard to money just as it did to everything else. When money was abundant prices were high; when it was scarce the prices of all products were low. Therefore, he that inproduction and advanced prices and wages, though by combination and defensive measures in many parts of the world wages are effected less than pro-

The effect upon the condition of mankind which would follow the destruction of one-half of the currency of the world. amounting in the aggregate to $7,300,000 000, it would be impossible accurately to describe. Soill this process of destruction has been going on quietly since 1872, and its result is seen in prices lower in many things than has ever been known in the memory of man.

The speaker then went into the history of the demonstration of allver. He said that this movement for repeal was the resulf of a conspiracy among the money holders of the world. The method of the attack was by the creation of a panie. The departure of gold from this country some departure of gold from this country some time ago had been attributed to the Sher man law; if so, the Sherman law surely brought it back, too. Members of congress on both sides wanted gold and silver coined on equal terms, according to their platforms, so they stopped coming silver. The senator referred in most sarcastic terms to the inconsistency of such actions.

If such an interpretation of the Demo cratic platform had been announced during the enumpaign he was quite sure Mr. M. S. KISTLER, M. D., Cleveland could not have carried a single electoral vote south of the Potomac river.

Senator Vance acknowledged that the repeal bill would pass, but he asked what would be done with the remainder of the Democratic platform in the face of one promise broken.

When he got through his entertaining speech an effort was made to simplify the further parliamentary line of proceeding in the consideration of the bill by having the committee's substitute adopted pro forms, so that all amendments to be of-fered might be amendments in the first degree instead of in the second degree, which would tend to smooth and simplify matters. That proposition did not, however sait the ideas or plans of Mr. Cockrell, of Missouri, who objected to it, and as it required unanimous coasent, it falled, of course, to be adopted. From that poin on to the point of going into executive session, a confused rambling colloquy was carried on between Mr. Cockrell and some Republican senators involving the question of adhesion to or repudiation of the Chicago Democratic platform. The discussion was not ended when adjournment took place.

The rules which will govern the proceedlngs of the present house were again dis-cussed yesterday without attracting much attention, although at times the house was on the edge of a partisan debate. But in each instance good humor took the place of bad blood, and the clash of parties was averted. No change of importance was made in the new code, and without concluding its consideration the house ad-
