THE VETERANS' DAY

Grand Army Posts at Allentown To-morrow.

A BIG TIME IS EXPECTED

Watkin Waters Post, of Town, Will Attend the Celebration in a Body and Several Other Schuylkill County Posts Will Send Large Delegations.

An unusual amount of interest is taken this year in Grand Army Day, which is to be celebrated at Allentown to-morrow and it is safe to say that a large majority of the "boys in blue" in Schuylkill county will meet their fellow veterans in the good old whole-souled town to help make the celebration one of the most successful held in the state for some years. From present indications the railroad companies will have large crowds from all points to handle and the veterans will be accompanied by many people who are not connected with the G. A. R., but who will make the trip simply to see the demonstration.

The approach of the event has been looked upon with much pleasure by the members of Watkin Waters Post, No. 146, of town, and they will go in a body to the grand rally of old defenders of the Union. The members of this Post take the view that the time is not far distant when all the veterans of the war will have answered the final roll call and then Grand Army Day, which is distinctively a creation of the veterans as members of the Grand Army and is sustained solely by their own efforts, will in all probability become a day of less thought than it is at present, much like Washington's birthday; and that while the veterans are able to travel and enjoy such events they should exert themselves to attend in large numbers and make the day as brilliant as possible.

This view is not maintained solely in Shenandoah, however. Mahanoy City, Ashland, Girardville, Tamaqua and Pottsville, no doubt prompted by the same motive, will also send large delegations to Allentown and in some instances will be almost fully represented.

Allentown reports state that the city has made elaborate preparations for the reception of the veterans and will give them a royal time. The G. A. R. will have the freedom of the city to-morrow.

Watkin Waters Post will leave town to-morrow via the 6:04 Lehigh Valley train and will no doubt have the company of the Girardville, Ashland and Mahanoy City Posts on the same train. In consequence of the early departure the members of the home Post will meet in front of the headquarters, Refovich's hall, at 5 a. m. to-morrow.

The Wrong Dog.

Yesterday afternoon Chief Burgess Burns had his attention drawn to a number of dogs running from one end of the town to another and he concluded to take the leader in custody. Health Officer Miles volunteered assistance and they opened the gate at the side of the borough building with the intention of driving the dog through it. When the dog got half way through it changed its mind and ran back between the legs of the chief officer of the town, who started on a run in chase, Officer Miles following and shouting encouragement. The Burgess had a rope in his hands and declared he would lassoe that canine or resign his office. After running half a dozen squares and turning twice as many corners the pursuers espied a dog crouching under a porch. "Keep away!" shouted Burns to Miles. "I've got him." With a neat toss of the rope the house was thrown around the dog's neck and the Burgess started to lead the prisoner. Suddenly Miles broke into laughter. "What's the matter with you?" asked Burns. "Have you got a fit?" "No," responded Miles. "You have the wrong dog." It was true. During the chase the dogs got mixed and the one Burns had at the end of the rope was not the one wanted. The Burgess released the prisoner and walked off with the Health Officer grumbling that the more a man tries to do his duty the more the fates work against him.

MORE ABOUT THE FAIR.

What a Shenandoah Visitor Has to Say About It.

Colonel M. P. Fowler is home from the World's Fair after having a good time and seeing one hundred cents' worth for every dollar he spent. He is bubbling over with information and has a full supply on tap for breakfast, dinner and supper. He went to the Fair to see the sights, and he saw them; and he was not imposed upon, either, for the Colonel "knows a thing or two," as the song goes. He had been there before.

"But," said Col. Fowler last night, as he drew his breath after telling of the wonders in the mines and mining building, and at the same time gave "Bob" Oliver the wink, "sightseeing at the World's Fair soon becomes tiresome, the novelties of the Plaisance commonplace, and even the dizzy dances of the Midway pall upon the average appetite. When all these fall, a study of the crowds absorbs interest. I'll tell you something, however, and don't you give me away. I went to the village of Dahomey and (would you believe it?) one of the dusky rascals recognized me. He said he was in Shenandoah about five years ago with 'Billy,' the booth-keeper, and seemed quite anxious to know how 'Billy' was. Another fellow who hadn't enough clothing on him to cover a good-sized watermelon wanted to know if old Harry Day was still living in Tamaqua. But in the Irish village I had the fun. I met some of 'Pat' King's and Uncle 'Jim' Duffy's acquaintances and I thought I would never get away from them. The German Village takes the cake, though. It is one of the most interesting of all the sights on the Plaisance. It was here I got the 'new process' beans. Yet while I am proud of my German ancestry and of the exhibit at the Fair I am sorry to say that all of the offensive, impudent, merry Dick Turpin ducks I ever ran across, the German waiters at the World's Fair take the palm. If you value your life and have any plans for the future, don't take any unnecessary chances on the restaurants or 'dining parlors' in the vicinity and outside the Fair grounds."

"There are some things that must be said of Chicago and the World's Fair that are creditable. The street car people, the elevated road guards; the Columbian guards and Mayor Harrison's 'finest' I found uniformly polite and painstaking. This is especially so with the Columbian guard, who has been spoken of as 'the Jay with his jaw strapped on.' They perform their duty with a patience and forbearance that are commendable, if not surprising. I was pleased to find that one of my most important witnesses in my contest with 'Billy' Feltbott some years ago was wearing a Columbian uniform."

"The World's Fair affords a great opportunity for the study of human nature," continued Col. Fowler. "For instance, one man from Mt. Carmel who stopped at my hotel went three days in succession to see Buffalo Bill's Wild West show; another made eight trips on the Ferris wheel; and another spent a whole day looking for 'the building where the keep the fagotons.' But perhaps the most perseverance shown by any of the Mt. Carmel men in ferreting out a particular object of interest was Tom Sanger, who went on a hunt for a rubber cow. He had heard there was such a thing on the ground and that it gave milk. After considerable inquiry he landed at the dairy building, where he was directed to the Midway, and there among other curiosities he found a genuine rubber bovine, with a fair-haired milk maid drawing the lactical just as natural as though it was a real live bossy and likely to kick the pail over any moment."

While in the West Col. Fowler paid a dying visit to Galesburg, Illinois, a town of 21,000 inhabitants having 21 saloons, each of which pays an annual license fee of $1,000. The money derived from this source is used in street paving and other town improvements. The paving is of fire brick, which is extensively manufactured there. Paving of this kind laid ten years ago is almost as good to-day as it was when first put down. First there is a layer of sand, then a layer of bricks, laid flat, the roller is then used, and finally another layer of bricks, on ends, is added. Galesburg is a beautiful town four miles square with fine farming country all around it. The place has five banks and several educational institutions. Colonel Fowler fell in love with it and if he were a little younger and not so much tied up by business interests in Shenandoah he would not hesitate to locate there. His son-in-law, Frank Boyer, is doing a splendid dry goods business in Galesburg, employing thirteen clerks.

CASES BEFORE JUSTICES

Mr. Goozey, of Boston Run, Gets Mixed In Immense Legal Controversies Which Originally Sprung From a Slight Mistake Over a Keg of Beer.

It is remarkable what trouble a slight mistake will make sometimes and how badly complicated the trouble becomes when some of the Hungarian people are interested. A slight mistake over a keg of beer has precipitated legal controversies which have cultivated more mistakes and the chances are before the matter is settled the man who made the mistake will find himself out of pocket more than would keep him supplied with beer for six months or a year.

The man who has already stood the loss thus far and is likely to pile up another bill of costs on himself is Felix Goozey. He resides at Boston Run. A few days ago he ordered a Shenandoah man to send a keg of beer to his house. Goozey's next door neighbor also ordered a keg of beer on the same day, but gave the order to a Mahanoy City man. The Mahanoy keg arrived first and Goozey put it in his shanty. The neighbor claimed it and that night took it out of Goozey's shanty. A series of fights ensued and the result was that cross suits for assault and battery were entered before Justices Toomey and Shoemaker of town and Goozey was also sued for stealing the keg of beer. Goozey was eventually convinced that the keg found in his shanty did not belong to him, but was the one his neighbor had ordered from Mahanoy City, whereupon the parties declared all hostilities off, and Goozey paid the costs.

The other day Goozey discovered that the charge against him for stealing the keg of beer was still pending and he hired a lawyer to see what could be done to Justice Toomey, because a receipt for costs had been given Goozey's lawyer called upon the Justice, who explained that the receipt was good "so far as it goes," but it was only for the costs in the assault and battery case and not in the larceny suit. This convinced the lawyer that there was no claim against the Justice, but it did not convince Goozey, who has engaged a second lawyer. Goozey's friends say he is foolish, but he can't see it in that light. Meantime the fees and costs crawl up.

FR. M. CHEEKEY.
The Pottsville Journal grow over-enthusiastic in the report of the game at that place yesterday. After stating that the Pottsvilles defeated the Eastons by a score of 15 to 9, which is the truth, it states that the Eastons "shut out" the Shenandoah club, which is not the truth. The Eastons have played but two games here. On Friday last the Shenandoahs defeated them by a score of 7 to 0; and in the next game the Eastons won by a score of 11 to 5, so the Pottsvilles have not made as good a showing against the Easton league champions as Shenandoah has. The Journal also claims that the game at Pottsville yesterday was the greatest of the season. Let us see! It was a nine inning game. Pottsville made 17 hits and 0 errors; Easton 13 hits and 5 errors. A short time ago Shenandoah won a twelve inning game from Renovo by a score of 3 to 2. Shenandoah had 5 hits and 3 errors; Renovo had 5 hits and 5 errors. It would seem the Journal man is off in his estimation of great games.

THE TYPHOID EPIDEMIC.

Many Exaggerated Reports Circulated Concerning the Patients.

Yesterday no less than three of the town people who are victims of typhoid fever were reported at the point of death, but upon careful examination it was found that in only one case was there any cause for apprehension. It is stated upon reliable information that the victims reported to the Board of Health last week and the preceding week are steadily improving and that there is no cause for alarm by their friends. The disease is of such a stubborn and insidious nature that its progress in the first stages makes the recovery appear very slow and for days the patients may appear to be in a desperate stage, while at the time nature may be securing the upper hand of the disease. One of the prominent physicians of town, stated to-day that great harm is done patients by sympathetic visitors who always look to the dark side of life and haven't enough sense to shield their fears in the presence of the sick, which is very aggravating to the attending physicians as well as the families. Owing to the character of typhoid fever the physicians are unable to state the nature of illness immediately after the attack and frequently it is impossible to diagnose the case until several days elapse. And the same is true with regard to the recovering stage. According to the reliable reports to-day there is only one case of the twenty-six thus far reported which is critical, and that is the case of C. E. Titman's daughter. A consultation of physicians was held yesterday and another one to-day. Miss Irene Shinn was among the patients reported very low yesterday, but she is as well as can be expected at the present stage of the disease. And the same report applies to the rest of the cases. In consequence of the increase of cases since last week the Board of Health has decided to take stringent measures regarding the sanitary condition of properties, to which the epidemic is attributed, and people who do not promptly comply with the regulations of the board will be subjected to the penalties without delay. Messrs. Miles and Broughall, of the Board of Health, and Health Officer Miles spent several hours to-day, in spite of the storm, visiting several places in different parts of the town and in all cases gave imperative orders to clean up.
