COL. SAMUEL M. JACKSON. Republican Candicate for State

Treasurer. Colonel Samuel M. Jackson, the Republican candidate for State Tressurer, was born on a farm near Apollo, Pa., September 24th, 1833. He was reared at his birthpines, and at thouge of sixteen entered the Jacksonville Academy, at Jacksonville, Indiana county, Pa,, but before completing his course, the death of his father compelled him to leave school and abandon his contemplated liberal academical education

At a very early age Colonel Jackson displayed an active interest in mili-tary affairs, and when only thirteen he was enrolled as a drummer boy in a company of the Sints Militia, evinc ing in childhood those talents which were afterwards of incalculable value to his country in the hour of her sore distress. For efficient service he was promoted, step by step, until he obtained a Captain's commission, and when the dark clouds of rebellion broke in their traitorous wrath Captain Jack-son was one of the first to proffer his services in the great struggle to main-rain one flag and a united country. He recruit d Company G, or the Apollo Independent Blues, of the was commissioned its Captain when it was mustered into service. His signal ability as a soldier could not remain unnoticed. On July 2nd, 1801, he was made Major of his Desiment on Over made Major of his Regiment; on Octo-ber 28th, he was promoted to the office of Lieutenant: clonel, and on April London, Oct. 12.—The queen has approved the appointment of the Earl of donned the blue, he received the sword and commission of a Colonel. The roy is the eldest son of the eighth Earl of talents of the man were so marked, Eigin, who was appointed governor gen-his character and bearing so dis-eral of India in January, 1812, and who tinguished, that advancement in the died in office in November, 1863. service was as stendy and natural the flow of the irresistable tide. the head of a brave Regiment he proved himself a gallant officer, and through the whole of his three years' service was a conspicuous figure in all the camwas a conspictions figure in an the cam-paigns in which his Regiment was summoned to duty. At the battles of Gaines' Mill, Second Bull Run, South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, Wildernes, Spottsylvania Coorr House, and Bethesda Charch, Colonel Jackson and his Regiment showed the fighting worth of Pennsylvania blood, rendering particularly dis-tinguished service at South Mountain, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, and the Wilderness. At spottsylvania be com-manded his Brigade and so well and ably did he bear himself in this battle erai for his gallant conduct. But it was at Getty-oung that Calonel Jackson was at Getry-burg that Calonel Juckson so entinently displayed his seemness of judgment, and powers of command. On the second day's fight his Regiment just arrived on the taitlefield, by in the front in the slope of Little Round Top, averageing that terrible. Valley of Death from which the Third Carpenad been driven back. The supports sent to the relief of the Third were fearfully incident, the enemy, thushed sent to the relief of the Third were fearfully broken, the enemy, flushed with their seness, was steadily advancing with a terrible and resolute purpose to early he hill. Moments, then, wate as vital as hours, there was no time to await croers from superiors, and Colonel Jackson, quick to see and realize the danger of delay, on his own respectively. responsibility ordered his Keglinen forward, and was at once followed by the commands in his rear. Down the slope they charged, and hurring them selves like thunderbolts on edumns of the advancing enemy, they fought them foot by foot back across the Valley of Death, regaining the entire field so nearly and irretrievably

At the Battle of the Wilderness he again displayed his signal ability to command, and his ready power to meet command, and an reary power to meet an emergency, however trying. While commanding both his own and the Second Regimen t, he suddenly found himself cut off from his Division by a strong force of the enemy. Thus iso-lated from the Union forces and surrounded by a confident for, the situathou prescrited but one of two bases. It sets at work all the trees—death or surrender! But Col and nutrition, rooses onel Jack son had never learned how to used nearly, and branching the used nearly, and branching the learners of cutting his way through the enemy's lines, des forces, and by a circuitous route reached if it doesn't benefit or ad the Union front, where, for several the money is returned.

Evening Herald.

| During three years of active, hard service, Colonel Jackson won the confidence and respect of his superiors and the esteem and admiration of all within his command, and when mustered out he returned to his home and the Time Limit. tered out he returned to his home and the quict pursuits of a business life. To keep warmer and more vivid the memories of his soldier life, its comradeships and past dangers, Colonel Jackson allied himself with Whitworth Post No. 59, G. A. R., of Apolio; Encampment No. 1, U. V. L., Pittsburg, and the Pennsylvania Commandery of the Loyal Legion, For some time after the close of the war he was engaged in the oil unsiness in Venango county, but in 1869 he returned to his nailve county of Armstrong and was in the same year elected to the State Legislature, and re-elected in the following year. In this position, as in every other. Colonel Jackson has filled, both military and civil, he so won the confidence of those whom he served that, four years those whom he served that, four years later, he was elected to represent the 41st Sepatorial district, composed of the counties of Armstrong and Butler, in the State Senate. At the close of his term of office he was again honored by the effer of a renomination, which

be felt compelled to decline. In 1871 he was instrumental in organizing the Apollo Savinga Bank, of which he filled the responsible position of cashier until April, 1882, when President Arthur appointed him Collector of Internal Revenue for the 23d district. He assumed the duties of this office on July 1, 1882, serving until July 1, 1881, when the first part of the race was to be fifteen miles to windward or legward and of this office on July 1, 1882, serving until July 1, 1881, when the first part of the race.

The day promised well in the early morning. There was a good breeze from the northwest, and the weather sharps are in the first part of the race. In 1871 he was instrumental in oruntil July 1, 1885, when the first Cleve-land administration came into power. In September of the same year he was elected President of the Apollo Savslected President of the Apollo Sav-ings Bank, which place he has filled up to the present time.

In the many positions of grave responsibility and trust to which Col-onel Jackson has been called, he proved himself worthy of the confidence im-posed in him. As a soldier, he was obedient and brave; as an officer, gal-lant and fearless; as a legislator, coninct and fearless; as a legislator, con-scientions and wise. His private life is without spot of blemish. These who know him best, his friends and neigh-bors, all speak of his affability, his bindness his agreements. kindness, his generosity and his n ant-ness. He is a type of manhood in which the best American citizenship is exemplified, and in selecting him as a candidate for the highly responsible position of State Treasurer, the Re-million party has made a wise and happy choice. To its duties no will happy choice. To its duties he will bring a ripe experience, a matur-wisdom and a moral firmness that will nsure their faithful performance, free from all criticism, and we bespeak for nim from a united party a hearty and generous support.

the Time Limit.

BUT THE VIGILANT WAS AHEAD.

She Led Lord Dunraven's Valkyric oy Half a Mile When, at the End e , Six Hours, the Boats Were Towed Stuck to the City.

New York, Oct. 12.—B was no man's acsymterday. The Vigilant and Valkyrie tried hard to settle the international ques-tion as to which is the queen yacht of the world, but after alternate spells of racing, drifting and waiting for wind they gave up the contest at the expiration of the me limit. It was long after dark when the crack yachra abandoned the drifting match off Highland Beach. They were fully seven miles from the finish, and they had been sailing for six hours. The Vigi-lant had turned the outer mark seven minutes ahead of the English entier, and was leading by about haif a mile when the time expired. The fortunes of each had varied during the day, and the firitish boat had the best of it during the first Shurr, Cagenovia, New York.

if won by Vigilant the America's oup would be a Yankee trophy of prowess on the water for another year.

The usual crowd of yachtsmen who would not miss a race for a farm were on hand, as also were the patriotic landsmen who neglect business and risk certain personal discomforts incident to a day on the rolling deep in order to see John Bull's crack yacht defeated. The steam boats, big and little, and yachts and tugs with private parties steamed down the cool ig racing days. There were perhaps a few less boats in the excursion flort than usual, but the decks of all that went out to the course were black with people. The expectation that the day would end the lattle of the yachts brought out many who had walted for the deciding race in the series. The day was a delightful one for a days' outing on the water. The sea had only a ripple on its surface, and one venturesome little Naphtha launch as-o upanied the fleet.

The wind of the early morning did not hold, and when all the fleet and assembled ready for the start the two racers lay be calmed. By mutual consent their owner agreed to a postponement until later in the day. For two hours the yachts lay idly flapping their sails or slowly gliding about among the excursion steamers. Then when the regatta committee asks if they would consent to a postponement for the day the people on the American sloop answered promptly in the affirmative. but Lord Dunraven hesitated, and as the wind freshened a bit he asked for a race.

The boats were started on a beat to wind-ward and return at 1,45 p. m. in a light south by west wind. The Valkyrie got an advantage of one minute crossing the line. She had the windward position, as well as the lead. The loats were under the same canvas, except the Vigilant had up a bub jib, which was much smaller than the one the English yacht carried. Valkyric pointed higher and footed faster in the light air stirring. For an hour she held the lead and worked to windward of the white sloop.

The two racers made a pretty picture as they worked in toward that part of the Jersey coast midway between Sandy Hook and Long Branch. Lord Dunreven led his opponent in close to the shore and then made a number of short tacks, for which the black cutter is famous. The people on the Vigilant kept up a stern chase with out lessening the gap until, after racing nearly three hours with the main jib top-sal up, she took it in and ran up, a larger one. Then she began to pick up, Haif an hour after she made the change in sails she had cut down the lend of the black cutter, and crossed the bow of the latter to the musle of a hundred whistles from the excerting fact. From that time on the sup defender led.

When the sun went down and left the yachts working slowly toward the turning mark the accompanying steamers began to drop out of the line which they had formed at a respectful distance to leeward of the racers and started for home. Most of the steamers remained until Vigilant turned the flag buoy, at 6.07 p. m., with the Valkyris seven minutes isshind her. Then all the flest except the two tugs which acted as tensions to the yachts and the half dozen press boats deserted the

Seeing a yacht race after dark was a novel experience for New Yorkers, and they did not like it. The run back to the city was made without the satisfaction of aving seen a finished race, but the patrioil Americans who went out to shout for you limb, were cheered by the thought that he was leading when the time limit ended
