

AT MEAL-TIMES

Do you ever consider the quality of the food you are eating? It may be good. It might be better, purer, fresher and more wholesome. It is not worth while to make sure that your Tea, Coffee, Sugar, Butter, Eggs, Spices and innumerable other groceries are of the best quality? There is such a trifling difference in the prices of the best and the worst that it certainly does not pay to buy the worst, even on the false ground of supposed economy.

The best is always the cheapest, because the most satisfactory and durable, and the very best of everything in the grocery line is kept at

SHE HAD A FIGHTING PARTNER.
French Women Journalists Earn Monthly Side Partners for Dangling Purposes.
A rather curious institution is arising in Paris, that of duelling associates of lady journalists. Recently, says the London News, the lady known as Mme. Severine, who was intimately connected as a friend, literary helper, and disciple of M. Jules Verne, contributed an article to the Journal at which M. Massard, a socialist, took offense. He called on M. Xau, the editor, to ask for satisfaction. It being impossible to call Mme. Severine out the answer was that, in virtue of a fiction adopted for the purpose of releasing M. Xau from all responsibility in such cases, Mme. Severine was supposed to be the joint author with M. Labryere of all her articles. He had agreed to be answerable for any offense she might give.
M. Massard then sent seconds to M. Labryere, who, admitting that he was the fighting partner of the lady, referred him to a couple of male friends. The duel, which has taken place, was a fierce affair. In the second round M. Labryere received a cut on the chin, but the doctors saying it did not signify, there were five other rounds. The combat was ended by M. Massard running his foil through the forearm of M. Labryere. Honor was then declared satisfied, and M. Labryere was driven back to Paris.

ARISTOCRATIC SWINDLERS

The Trial Which is Agitating High Society in Germany.
BERLIN, Oct. 23.—It is stated that Duke Guenther, brother of the German emperor, has confessed to the emperor his share in the great Hanover gambling scandal. The trial of this gambling case opened at Hanover this morning, and the developments, it is said, will open the eyes of society, not only in this city, but elsewhere in Germany.

The accused in the Hanover gambling scandal are Max Rosenberg, Albert Rosenman, Ludwig Abter and Julius Rosenmann, bankers; Freiherr von Meyerneck, retired; Captain Johann Faehric and Samuel Seemann, gentlemen of leisure, and Julius Ludwig Stamer, a commercial traveler. All these men are under arrest. Lieutenant Freiherr von Siedlitz-Nenkirch, who was implicated as dealer, as anybody, absconded to London to escape trial. Arnold Herbert Lichter, a banker, is hiding in Austria to avoid arrest.

The charges against the prisoners are gambling, cheating at cards, usury and fraudulent payment by means of worthless lottery tickets. More than a hundred army officers, ranking from a lieutenant to a major general, have been summoned from the principal garrisons throughout the empire to testify.

Although the nature of the evidence has been kept secret as far as possible, it is known that the prisoners operated in all the German capitals and watering places, notably Hamburg, Nordheim, Berlin, Hanover and Wiesbaden. Even women were induced by the cunning try their luck, and were fleeced. Von Siedlitz and Von Meyerneck were the deacons in the game. On the strength of their titles they made the acquaintance of wealthy land owners, bankers and manufacturers and brought them into the clutches of the rest of the swindlers. The game was always managed so that the stranger was plucked of his last coin.

This Marriage Was a Failure.
NEW HAVEN, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Emma J. Povey has begun suit for divorce against Major William Povey, alleging desertion. Mrs. Povey is one of the society leaders of Ansonia, and has a private fortune of more than $1,000,000. Major Povey is president of the Ansonia Brass and Copper company, with headquarters in New York, and he makes his home in that city. They were married in Ansonia in 1878, but the husband's love cooled after a few years. About five years ago he took up a permanent residence in New York, where he has large business interests. Since that time the separation has been complete.

Midnight Murder in Washington.
WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 23.—Samuel Poy, a well known and prosperous colored citizen, was murdered and robbed by two unknown men on one of the principal thoroughfares of the town about 1 o'clock in the morning, while on his way home. A young lady named Nettie Roberts was a witness of the murder from her bedroom window, but was unable to recognize the assassin, who dashed down the street after completing their work. Two colored men have been arrested on suspicion, but it is generally believed they are the wrong parties.

Robbed an Express Car.
ROCHESTER, Oct. 23.—An American Express car on its east bound New York Central train was entered by a robber between Buffalo and Batavia, who broke the lock with a coupling pin. There was no messenger in the car at the time, and the thief rifled several packages. He put on two suits of clothing over his own and wrapped up a bundle of coats and other articles to take away with him. He was subsequently captured. The police believe he is a professional crook.

A Guilty Wife's Confession.
BROOKLYN, Oct. 23.—The wife of William Gelhardt, the Brooklyn policeman who on Friday last shot and killed John Green, has confessed that she was responsible for the murder. BOSTON, Pa., Oct. 23.—Walter Butler Kosthart was cutting meat in his shop at Jenneville his cheever handle struck and discharged a revolver in his pocket. The bullet was shot into the abdomen of Mary Brogan, a customer, aged 14, who stood near. She fell, mortally wounded.

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS.

OLD BOB WHITE.
Now the hills are turning yellow and the brown is on the corn.
There is a melody that's mellow in the music of the horn.
And the saxofras is blazing and the smooch all a-tow.
Where the old bellows is grating on the fallow down below,
And the pea vines gladly rustle where the soft winds are at play,
And the young quail chirp and hustle, growing plumper every day;
And that cunning old snorter in the bushes to the right,
Purled upon the low fence corner, whistles "Old Bob White!"

Get your saxofras ready, now, and limber up your gun,
Train the young dogs to be steady as a nut to spoil the fun.
For the time is swiftly coming, and October's nearly here,
When we'll set the woods a-buzzing with the music, far and near,
And we'll fill each hunter jacket with the spoil our prowess yields.
As we raise a merry racket in the forests and the fields.
For the challenge is temptation, as they sit there out of sight,
All around the big plantation, whistling "Old Bob White!"

Everybody has heard a brass band, but few know how such an organization is made up. Take, for instance, the famous Gilmore band at the Exposition. Here are the instruments that comprise it: One piccolo, 1 flute, 1 E clarinet, 10 Bb clarinets, 1 oboe (hautbois), 1 saxophone, soprano; 1 saxophone, alto; 1 saxophone, tenor; 1 contra saxophone, or contra bassoon; 1 solo Bb cornet, 1 triphonic cornet, 2 Bb cornets, 2 trumpets, 4 French horns or F corns, 3 trombones, 1 euphonium, 1 baritone, 3 bass tubas, 3 drums, tympani, etc.

A half million of the souvenir half dollars struck for the Columbian Exposition is used at Chicago. No wonder. The $2,500,000 appropriated by Congress in aid of the Exposition was to be in 5,000,000 of these coins. A keepsake so common as these were sure to be would not inspire interest enough to cause a ready sale of them at one dollar each. They are worth their face value, however, as money, and the Exposition directors can pay them out as they would and other coins and let them find their way into pockets or back to the Treasury, where they will be refunded.

THE DANA'S SARSAPARILLA, ITS "THE KIND THAT CURES."
They Were Preparing to Break Jail.
BRIDGEPORT, N. J., Oct. 23.—The success of Ned Bryant, the burglar, in jail breaking, has encouraged others to attempt the same thing. Sheriff Whiteaker discovered that George Baker and Thomas Simmon, who were sentenced to the state prison, had dug a hole more than a foot square through the brick wall between their cell and the woman's corridor, and had tried to conceal it by pasting paper over it. The men were promptly placed in the dungeon.

Arrest Follows a Forger's Conversion.
PAIDMONGER, L. I., Oct. 23.—Nelson Terry, a son-in-law of Captain Hammond, was converted a few days ago in the religious revival now in progress at this place. The town folk always deemed him an estimable young man, and they say now that his conversion was probably due to a troubled conscience, for he has just been arrested, charged with forgery. His forgeries, it is said, will reach into the thousands. His father-in-law is his principal victim.

A Burglar Frightened Off.
BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 23.—Burglaries continue in this section with a frequency which has never before been known. Some one broke into the dwelling house at the Shiloh tollgate. After securing a small amount of money and two pairs of spectacles he was preparing to go upstairs when he was heard by Keeper George Shute and frightened off. Mr. Shute had a large sum of money, representing turnpike receipts, upstairs.

Alleged Jury Bribers Arrested.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—State Senator William J. Dunn and Frank McManus, a political "boss," were arrested on a warrant charging them with jury bribery in the murder case of Aetor Curtis. They were released on bail. The warrants were issued by Judge Wallace, who has a reputation as the foe of men who commit such crimes, and who, as presiding magistrate, will conduct the preliminary examination.

Morocco's Sultan Will Try Persuasion.
PARIS, Oct. 23.—A dispatch received from Tangier states that the sultan of Morocco has promised General Margalla to persuade the Arabs to destroy the entrenched positions they have thrown up around Melilla and to cease their resistance to Spanish authority at that place. Small importance is, however, attached to the promise in view of the increased attitude of the tribes.

Another Fool Stove Bunker.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 23.—Michael Wargosko, a Hungarian laborer, residing at Catasauquo, had accumulated $140, and, as he did not have much faith in banks, hid his wealth in a stove during the summer months. Michael's wife started a fire in a stove, and when her husband came home he raved like a madman. He recovered $80 of the amount.

A Veteran Conductor Injured.
RED BANK, N. J., Oct. 23.—George Brown, of Atlantic Highlands, for many years a conductor on the New Jersey Southern railroad, was seriously injured here by being struck by a train. He stood by the locomotive giving orders to his engineer when the bumper of a passing engine hit him.
