CONCILIATION WINS.

End of the Prolonged Mine Strike in Great Britain.

WORKMEN HAVE THE BEST OF IT.

Covernment Intervention in the Great Contest Completely Successful-A Board of Cenciliation Will Recentler Fix the Bate of Wages-An End to Strikes.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The conference be-tween the uring organs and the dielegates of the different cliners' associations, called by Premier Gindmane, was presided over-by Lead Hoseberry, sceretary of state for foreign affairs, who made an admirable speech, tending to pour oil prou the troubled craters, to the assembled owners of each mines and the representative of their stelling conduces.

ers and coal miners. The representatives of the two parties, before the first meeting of the delegates, shall endeavor to elect a chairman from the autidus. It they fall, then the speaker of the house of commons shall be asked to monitors a chairman, who will have the casting vote. The beard, when exastinuted, shall have the power to determine, from time to time, power to determine, from time to time, the rates of wages of the minures. Second—That the men shall resume work inteedletely at the old wages, and it is agreed that the collaries, as far as practicable, shall be opened forthwith, and no impediment placed upon the men's return to work.

The representatives of the owners pro-posed that the men resume work at a 10 per cent, relaction until March, when their wares for the future should be fixed by the board of condition. The interest declined to accept these terms, and insisted that they should recommence work at the old rates. They agreed, however, that any new rate decided upon should commence in March, instead of in April, as they originally demanded.

Lord Resolvery then suggested that the opportunity was favorable to decide upon a minimum rate of wages. This proposition was not accepted by the mine owners, and it was agreed that the question should be left for settlement by the board of conciliation.

The result of the conference was at one The result of the conference was at once telegraphed to Mr. Gladstone. The news of the settlement of the great struggle gives great satisfaction in all parts of the country. Mr. Burns, the labor leader, in an interview, said that the success of the government intervention was most importrait, as it would encourage an appeal to similar influences when strikes occup in the future. He said that the result kills the contention of employers that wages must follow the fluctuations in prices, because, as he explained, the con-ciliation board can either arrest the fall in prices or increase in wages. The miners he said, had won a magnificent victory.

The news of the settlement of the miners' strike created the greatest joy in the mining districts of Laucashire and Yorkshire. The relief funds had been al-Yorkshire. The relief funds had been almost exhausted, and the poor people had become almost desperate. In some places the rejoicings over the good news have been almost fremmed. Church bells were rung and the people gathered together and indulged in dancing, singing and in other actions to express their jubilation at the conditions structly. ation at the end of the long struggle
