THE STRIKE ENDED!

It Was Declared Off Early This Morning.

THE TERMS UNKNOWN!

To Any But Those Directly Engaged in the Negotiation for the Settlement. But a Full Statement Will be Made Tomorrow.

EARLY this morning there was dashed over the telegraph wires of this country an announcement that the strike of the Lehigh Valley Railroad employees had been declared off and all the men were instructed to report for duty at once.

The announcement was a great surprise as there was a general belief that both parties were determined and prepared for a much longer fight. This belief was based on the fact that the employees showed a bolder and stronger front yesterday than at any time during the strike, and the company, though its main line traffic was badly tied up, expressed confidence that it would be able to pull through the difficulty.

The first intimation of the end of the strike was wired from Philadelphia at 2:35 o'clock this morning and with it was a brief announcement that President Wilbur had stated that he had not receded from his original position, but would "make a full official statement to-day. At 2:50 a dispatch was sent out from Bethlehem announcing that the terms of settlement were satisfactory to all parties.

The effect of the announcement was magical. As with one inspiration all the old employees of the road at all points affected by the strike made themselves ready to take charge of their old trains and at daylight all trains were moving at schedule time.

It was excellent proof of the systematic arrangement of the Brotherhood's affairs and the confidence reposed by the men on strike in those who had charge of conferences with the company.

"The strike is declared off," was sufficient. The men seemed to understand it thoroughly. They felt confident that they were justified in returning to work without hesitation and that when the full particulars of settlement would be made public they would show that the interests of the men had been cared for. One of the men who returned to work this morning said to a HERALD reporter, "I don't know what the terms are, but I have enough confidence in our leaders to know that the strike would not be declared off with no gain to the men. This strike has been too well managed to fizzle out and I am going back to work feeling sure that when a full report of the conferences is given it will be found that the men have gained something. All I know now is that the strike is off and all the old men are to go back to their old places."

At daybreak this morning all the freight crews employed on the Mahanoy division of the Lehigh Valley railroad and residing at Mauch Chunk reported for duty and to-day were running their trains regularly between Mauch Chunk and Mt. Carmel, and Shamokin.

At half past seven o'clock this morning one of the largest Empire freight trains which had passed through this town in many weeks passed westward through town on the way from Mauch Chunk to Shamokin. It was propelled by two engines and all the members of the old crew were in charge. The men were smiling and waved their arms enthusiastically to friends who shouted to them along the line. This train was made up of loaded cars which had been stalled at Mauch Chunk and neighboring points during the strike.

The order to return to work covers the striking telegraph operators as well as the railroaders.

Up to noon to-day none of the railroaders or telegraphers on the Mahanoy division had heard what the terms of the settlement were, but one man who came in from Mauch Chunk said that he had been led to believe that the concessions by the company and strikers were about equal.

Up to a late hour this afternoon no public announcement of the terms upon which the Lehigh Valley Railroad strikers have been ordered to work had been made.

The HERALD succeeded in getting direct communication with an authoritative source at Mauch Chunk shortly after noon, but could learn nothing definite. The reply was to the effect that nothing regarding the conferences which were still in progress this morning could be given out.

Some railroaders said this afternoon that the strike had not really ended. The men had been ordered to work, but that was only pending the result of the conferences.

THE TARIFF BILL.

What Stand Will Congressman Reilly Take On It?

Special to HERALD.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—There is much speculation in regard to the course Congressman Reilly will take on the tariff question.

The position of the Congressman is such that it is generally considered here that to be consistent he must vote against the bill which has been reported by the committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. Reilly can cast his vote against the bill without fear of the political hatchet, because it is pretty well understood that he will not be a candidate for reelection to Congress, but where the uncertainty presents itself is whether he has the manhood to place himself in an unenviable light with the Administration and cast his vote against the Wilson bill at the risk of losing his weight in patronage.

Congressman Reilly is undoubtedly in a trying position and his ultimate action will be awaited with great interest among his friends here as well as among his constituents in Schuylkill county.

It is generally agreed here that his vote in favor of the Wilson bill with the recommended coal schedule included will dig his political grave.

ENGLAND FAVORED FIRST.

The Message Printed in London Before it Was Delivered.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Unprecedented things are constantly happening under the Cleveland Administration. For the first time in history Monday the message of the President of the United States was known in London before it was in Washington or New York. The London stock market closes at 5 p. m., which is about 10 a. m. in New York city. The President's message was not given out until about noon in Washington and the first hints of its contents came to New York by cable from London.

The Stock Exchanges of both countries were in suspense as to its provisions, and while Wall street was waiting for news London began to sell stocks on the message. The Wall street Journal, a financial organ, at once called to London, asking if there was anything about a bond issue in Cleveland's message. The following answer was actually received and printed in Wall street before the message was given out in Washington:

"There is no promise in the President's message of a bond issue, but a hint that one may come. Main point in message is urgent request that Wilson Tariff bill be passed at once."

It actually seemed that the headquarters of the Cleveland Administration was in London for the time being, and that the Stock Exchange, first of London and then of New York, received the earliest inside information of the President's recommendations.

It was recalled that a few weeks ago the first news of the Hawaiian episode was received by way of London and Auckland.

The White House clerks having charge of the advance proofs of the message were under oath not to reveal any of its contents, but some one in the confidence of the President must have cabled to London in time to make the information of use before the stock exchange there closed for the day.

A Social Time.

The Oriental Court of Maj. Jennings Council No. 267, Jr. O. U. A. M., held its regular monthly meeting last evening, and were visited by about thirty members of Carpenter Council, of Ashland, headed by a drum corps. Thirty-two members were initiated into the mysteries of the Oriental degree, after which the newly-made and visiting members were escorted to the American Hotel and partook of a sumptuous supper. A very pleasant evening was spent by those present.

At the Theatre.

Those who attended the two performances of "The Burglar" at the opera house Saturday were captivated by the remarkable versatility of little "Ethel" when she made her first appearance before the footlights. She took both audiences by storm, and yet this is but a common occurrence to the petite actress, for young as she is little Lottie Briscoe is quite an experienced artist.—Lynch, Moss, Sun. ### MORE FAMILY JARS!

Mr. Dougherty Arrested on a Serious Charge.

$1,000 BAIL REQUIRED!

The Charge is Adultery and the Suit is Brought by a R-factive of Mrs. Dougherty As a Means of Public Vindication—Interesting Trial Expected.

SEQUEL to the recently ventilated ironies in court of the Dougherty family was furnished last night by the arrest of the husband and defendant, J. J. Dougherty, on a very serious charge preferred by his brother-in-law, John T. Casey. Mr. Dougherty was arrested by Constable Thomas Tosh and when taken before Justice Dengler he waived a hearing and entered $1,000 bail for his trial at court, B. G. Hess becoming his bondsman.

The charge against Mr. Dougherty is that in the month of October, last, he was guilty of adultery with one Bridget Cull in Miles' hotel, St. Clair.

Mr. Casey, who is a brother of Mrs. Dougherty, said today, "This suit is not brought to put Dougherty in jail, but to vindicate my sister. In the trial of the assault and battery suit Mr. Ponsroy told the jury that my sister's actions were due to unbounded jealousy and since the trial, because Dougherty got off with paying the costs, he and his friends have been claiming that my sister was beaten in her suits in court. Now we have brought these suits to show the public and the court that my sister had more than jealousy to make her complain and even if any jealousy existed it was not without foundation. We have worked up this case thoroughly and will have a long tale to unfold when the proper time comes. This suit will bring out the letter so much spoken of in connection with the other suits, and also another one, and we regard it very much, but these steps are necessary to corroborate sentiments which others are trying to raise against my sister. She could not bring the suit in her name and I have done it as one of her nearest relatives."

PERSONAL.

Young Mr. Kendrick has very flattering offers from several prominent musical organizations, but is holding them under advisement. It is quite likely he will return to the Marine Band for a while.

WILL IT BE MELLETT?

President Cleveland is Not Ready Yet to Give Out His.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The post office fight in Shenandoah may be settled this week. If it is not the fight may be prolonged some time. That is the opinion of those who seem to know all about such contests.

As the Shenandoah post office is second class, it is something worth fighting for. It brings the postmaster a salary of over $2,000 a year and he has eight appointments—five carriers and three clerks. There is considerable wire pulling here for it.

There are quite a number of Pennsylvanians in this city and most of them were present at the opening session of Congress yesterday.

Quite a delegation is here from Schuylkill county making a fight for the Shenandoah postmastership. The commission of the Republican incumbent will expire December 29. Postmaster General Blood, in view of the fact that commissions will expire in some 600 Presidential post offices in December and January, has announced that he will devote all his time up to the 15th of this month in giving hearings in those cases.

The delegation from Schuylkill consists of State Senator B. J. Monaghan, Ex-Senator King, M. T. Quinn and M. T. O'Connell. They are in the interest of C. J. Quinn. They claim that four-fifths of the patrons of the Shenandoah post office have petitioned for Mr. Quinn's appointment.

Congressman Reilly is representing Michael Mellett.

It will be interesting to note the result of the contest between the State Senator and the Congressman.

Conrad Got to Jail.

Peter and Michael Larkins were arraigned before Justice Green at Wm. Penn by Constable Peters on charges preferred by their sister-in-law, Mrs. Julia Larkin. Michael was charged with assault and battery with intent to kill and Peter was called to account for malicious mischief. The former was held in $500 bail and the other in $300, but as both were unable to furnish the security they were committed to the Pottsville jail to await trial. All the parties reside at No. 2.

Superintendents and others having the arrangements of Christmas festivities will do well to consult Kemmerer, 134 North Main street, before purchasing confectionery. 12-5-1f

It Was a Woman.

Constable Peters, of Wm. Penn, happened to be walking through Lost Creek No. 2 yesterday when he heard a woman crying out for help. This constable ran to a house where he supposed the distressed woman to be, and found a Pole named Matt Shalinski beating Mrs. Catherine Joyce. Shalinski was arrested by Peters and when arraigned before Justice Green was placed under $300 bail for trial at court.

The cost of Christmas festivities is comparatively low when the confectionery is purchased off Kemmerer. 12-5-1f

A Burglar Arrested.

Gregory Tribulis, a Hungarian, was taken to the Pottsville jail this morning to await trial on a charge of burglary. The arrest was made by Constable Phillips. Tribulis stole into a boarding house in Schmidt's row at an early morning hour and ransacked several of the bedrooms, but the only article of value he got was a silver watch. This he sold at a small jewelry shop on South Main street and it was recovered there by Constable Phillips.
