IN THE SADDLE.

The South is still in the saddle. If our readers have any doubts about if, read the following editorial taken from the Durham, N. C., Globe, a Democratic newspaper:

Until that rescally pension roll is of the wer and stelle uniforms from the Forthern soldiers dead, so that they would impersonate living soldiers with the ultrante end in view of getting on the pension list, the South will never forget the crimes committed and never forgive the criminals committing them.

The people of the South have forgiven the

Butchers, Bloodhounds

And

Barbarians who charged down on this fair Southland in deflunce of God and man, and turned the country into a seething, shricking hell of gore and fire.

And now they want the last stink and stain of Yankee scoundrelism swept away. They are willing to forget the well-remembered scenes of murdered and mangled Confederates, the Yankee prison belis where brave heroes were starved and frozen to death by the relentless and fiendish North; they even will forget the period of reconstruction and its record of savagery, brotality and debanenery. But we tell you now that as long as they cherish the patriotism of Jerferson Davis-bero and statesmanthey will not condone the menumental craze of the 19th century-the covgentration and accumulation of the New World's wickedness-all found piled and bunched together in the inequitous and damnable pension roll.
