

THE TWINKLING STARS.

How Far Are They Away and Then What Lies Beyond?

Of the 100,000,000 or more stars which are visible with astronomical instruments, the distances from the earth of only a very few have been measured with even an approximation to accuracy. Most of the stars appear to be so far away that the change in their apparent place caused by viewing them from opposite sides of the earth is only about 1/100,000,000 of their distance—so slight that it escapes certain detection. Only about 50 stars have thus far yielded definite results in this attempt to measure their distances, and even those results are too often exceedingly conflicting and uncertain.

The nearest star thus far discovered is one of the first magnitude, not visible from the United States or Europe. It is the star called Alpha in the constellation of the Centaur in the southern hemisphere of the heavens.

The distance of this star appears to be something like 20,000,000,000 miles, or about 1/10,000,000,000 of the distance of the sun from the earth.

The next nearest star, as far as known, is the sixth magnitude twinkler, barely visible to the naked eye, in the constellation of Cygnus, popularly called the northern cross. The distance of this star, which is known to astronomers as 61 Cygni, is variously estimated at from 40,000,000,000 miles to 100,000,000,000 miles, or two or three times that of the bright star in the Centaur.

The brightness of the stars, as we see them, is, then, no measure of their comparative distance. A very bright star may be much more distant than a very faint one, the difference in brilliance being due to the greater magnitude of the more distant star. Sirius, or the dog star, for instance, which scintillates so splendidly in the winter sky, is more distant than the little star 61 Cygni, the latter being in fact a very much smaller star than ours, while Sirius is a far larger one.

It thus appears that, while the efforts to measure the distance of the stars have not been very successful, yet they have resulted in giving us a wonderful insight into the arrangement of the universe of stars in the midst of which we dwell. They have proved that large stars and small stars are scattered through space at various distances from one another and from us; that the dimensions of the blazing bodies which we call stars, or suns, vary to an enormous extent, and that our own sun, great, glorious and overpowering as it seems to us, really belongs to a quite inferior rank.

But it is possible that before many years our knowledge of the distances of the stars may be greatly extended. Spectroscopic investigation in the case of binary stars, as these are called which circle in pairs around their common center of gravity, is beginning to help us a little in this direction.

Recently, for instance, Mr. G. W. Colles, Jr., has calculated, from the results of such investigation, the mean distance of 95 stars situated in the northern hemisphere of the heavens, and he finds it equal to the distance which light would travel in about 150 years. That distance is not less than 87,000,000,000 miles, or more than 43 times as great as the distance of the nearest known star, Alpha Centauri.

Yet, enormous as such a distance is, it is nearly certain that the average distance of all the stars composing the visible universe is still greater. And here and there the starry heavens, even in their richest regions, present black and apparently empty spaces through which we seem to look out from the bounds of the visible universe into fatuous depths beyond.

But is there any thoughtful mind which can avoid asking itself the question, "What lies beyond? When we come to the outermost star of the universe, what then?" That is a question which even astronomy, with all its marvelous wealth of discovery and achievement, cannot answer—at least not yet.—Youth's Companion.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Recording an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with these. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of that nature we have ever known. We have one by word of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of new principle in medicine, and treat the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1895.

These remedies are sold by druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price. It per bottle, six bottles $6, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.
