THE BRIGGS TRIAL.

tumeling. I heard other shots after, but where they came from I couldn't say.

Q. Do you swear you saw everything that went on just at the time Briggs shot?

A. I saw Briggs shoot and saw Amour talking to the man whom I did not know, and saw Mahony grab the gun. Did not testify about Mahony at the coroner's inquest because I was not asked about it.

JOHN FENNELLY sworn: I reside at Mahanoy Plains. Got on the passenger car following the dinky when it was on its way to Gilberton on the night of August 21st, last.

Q. Who was it you saw pull the trigger? A. This man, Briggs. Is that correct? asked Mr. Brumm.

Q. Well, is that true? did you see Briggs pull the trigger? A. Don't remember now that I did.

Q. How long after the shot fired by John Briggs was the shot from the center of the track fired?

A. Couldn't just say; it might have been 10 seconds; both Amour and Briggs were on the platform; Briggs fired the shot.

and we turned up at McKeone's; cannot describe the gun Brown showed me.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

There is a good deal of feeling about this case in Gilberton and considerable talk about it; have talked about this case going up and down in the train and there have been discussions as to how the affair happened and I have given my views upon it.

Q. Did you have a pretty general understanding of the shooting question, especially with reference to Briggs and Mahony?

A. No, sir; not on that point. Q. It was talked about, do you know? A. Among the people.

Q. I mean among the witnesses? A. Yes, sir. C. Did you hear any of the Councilmen leave anything to say? A. No, sir.

Witness continued: didn't see any stones thrown, but heard glass breaking; was much frightened and ran two squares before I stopped; will not swear the man I saw on the railroad was Briggs; when Briggs presented the gun he pointed it over the rail and down to the ground.

Mr. Brumm then turned his attention to reading testimony given by the witness under examination when he was drawn out between the reading of the extracts:

Didn't see Briggs pull the trigger of his gun and swear that I didn't swear before the coroner's jury that I did, at least I don't remember that I did; can't tell whether my memory is as good now as it was before the coroner's jury.

Mr. Brumm then read the following quoted extract:

Q. Who was it you saw pull the trigger? A. This man, Briggs. Is that correct? asked Mr. Brumm.

Q. Well, is that true? did you see Briggs pull the trigger? A. Don't remember now that I did.

cannot say whether he was sitting on his bunkers or standing up.

Q. When Mr. Reynolds swore he was in Foley's hotel when the shooting took place he was mistaken?

A. I don't know. Q. You swear he was there? A. As near to it as possible.

Q. Well, then, if he was there an instant before could it have been possible for him to be in Foley's hotel when the shot was fired?

A. I don't know. I can't say. Q. Do you mean you don't know whether Reynolds was there before the shot was fired and know whether he could have been in Foley's hotel when the shot was fired?

A. He might have been and might not. I couldn't say he was right there.

Q. You did swear Reynolds was there just before the shooting took place talking to Amour and now do you swear that although he was there the instant before the shooting, he also could have been in Foley's hotel, with the doors closed at the time the shot was fired?

A. I can't give any other reason. Q. Is it not the reason that you can't give an answer because you are afraid to contradict what Reynolds swore to?

A. No, sir. Q. Well, now then, can't you give us an explanation? I will give you another chance. A. I can't give any more. It may have been 10 seconds when I stood in front of the car and looked at Briggs after the shooting, but I didn't see Mahony grab the gun. I watched Briggs until the second shot was fired. It came from the crowd in front of the dinky. I saw the revolver and the hand that held it, but I don't know who fired the shot.

Q. You swore before the coroner's jury that you saw Mahony when the shot was fired?

A. I say he was there then. Q. And before you said you didn't see him before the shot was fired, for a minute, more or less?

A. Less, I suppose? Q. So much less that you now bring it right up to the shooting?

A. Yes, sir. When Briggs fired he was facing a little to the southeast with the butt of the gun under his arm and the muzzle resting on the dinky rail. He did not have the gun up to his shoulder.

WILLIAM O'BRIEN sworn:—I live in the East ward of Gilberton. I took no hand in the tearing up of the electric road, I was at different places that night but at the time the first shot was fired I was right in front of the dinky, on the north rail. I heard Garrett Keating. He mentioned to Amour that he was against the tearing up of the track, but now that they brought Winchester rifles he was with the Borough Council and if they wanted to lay the road that night they would have to do it with picks and shovels, but couldn't do it with Winchester rifles. He didn't think it was mainly for them to come to shoot innocent people. Amour was talking to Keating, Reynolds and members of the Borough Council. I heard Reynolds say they couldn't scare the people of Gilberton, or something like that. Amour allowed that he couldn't help it, that he was kind of forced to go there by the officials of the company to do his duty. I heard somebody holler about the Girardville militia and Homestead and with that Briggs came right of the car using the words "Here we are, what do you want?" or something like a curse I couldn't catch it. He laid the gun over the rail and fired. He fired east. He might have shifted it a little to the southeast. I saw a man fall, but there were some people between me and the man who was shot and I couldn't see who he was. I heard a kind of a groan and heard afterwards it was Paritt. I saw Flo. Mahony at the time Briggs fired the shot and afterwards in Foley's saloon. At the time Briggs fired I didn't notice whether anybody else had hold of the gun; I turned and walked away. I only saw Briggs have hold of the gun. I got away before the second shot. I heard several shots, but don't know who fired them.

CROSS EXAMINATION. I don't know whether the other shots I heard came from the dinky or not. I saw one shot close to the dinky, but it was so close I couldn't tell whether it came from the dinky or the bystanders. I saw the flash of this shot and it seemed to be 5 or 6 feet in front of the car. That was the first flash I saw after Briggs fired his shot. I only saw two flashes—the Briggs shot and the second shot, but after that I heard several shots in rapid succession. I didn't see and firearms with any person outside of those in the dinky and saw nobody under the influence of liquor.

He kissed one of the latter on the head and a hair lodged in his throat, bringing on a severe coughing spell, in the midst of which a blood vessel burst and Mr. Harvey died in a few minutes. Beautiful Gift

From the EVENING HERALD To Its Readers.

Everyone is delighted with the lovely engravings in the first part of

MASTERPIECES

From the Art Galleries of the World

They declare that it is the most artistic book ever published. Some of our friends are so enthusiastic about it that they are subscribing for two and three copies of the paper, so as to be able to procure several copies of the work.

Many others have interested themselves on our behalf and have started more people on the right road by giving them coupons, and seeing to it that they get the first part of the "Masterpieces."

The whole business has proved an unqualified success. Every one is pleased, and we are gaining in numbers.

The Story of the Work.

A lover of pictures, a man of means, making a tour of the art galleries of the world, realized that the luxury of seeing all these beauties was limited to the very wealthy, and to them only by wearisome and expensive traveling and time. "Why not in the present age of perfect photographic reproduction, why not reproduce the most beautiful, the most popular, the most noted of these art treasures?" was the question he asked himself. Why not indeed; no sooner thought of than he applied his means and prestige to secure large photographs of the choice pictures.

The result is "MASTERPIECES FROM THE ART GALLERIES OF THE WORLD." The original idea was to issue the book in parts just as it is now being done; but to charge $2.50 a part or $100.00 in all. Now, a syndicate of newspaper publishers has purchased the photographs and plates and is issuing them to "Boom Circulation."

Now, every one may have this magnificent work which was originally intended for the rich man's palace.

Such is the force of nineteenth century invention, machinery, enterprise, and desire for circulation.

The Way To Get It.

For the first part, print to this office one of the coupons brought on page 4 and 10 cents.

For subsequent parts, send six coupons and 10 cents.

Out of town readers may send their coupons and money by letter to us and the parts will be mailed to them direct from New York.

What We Expect You to Do For Us.

Every day a coupon will be printed on the fourth page of this paper. For this, first, you require only one of these coupons, give the others to different friends who should be readers of this paper. Induce them to bring the coupons to the office and secure the first part of "Masterpieces."

After that we are quite sure they will take and read the paper regularly to obtain the other parts.

If after that we cannot hold them as regular readers, it will be our own fault. Do not be uneasy if you do not receive your mail order for a few days. The demand is so great that it is sometimes impossible to keep up with orders.
