JOHN BRIGGS' STORY.

before that. When Amour asked me to go to Gilberton I understood that we were to go there to keep guard on the workmen who were to lay the track and for that purpose I volunteered to go home and get my gun. When I went home I found that my gun was not there, and I went to my father's house, but he had sold it to Mr. Brown, a Springfield. He lives about 200 yards from me, but on different streets. We went after our gun together and I think he waited on Second street until I came from my house.

At this point witness identified the gun marked 'F' and '30' as his. The gun is a state piece, served me by Co. F, 8th Regiment of Girardville, of which I have been a member since June, 1890. I am now serving my second enlistment, which began on June 25, 1893. After I came out of my term of service I went to Mr. 'Archer,' our Quartermaster, at Shenandoah, but he was not home and his wife gave me three boxes of cartridges, each containing about twenty. I gave Brown one box and kept the other two. The first I know there were other arms on the dinky was when we were somewhere between Girardville and Mahanoy Plane. I loaded my own gun on the way to Gilberton. I suppose Brown, loaded his own gun, if it was loaded. On the way Amour gave orders that no person was to shoot unless he gave orders. The Springfield rifle don't hold more than one cartridge. When I went to the front platform after the dinky got to Gilberton I saw some parties on it, but I can't say who they were. Mr. Amour was on the north end, but I can't say whether Mr. Brown was there. I believe there was somebody on the southern end of the platform. I did not see Amour after the shooting until I saw him in the car, going home. I had been sitting in the car about ten minutes before I heard the crowd outside shouting and cheering.

Q. What did you go out there at all for? A. I went out thinking that when the crowd would see us with the guns they would decide not to make a raid on us. Q. You went out to intimidate the people, so that they would not make an attack on the car? A. Yes, sir.

Q. To frighten the people of Gilberton. A. No, sir; not to frighten them, but to frighten them, what effect would you expect your gun would have? A. I thought they would change their minds and not attack us.

Q. How would it be brought about? A. They would see us stand on ground. Q. Do you mean to say that would not be the result of fight? A. I could not say it would.

At this point Mr. Wedelinger raised Briggs' gun and allowing the barrel to fall upon the railing of the witness box with a deliberate voice and with stern glance at the prisoner, Briggs, why did you put a cartridge in that gun that night? A. Because I saw other guns getting loaded.

Q. Is that the only reason you can give? A. That is all, sir. Q. Will you state whether or not it required a loaded gun to make the people of Gilberton stand back that night? A. I suppose an empty gun would have the same effect as a loaded one for the purpose I wanted it.

Q. Why, then, did you go to your Quartermaster's office that night and get 90 cartridges to take to Gilberton? A. I can't say. I can give no explanation.

Q. Didn't you know before you started for Gilberton that night that under the military laws of this state and your oath as a soldier, that you had no right to take either that gun or the state ammunition to Gilberton? A. No, sir; I didn't. I never gave it a thought.

Briggs then described how he made his escape after the shooting. I ran to the other end of the car, got off at the northwest corner and ran down the north side of the street until I came to a piece of opening, on the south side, a vacant lot, and then I crossed the street and ran down this lot to the railroad and then went straight down the railroad. I had a gun with me. That gun I took off the seat in the car just before I jumped off the platform. I saw some parties on the railroad, but did not stop to talk to any until I met Mr. Weaver. There was an engine coming down the track and as I thought that some who might be after me might see me by the headlights of the engine I got off the railroad and against a fence. Just as the engine passed Weaver hindered me and came up. I thought he got off the engine because I didn't see him before. We walked down to Mahanoy Plane together. When we got near the Reading depot there Brown came down behind us. I think he had his gun. We saw the dinky coming and I asked Brown to stand stop. I could not ride home. He did and the dinky waited for Weaver and me near the West Bear Ridge colliery at which and then we went home. I went home and got there about 1 1/2. I washed the blood off my head and neck and the doctor told me to keep cold water on my leg. At about 3 or 4 o'clock that morning a constable called at my house when I was in bed with a warrant for my arrest. That was the first that I know that anybody except Amour and myself had been shot. I told the constable he had better see the doctor as to whether I could go to jail then. They went over and I sent to Frank Reisinger, a coal and iron policeman, and I told him I could not manage to go down to otterville with him if they would get a buggy to take me to the depot. They did and they took me to the station. I walked from the depot in Potterville to the jail, but my leg was very painful. Mr. Reisinger, the captain of the Girardville police, was with me. The gun I took from the dinky when I ran away I saw in on the passenger car when we got to Girardville and I told the conductor, Albert Kloss, to put it in the power house.

A constable was sent over to the jail to get the parts Briggs wore at the riot and when they were produced Briggs identified them and pointed out the bullet hole in the leg.

Charles Godinski, of Shenandoah, sat in the tunnel at Bear Ridge colliery at Tuesday noon contentedly eating his meal of pork and bread, and while musing over the day when he might return to the "old country," he picked up a stick of dynamite and carelessly tapped the rail with the harmless looking explosive, as a boy would a stick. The dynamite here this sort of annoyance as long as it could and then suddenly went off with great force and the Pole's hand went with it—where to, is not exactly known, as it has not been found since. The poor fellow jumped to his feet, yelled and danced like a Cossack and ran like a deer for the "top" from whence he was removed to the Ashland hospital.

An Art Gem.

Every one who has seen the first part of "Masterpieces from the Art Galleries of the World" acknowledges its beauty and value, and they wonder how we can afford to give it away as we do. They do not realize that securing more readers, regular subscribers, is the great aim of every publisher and that he is willing to spend a great deal of money in doing it. This system costs us very little more than the employment of expensive canvassers and it is a much more pleasant way. Everybody is thanking us for what we are doing. Our old subscribers feel that we are doing a friendly act and in return they are inducing thousands of new ones to start in with us. For this first part, one coupon and ten cents all that we require, for further parts six coupons and ten cents will be asked. That will compel the new men to take the paper regularly every day. That is the why in a nutshell.

Did We Steal Them?

No, the man who suggested that we must have stolen these Masterpieces of Art was mistaken; we paid good money for them and we are being repaid by the thanks of our readers, and by the efforts they are making to spread our circulation. They are the best kind of canvassers, and are doing their work well. Out of town readers will forward their coupons and ten cents and address to this office, and we will have the part sent them by mail from New York. Local readers should hand in the coupons and ten cents at this office and take the part home with them. If possible bring a friend along, so that he may see what a good thing it is.

Councillman Charged with Embezzlement. POTTERVILLE, Pa., Jan. 18.—Solicitor Matton has been instructed by the council to bring suit for embezzlement against William B. Townsend, a councillor from the Southeast ward. Townsend was chairman of the construction committee last year, and it is alleged that he has collected money from property owners for making connections to culverts, and did not turn it into the treasury. It is further alleged that he bought goods illegally and paid exorbitant prices for work and supplies.

Against "Preferred" Creditors. ALBANY, Jan. 18.—The bill which Senator Cantor introduced yesterday in relation to the immediate maturity of all obligations of an insolvent man is one of the most important measures introduced in the legislature in years. Under the old law creditors sometimes had to wait months for the collection of the same, until the paper which they held matured. The proposed bill matures all debts of all kinds and characters, and places every creditor on an equal footing.

A State Pickers Terrible Death. SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 18.—Michael Diskin, a 18-year-old boy, employed as a slats picker at Corey's breaker, met a frightful death. While walking on a plank above the immense cogwheels that turn the screens he became dizzy and fell between the cogs. The body passed through the steel cogs in less than a minute and was thrown to the ground below in an unrecognizable shape. The head and legs were separated from the body and were terribly crushed.

To Abolish Child Labor. BALTIMORE, Jan. 18.—The recently organized Union for Public Good, consisting of labor organizations, and city and state officials, last night inaugurated a vigorous crusade on the "sweating system" and the child labor evil. Active measures are to be taken at once and the Maryland legislature, now in session, will be petitioned to deal a death blow to both evils.

Lawyer Shall Acquitted. NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa., Jan. 18.—The trial of Lawyer J. W. Shull for the shooting of District Attorney Baker on Dec. 9 resulted in Shull's acquittal. The grand jury ignored all the counts of the indictment except the minor ones of assault with intent to maim and assault and battery. The defense admitted the shooting and claimed that Baker was the aggressor.

Crushed Under a Train. HOBOKEN, N. J., Jan. 18.—A construction train of five cars used on a temporary railroad in construction with the building of the new tunnel at Fairview, N. J., fell through a trestle, killing two men and injuring twenty-eight others. They were Italian laborers and were at work under the trestle. Many of the injured are badly mangled and not expected to live.

Coughlin's Lengthy Trial. CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—It is estimated that it will take two more months to introduce all the evidence of the defense in the Coughlin trial as was required by the state. It took about six weeks to introduce the state witnesses, and should the defense consume an equal period the verdict of the jury may not be looked for until about March 1.

To Be Brought Back for Murder. WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 18.—Word was received here last night of the arrest of John Swinburn at Baker, Kan. Swinburn is charged with the murder of James Johnson at Hanover, Luzerne county, last October. A reward of $500 was offered for the arrest of the murderer.

Stories of Hardship Denied. ST. PAUL, Jan. 18.—The Winnipeg curiers now in the city are very indignant over the report from Montreal that their destination prevails in their city. They say these reports are absolutely false, and without the shadow of foundation. They say that Manitoba is prosperous.

May Contest Hopkins' Election. CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—It is reported that the Republicans will reconsider their decision, and will contest the recent election of Mayor John R. Hopkins. The law allows but thirty days to file this formal contest and the time will expire tomorrow.

Big Stone Works Resume. POTTERVILLE, Pa., Jan. 18.—The extensive works of the March-Brownback Stone company resumed operations yesterday, giving employment to a large number of their men, who have been idle for a long time.

We know that when they get the first they will want all the others and will have to take the paper regularly to get the coupons. That is the whole idea.

This series of art pictures will be the most complete and magnificent ever published. Every artist of note, through the world, contributes his or her best work to the series.

The engravings are of the very highest grade of Photographic Copper half-tones, and are perfect reproductions of the magnificent originals. Do not neglect to cut out the coupon to-day and get your part immediately and don't forget your friends.

The Story of the Work.

A lover of pictures, a man of means, making a tour of the art galleries of the world, realized that the luxury of seeing all these beauties was limited to the very wealthy, and to them only by wearisome and expensive traveling and time. "Why not in the present age of perfect photographic reproduction, why not reproduce the most beautiful, the most popular, the most noted of these art treasures?" was the question he asked himself. Why not indeed; no sooner thought of than he applied his means and prestige to secure large photographs of the choice pictures.

The result is "MASTERPIECES FROM THE ART GALLERIES OF THE WORLD." The original idea was to issue the book in parts just as is now being done; but to charge $2.50 a part or $100.00 in all. Now, a syndicate of newspaper publishers has purchased the photographs and plates and is issuing them to "Boom Circulation."

Now, every one may have this magnificent work which was originally intended for the rich man's palace.

Such is the force of nineteenth century invention, machinery, enterprise, and desire for circulation.

The Way To Get It.

For the first part, bring to this office one of the coupons printed on page 4 and 10 cents.

For subsequent parts, send six coupons and 10 cents.

Out of town readers may send their coupons and money by letter to us and the parts will be mailed to them direct from New York.

What We Expect You to Do For Us.

Every day a coupon will be printed on the fourth page of this paper. For this, first, you require only one of these coupons, give the others to different friends who should be readers of this paper. Induce them to bring the coupons to the office and secure the first part of "Masterpieces."

After that we are quite sure they will take and read the paper regularly to obtain the other parts.

If after that we cannot hold them as regular readers, it will be our own fault. Do not be uneasy if you do not receive your mail order for a few days. The demand is so great that it is sometimes impossible to keep up with orders.

ALLOW US TO

Introduce You—A Royal Presentation of People of Renown.

The EVENING HERALD is permitted to introduce to its readers some of the renowned persons of the world. You won't have to travel to meet them. You will sit in your home with your wife and children around you and some face to face with splendid photographs of some of the world's most famous people—people that you may never see in the flesh.

And when you begin to weary of studying the features of this class of society we will show you a good many places and things in faraway climes that many of your brethren have gladly paid thousands of dollars to see. In this tour you can take your family with you without extra cost and without the discomforts of travel to you all.

With the old Greeks to see was to know. The same word which expressed the act of vision denoted also the perception of the mind. Nor may it be doubted that all the avenues between the inward and spiritual soul of man and the outward and visible world of tangible things, the sense of sight is the brightest and most delightful. Vision is the sense alike of information and ideality—the open way of knowledge and of dreams.

The advantages of pictorial representation as a means of informing and verifying can hardly be exaggerated. Wherever travel is practicable there the lens, with its quick flash of light and swiftly caught image of nature and man has come in to supply the deficiency and to transmit to homes in distant lands the picture and vision of the reality.

Now if you will go with us on this voyage you will see many wonderful things, meet many celebrated personages and you will not lose any time from business.

The first week we are going to introduce to you:

The Venerable Justices of the Supreme Court. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland.

Prominent members of the Senate and House. The Presidents of the United States since the formation of government.

Twenty-eight well known Governors now in office. President Harrison and his Cabinet.

Prominent Republicans. Prominent Democrats. General famous since the war.

Celebrated Union Generals. Famous Confederate Generals. Leaders of the Navy.

Foreign Ministers at Washington. The following weeks we shall introduce other notables and then begin our travels in foreign lands.

By this time you will be doubtless curious to know the conditions of this trip. LISTEN: Each day cut out the coupons printed in this paper beginning Monday, January 13, 1894, and put it aside with one cent. Seven of these coupons, consecutively numbered and seven cents will obtain for you Portfolio I of "THE WORLD AND ITS PEOPLE BY SUNLIGHT." The famous collection of photographic views just prepared by the noted traveler John Clark Ridpath, L. L. D. Each Portfolio will contain 16 pages and there will be 26 portfolios. The whole series will contain the most valuable Art Collection, such as cannot be met with often. For your own pleasure and for the education of your children you should have the complete series and you should seize the opportunity now. If you are already getting the EVENING HERALD all you have to do is to save your coupons and pennies.

If you are not getting the EVENING HERALD send your name and address, and the paper will be left by carriers for you every day. The coupons will begin to appear on Monday, January 13, 1894. LOOK OUT FOR THEM!
