Last evening the Hill Opers Compan, produced the old and appreciated play, "East Lynne," in the hall here. It was a complet success and received the approxiation of all who witnessed it. Miss Fuller repre-Indid, and did in to perfection. All the other members of the company played their respective parts in the first sinsa order. The audience was somewhat larger than the preceding night, but should be barger for such good plays as this company is producing. There will be no play this evening on second of the masquerate ball, but on Saturday there will be a matinee in the afternoon, and in the evening "liandsome Jack" will be prodused.

Hospitals.

Hospitals, as we now understand the term, are of modern growth. True it is, as Mr. Burdett tells us in the bistorical section of "Bospitals and Asylums of the World," that in the records of Egypt and ancient India we find allusions to institutions that foreshodow the hospitals of later times, and even our asylums for sick an imals are horrowed from the east.

imals are borrowed from the cast. An inscription engraved on a rock near the city of Surat tells how Anoka, a king who reigned in Gujerat in the third cen-tury B. C., commanded the establishment of hospitals in all his dominions and placed one at each of the four gates of the royal city of Patna. Six hundred years after this Fa-Hian, an intelligent Chinese traveler who gated India to 200 A. D traveler who visited India in 899 A. D. records that Asoka's hospitals still existed and flourished, but the successive floods of conquest swept all away, and by the be-ginning of this century only a hospital for manipod of all the pious king
