COUNTY SEAT LETTER.

COMMENTS ON "THE MILL."

The Height of the Ambition of Ex-County Officials Appears to be the Satiate Business.—This Belief Seems to be Sustained by Statistics.

POTTSVILLE, Feb. 2.—The license mill has temporarily suspended operations. The judges are now preparing more fuel. If a multiplicity of evidence as to good character and a necessity for dispensaries of malt and brewed liquors counts for anything Shenandoah will have an abundance of such places and the borough treasury will be greatly enriched.

The Call of Schuykill Haven, is not in good mood over the trick played upon it by the Republic of this place. The Board of Health ordinances were to have been published by the lowest bidder. Had the Republic charged its full rates, the same as it charges the county, the borough and others, it would have asked $100 for the publication, but it cut its own rates and took the work for $42 and the Call was left at the $45 mark.

Jeff Vost is quite a fixture in the Clerk of the Courts office and has become one of the best known men on the "hill." I would not be surprised if he should be up seriously for Sheriff this year. I know that he has been buzzing in his hat for years past, but perhaps he will decide to wait until after his present term as clerk expires. Jeff is still young.

Within a few years Pottsville will have as many dress shops as Shenandoah has. The majority of officials who step out of office on the hill seem to see no other business open to them than the saloon. Two-thirds of the ex-county officials of recent years are now mixing cocktails.

I see our old friend General Joshua Sigfried has resigned the management of the electric railway here, to become a member of the assembly of the navy, and in the process of dispersing with the motor men and making himself a man of the conductor. The General displayed good sense in resigning, under the circumstances.

There are rumors afloat that a new daily Republican organ is to be established here, but no intimation is made as to who the people behind the project are. The chances are ten to one that it is a growth of some disappointment, if it has any likely existence, and will end in wind.

I hear there is excellent sleighing north of the Broad Mountain. There isn't a bit here, but we have a most beautiful supply of mud on hand.

FAILED TO FIGHT.

Many Sports Disappointed at Mahanoy City Last Night.

MAHANAY CITY, Feb. 2.—Two hundred sports of all sorts assembled in the Armory hall at 12 o'clock last night to witness a twenty round glove contest between Charles Gillespie of Boston, and "Joe" Giller of Norristown, for a purse of $100. The entertainment was opened by several bouts between local stars of local reputation, after which the big "go" was announced.

Giller entered the ring, a well built, good looking young fellow of 180 pounds. He was stripped to the waist and wore black trunks and hose of the same color. Gillespie did not put in an appearance, however, and the spectators grew impatient. One of his backers then came forward and announced that the receipts of the evening after expenses were paid, only amounted to $29, and that the Boston man refused to fight for less than $100.

The crowd became angry, but that they might not be disappointed by having no fight, "Pat" Cleary, a well known heavy weight, offered to spar any man in the house, four rounds for fun, or the gate receipts. It was a tempting offer to many local scrappers, but a glance at Cleary's six feet and three inches height sufficed to remove the temptation. Young Giller accepted the offer, and the heavy and the giant went at it hammer and tongs for a minute until the crowd saw how one-sided honors were bound to be called "enough." There was a general howl for a return of the ad-vo-lon money, but as many dead-heads and some swelled-heads had been admitted to the 1,500 pound horse, the doubtful of their ability to make returns to the right parties.

The affair was an experience lesson to the management, for reasons of their own, objected to any advertisement of the event and the result was a poor attendance.

At the Theatre.

Ferguson's theatre will next Tuesday be the scene of a woman's triumph. It will be the marvelous exhibition of strength by Madame Yucca who is the acknowledged queen of strong women. Her handles 68 and 120 pound weights as if they were each a handful of feathers. She holds a 55-pound weight in her teeth with a large 120-pound dumb bell. She outgives her daring act with the great lift of a 1,500 pound horse. Her feats are filled with a No. 1 vanderbilt act. Cal McCarty will spar each evening and will meet all comers in his class.

Resolutions of Condolence.

WHEREAS, It has pleased our all-wise Providence to take out of this world and from the sphere of its activity our esteemed director, Michael Monaghan.

Resolved, That we, the directors of the Shenandoah Citizens' Water and Gas Company, recognize in the death of Michael Monaghan the loss of a most efficient director of our company.

Resolved, That we extend and express our heartfelt sympathies to the bereaved family.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the bereaved family, that they be spread on the minutes, and published in both of our town papers.

G. W. CHILDS DEAD.

The Great Philanthropist Died in Philadelphia This Morning.

Special to EVENING HERALD. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—George William Childs, editor of the Public Ledger, died at 3:01 o'clock this morning. A. P. A.

George William Childs was born in Baltimore in 1825. The practical part of his makeup was born with him. When he was 12 years of age he spent a summer vacation as errand boy in a book store at a salary of two dollars a week and enjoyed it. Almost anything might be expected of a boy of 12 who enjoyed running errands, and Mr. Childs has not disappointed the expectation. Soon after he moved to Philadelphia and entered a store, doubtless as a mixture of clerk and errand boy.

Mr. Childs had good business judgment, but it required something more than judgment to pay $100,000 for a piece of property losing that amount annually—it required pluck. The owner at the end of the first week doubted the price and advanced the advertising rate. There was a considerable falling off of advertisements, but the paper had become a medium of communication between buyers and sellers, landlords and tenants, bereaved families and their friends, and the first loss of patronage was not felt.

The Ledger now grows in proportion. Mr. Childs made more than $1,000,000 clear profit.

Of Mr. Childs' more practical American charities, even those which are known are too numerous to catalogue. To serve him in his employ was sure to bring the employer a pension when worn out, and during his term of service a certainty of being cared for in his misfortune. But doubtless the unknown charities surpassed those which were manifest. He gave away a fortune every year. One who once saw a private record of his charities has said that, though the period covered was only one month, the total amount given was $25,000.

One of Mr. Childs' hobbies was the cultivation of distinguished people, but while he aspired to be intimate with those in power he took equal pride in the friendship of those whose fame brought with it no substantial influence. His personal reminiscences of General Grant, published in Lippincott's Magazine some years ago, revealed an extremely simple and unpretentious man and constituted one of the most interesting contributions concerning the life of the great commander.

TRIP TO THE VALLEY.

Big Sleighting Party From Town Last Night.

DANCING AND FEASTING.

The School Teachers of This Borough Gave Miss Faust a Royal Farewell—Five Big Sleighs Were Required for the Trip To Party.

The pleasure seekers are prompt in taking advantage of the excellent sleighing and at all times of the day and night the jingle of the bells can be heard. The local school teachers, or the great majority of them at least, had their turn last night. They made up one of the largest sleighting parties seen here for several years in honor of Miss Carrie W. Faust, one of their colleagues, who concluded her school teaching work here yesterday afternoon and will leave on Monday for Scranton, to take a position in the College Engineer office.

At about seven o'clock last evening the teachers met in the public library on South West street and proceeded to Miss Faust's home on West Centre street. Here there was quite a large social gathering, many people who did not take part in the subsequent sleigh rides and the attending festivities being present. Messrs J. R. Coyle, Edw. R. A. Davenport, Frank B. Williams, James E. Lewis, John E. Scheubing, Superintendent M. P. Whitaker and M. P. Conry made addresses, expressing appreciation of Miss Faust's social qualities and abilities as a school teacher, and regret over the lady's impending departure.

At nine o'clock the sleighting party started from the house. It was composed of Messrs. Carrie Faust, Ella M. Connor, Maggie B. Cunningham, Annie E. Connor, Ida Baumbarger, Marie H. Wesley, Annie L. Shesky, Annie Morrison, Corinne Tempert, Sallie E. Conry, Kate Cunningham, Ida P. K. D., Alice McDougal, Jennieville, Maggie C. Brennan, John T. Lambert, Lizze M. Carroll, Mary A. Suter, Nellie L. O'Hara, Annie Burke, Julia Miles, Hedget R. Conry, Mary E. Fox, E. M. Conry, J. E. Bridgely, A. Birnie, Lizze M. O'Connell, Annie E. Marshall, and Yeaman M. J. and W. H. Toner, Worcester, Mass.; M. B. Britt, M. F. Conry, J. W. Busker, J. B. Scheubing, Frank B. Williams, James R. Lewis, Hugh and Michael O'Hara, Harry Dowling, James M. Mullahy, J. R. Coyle and R. A. Davenport.

At about 10 o'clock this morning burglars broke into the cellar of James Shields' Mansion House on East Centre street and rifled away a whiskey barrel. In effecting an entrance the burglars broke the door from its hinges. When Mr. Shields went into the cellar this morning he found a half barrel which he had filled with water several months ago, to keep it from falling apart, was the one carried away. He subsequently found it at the rear end of his property. There were four half barrels of beer in the cellar, but the burglars seem to have preferred whiskey. Mr. Shields says if they will call at his saloon he will set up the genuine stuff.

Burglars' Despoilments.

The burglar men are doing good business now.

The following letters remain in the Shenandoah post office unclaimed for (to date): J. Mack, Capt. W. W. Faulkner, Thomas McAndrew, Harry Gullana, John J. Brown, Carl Adolph Wackerseh, J. Kliss, M. D.

The entertainment to be given by the Salvation Army in town, on Monday evening, in their barracks, sought to draw several months ago, to keep it from falling apart, was the one carried away. He subsequently found it at the rear end of his property. There were four half barrels of beer in the cellar, but the burglars seem to have preferred whiskey.

Fell on a Stairway.

While descending a stairway, at her residence on South Jardin street, yesterday, Mrs. Charles Hanks slipped and in the fall sustained a severe cut upon the back of her head. Dr. Matter was summoned. He said there was no injury to Mrs. Hanks' skull, but she will be confined to her home for several days by the injury sustained.

Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Laura M. Harmon took place this afternoon from the family residence at South Bowers street. There was a large attendance. The remains were interred in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

Correction.

Mrs. Ferris, who was mentioned in the HERALD describing of charity, resides at 231 East Lloyd street. This statement is made for the benefit of any who may wish to send contributions direct to the family.

Church Notice.

Rev. J. Prunde, the pastor, will preach in the P. M. church to-morrow morning on "Foster thy Faith" and the evening sermon will be preached by Rev. S. Cooper, of Stormsville.

SYRIAN WEDDING.

Joseph Mandour, The East Centre Street Merchant, Married.

The first celebration of a syrian wedding ever held in this town is in progress in the First ward. Joseph Mandour, the East Centre street dry goods and notion dealer, was married last Thursday to Miss Amelia Schalla, of Boston, Mass. The ceremony was performed in St. John's Roman Catholic church, in Boston. The groomsmen were Kalle Darwech and the bride's maid Miss Mary Joseph, both of Shenandoah.

The bride is an accomplished young woman of eighteen summers. She is of French parentage, was born in Paris, France, and speaks the syrian, French, Italian, Spanish and English languages. In the syrian language a welcome to the visitors and good wishes to the bride and groom. During the chanting instruments are played and zetolets discharged. When the reporter entered the room he thought he was going into a gayety where a shot had just been fired, but he found Mr. Mandour and his bride smiling and happy and the friends in the room jolly.

During the wedding festivities the groom and his bride sit in a room behind a small table upon which are two lighter candles and a few ornaments. The intimate friends dance, and sing and play upon instruments before them and refreshments are passed around. As visitors enter, everybody in the room arise from their seats and salute. Then they chant what is in the syrian language a welcome to the visitors and good wishes to the bride and groom. During the chanting instruments are played and zetolets discharged. When the reporter entered the room he thought he was going into a gayety where a shot had just been fired, but he found Mr. Mandour and his bride smiling and happy and the friends in the room jolly.
