THEIR HONEYMOON.

TROUBLES OF A YOUNG WOMAN WHO MARRIED A DOCTOR.

He Was So Afraid of Microbes That They Were Continually Being Guarded Against-Wouldn't Allow Her to Wear

Young Mrs. Boms heaved a deep sigh as she handed her dainty pink and white cup across the little ten table to her bosom friend, Mrs. Tublets, for "just one more lump of sugar," and helped besself to an-

Mrs. Tublets was startled, "My dear-est Laura," she exciaimed, "what can such a heartranding sigh mean on the lips of a bride but just returned from her hon-

I do not mind admitting to you, dear Marie," said Mrs. Boggs, putting her now empty cup upon the fable, "that I have already found out that the fate of a doctor's wife is not in all respects an enviable

"Why, Laura, what do you mean! You can as yet have into no experience of inter-rupted dinners, midnight valls and bad

"As you know, dear Marie," replied young Mrs. Beags, "we started immediately after our wedding for Chicago, and my first trial legan the very evening of our arrival. We teached the hotel about 9 o'clock to find that instead of the fine suit of rooms we had engaged only one rather shabily bedchamber had been saved for us. Of course if was too late to change our quarters that evening, even supposing that we could do better at our of the other hotels. I left very disty and made up my used that a nice warm bath was the thing meeting and so I rang the bell and ordered one prepared. Upon linaring the order, Mr. Boggs turned to me with a look of horror open his face.

"Bo you mean to say," be cried, that you would actually take a bath to a public tub in which anybody who pays a few cents can isother."

""Certainly," I replied, "when I have not a private one. I must keep clean."

"Laura," cried the dector, do you not know that a number of decadful disway? You really will have to countermind the order. I am very sorry to disappoint you, in not for thousands of dollars would I have you can such a risk.

"And so of course! I had to give up my many covered beto."

"And so at course I had to give up my much covered bath."

'Poor Laura, 'sold Mrs. Tublets, a very little smile of any moment carling the conner of her mouth. But Mrs. Bogns did not see it and continued sadly.

'Most people had trauble in getting their luggage, and we were among the unfortunate in that regard, but I consoled myself with the idea that the next day I could easily go to one of the dry goods shops and buy some clean clothes. 'I shall not mind the inconvenience at all.' I remarked cheerfully to William, 'because, you know, I can try them on and be sure that they fit ulculy.' Alns, poor little me! I seemed destined to shock what I call his projudless.

"'Of course you must be joking,' he call his projudices.

"'Of course you must be joking,' he cried. But I assured him I was never more serious in my life. Then he boked actually grieved at my ignorance and remarked that shopkeepers who allowed undergarments to be tried on ought to be denorments to be tried on ought to be subject to arrest and line, if not actually to imprisonment. Of course more but thoughtless, careless persons would dream of wearing ready unde underelaties until they had been laundered, considering the fact that they are commonly made in tene-ment houses full of dirt and bacteria, but to actually go to a slop where people were allowed to try on such garments, thus propagating disgrating skin diseases, one must be simply read.

GILBERTON.

Dr. R. J. Rits has removed to the dwelling lately vacated by Dr. Gillers.

Peter Lealy, of Malomoy City, visited in Maireville yesterday.

Rev. John Maginnis yesterday went to Tamaqua, where he delivered a lecture.

"You might have supposed that this would be a lesson to him not to interfere with my personal fiberty, but not at all. Hardly two weeks had properly the hilly powning, when we were going to breakfast in the fiftle sitting room which we had finally secured, all slipped on a lovely wadded Japaness wrapper of pale blie silk most clandrately embroidered in causary colored floss, and as I took a last entury colored floss, and as I took a last gloses at myself before leaving my ladroom I felt that I looked very nice indeed.
"When I appeared at the breakfast ta-ble, however, I saw a shade of displeasure cross my bushend's face as he looked with marked disapproval at my pretty wrapper.

" Laura, he said very seriously, 'have you ever worn that gown before?"

" No," I answered, wondering what was coming next.

"Then do me the layer to take it off and never put it on again. Yes, my dear, I know it is exceedingly pretty, but as likely as not the person who worked all that elaborate ambroilers was a laper of the victim of some cutan-ons disorder. Those orientals are so prone to such dis-cases, and I cannot allow you to run the risk of scentur the garnest, rich and comfortable as it is.

comfortable as it is.

"Of course after that I could never take any pleasure in the dress, even if he had not alsolutely forbidden my wearing it. I was so disappointed that I cried as I changed it for a plain American ten gown

"In early September we went to the mountains for a couple of weeks. We were at such a nice hotel! One of the first things that charmed me was the fact that every evening we found in our room a nice pitcher of ice water. The dector had ascertained shortly after our arrival that the water was safe to drink, and I was suppying a glass of it in my room one ovening, when William entered and said; "You are outdrinking water with ice in it, I treed.

Our only replying that I was, he asked if no one had ever explained to me the manger of low in country places. Of course, he added, ice is not easy to procure in sufficient quantities to last all summor for a large hotel, and so they take any less they can find, and much of it comes from punds of sugmant water. Many cases of replical fever can be directly traced to be driving of ice water made from such see. The latter of course molts very quickly and soft is us if you were drinking the unincality, sugmant water direct.

"From day 12 day 1 found that on various projects most of the incurrence of life to be being the way. pense, I was recurred to that restriction. But, my dear, if you over marry again, I sarangly urge you to select a husband from some profession other than that of medicine. "—Washington Star.

He Wors a Wig Himself, but He Wasn't

Interested in Wigs.

A cheerful looking citizen who had a firm grip on a strap in a State street cable car the other morning leaned down to speak to a scated but restless passenger wedged it between two larger men.

"That's a pentry good wig you're wearing, mister," he said, in a confidential tone,
"but anybody can see that it's a wig"—

"I say it's a pretty good wig, as wigs go and I'm a judge of wigs. I've tried at least

"Sir, when I need any of your"—
"Not on my own head, of course. I neve had occasion to use anything of the kind. But my grandmother"—

But my grandmother.

"Confound your grandmother, sir!"

"That's what I always used to say. She was rather hard to get along with. No body could please her. She didn't seem to appreciate kindness. You'd never get any thanks from her. She took everything as her. matter of course. When she was about 6 years old, she took a notion her hair was to thin and she must have a wig. Largue with her, but it didn't do any good. She must have her hair trimmed short, and I had to buy her ever to many wige in trying to suit her, and when you've worm a wire awhile it's dead stock. Wigs and returnable, you know. Finally she took notion she'd be more comfortable if the bair that grew on her head was cut clear off. To humor her, I lathered her head a ever and shaved it as clean and slick as billiard ball. She seemed to like the fac-ing of it, and I had to shave her head regt larly once a week for a month or two and then twice a week. It only made the half grow faster and thicker. I had to keep having new wigs for her all the time, too, mind you. This went on for a year or two

"One day I had a fall and broke my righ arm. I couldn't shave her head for all weeks, and she wouldn't let anybody el-do it. At the end of that time she had weep of hair as thick and abundant as Par erewistl's, only it wasn't as long, you know, and it stuck straight up as still as a prize ighter's. She couldn't wear any of her wigs. The bristles stuck up through them size a percupine's quills. I only mention this to show what oan, he done with son, and a rixer.
