J. P. WILLIAMS & SON

Commemoration of WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY!

An extraordinary example of what human skill can produce in weaving a textile fabric can be seen on exhibition in our window all this week. This is a copy of Stuart's famous portrait of George Washington, woven entirely on the loom without printing or touching up of any sort. It almost shakes one's credulity to be told that the work is entirely the result of the weaver's skill. Yet, such is the fact. This marvel, which was one of the sensations of Chicago, is composed of 800,000 threads of silk, made on a Jacquard pattern which required 25,000 cards, and which took the labor of some of the best experts in the world, using the finest appliances of Lyons, two and one-half years to produce. It cost $8,000 to make this masterpiece. It is really a work of art, and as such is worthy of the closest study.

BURGLARS ARRESTED.

James Dowling in the Hands of the Police.

HE STANDS COMMITTED!

An Overcoat Leads to His Arrest For a Coal Street Burglary Yesterday Morning. Two Young Men Arrested This Morning. Held For a Hearing.

Chief of Police O'Hara made an important arrest last night and it was followed by two more early this morning to which the authorities attach also some importance, although the latter may not come up to expectations. Between one and two o'clock Sunday morning a pane in the show window of Mrs. Griffin's grocery and candy store on West Coal street was broken and a pedestrian on the opposite side of the street, who saw a man with his body half-way through the opening made by the breaking of the pane yelled "Police!" The burglar, as he proved to be, withdrew from the opening and dashed up the street, disappearing in the darkness.

The police responded to the alarm and found cans of tomatoes and other articles taken from the store on the pavement. A further investigation showed that the door of the premises entrance to the house was open. In this hallway were found a quantity of canned stuff, some tin and glass cases containing cakes and confectionery, and a light overcoat with a brown collar. The coat served as a clue. Last night Chief O'Hara met James Dowling, 24 years of age, on one of the streets and arrested him on suspicion. Dowling was kept in the lockup until this morning, when he was taken before Justice Cardin and given a hearing. The overcoat was produced and Dowling put it on. It fitted him to a nicety, but he neither admitted or denied that it was his coat. The Justice considered there was sufficient evidence, however, and committed Dowling to the lockup on a charge of burglary. Dowling was taken down to Pottsville this morning. He bears a bad reputation and has been under suspicion for some time. It was only a few days ago that some of the authorities, in conversation with a HERALD reporter, said they suspected Dowling of another case and referred to him as a nighthawk who always remained in his hole during the day time and skinned about at night with no apparent purpose.

It is also said that Dowling's habit of starting deceptions by cutting pieces of glass has been known for some time and it may lead to his connection with the numerous burglaries recently reported. Matt Delaney and "Doc" Liza were the arrests made early this morning. They were standing at the corner of Main and Centre streets between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning, when Policeman Casey walked up and ordered them away. The crowd was slow in obeying and Casey found it necessary to arrest Delaney. When the officer and his prisoner were on their way to the lockup Hays followed at a distance and Chief O'Hara followed him. O'Hara kept a watch, which resulted in his finding Hays on top of a shanty in the yard of the Powell property, adjoining that of the lockup. Hays was arrested on suspicion that he intended to attempt to help Delaney break out of the lockup. Delaney was searched and on his person a quantity of cigars was found. This was taken as a possible clue to the recent robbery of Edward Early's saloon, on East Lloyd street, and both men were held for further hearing, which will be given to-night.

A Valuable Volume.

We acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the Petre School Manual of Business Forms and Customs, published by Thomas M. Peire, principal and founder of the Petre School of Business and shorthand, at Philadelphia. It is an invaluable work which should not only be placed in the hands of every student, but also on the desk of every business man. All the fundamental principles involved in banking, commercial and other branches of business, are set forth concisely and clearly in a neat little volume suitable for an ornament in the finest library.

Sleighing Party.

The following named children comprised a sleighing party from Mahanoy City to Shenandoah and return on Saturday: Eva Klina, Anna Becker, Jennie Doyle, Hattie Baller, Prudence Stitzer, Annie Kelley, Samuel Griffiths, William and Joseph Quinn, William Moyer, Harry Reese, Frederick Knapp, William Northey, Clarence Brown, Arthur Hopkins, Ralph Platt, William Becker, Charles Meyer, Claude Grover, James Edwards and William Lewis.

Squire Edward Fogarty, of the Second ward, went to Gilberton this morning to attend the funeral of his late uncle, Edward Fogarty, a well-known Justice of the Peace of that place.

Mrs. James O'Brien and children went to Heckscherville this morning to attend the funeral of Mrs. Julia Curran. Mrs. Curran was the mother of John Curran, inside foreman at the Otto colliery, and was 65 years of age.

Attention is called to the change in the HERALD advertisement of Miss M. A. Dillon, who announces a special sale of muslins, indigo blue prints, Lancaster ginghams, hosiery, chemise covers, fur muffs and capes, and coats. People in search of bargains would do well to interest themselves in the announcements.

The wedding of Miss Kate Brusse, of Lakeside, and Samuel Dewey, of Delano, was solemnized at the home of the bride's uncle, Augustus Roth, at Lakeside, on Thursday afternoon. The marriage was quiet, only a few intimate friends being present. The happy couple went to Reading the same evening and on a trip to Niagara Falls will take up their residence in Delano.

Police have been almost forgotten in the discussion over the new water works. Warm debates over the proposed borough indebtedness may be heard arising from any knot on the corners, in clubs, stores and bar rooms. Both sides have kept interest at a fever heat by the almost daily issue of circulars enumerating the many advantages of their side and attacking the views of the other. On Saturday afternoon, two well known citizens backed up their argument with blows that resulted in one of them receiving two knock-downs. Bystanders interfered and a moment later the two were seen walking arm in arm, en route for a beer saloon.

Load screams from a pair of hearty female lungs, with the scuffling of two struggling men, brought a dozen Poles and Huns to the house of John Yankodavits, near the "dead line," on Saturday at midnight. It seems that one John Butchuski had been smitten with the graces of Mrs. Yankodavits and evidently believed that an easy way to her favor lay in an entrance to her chamber, when the husband was not about. So, on Saturday night, when all good folks are a bed, Butchuski made his way to the home with the previous knowledge that Yankodavits was elsewhere, and pacing cautiously about him to make sure his actions were unobserved, forced a window and entered the house. Moving quietly through the room, he stealthily ascended the steps and listened. He then tip-toed to the low burning lamp, and with a glance at the form beneath the covers, he blew out the flame. At this point Mrs. Yankodavits, who was only half asleep, became aware of the man's presence, but thinking it was her husband, took no further notice. Again, with stealthy step, he advanced toward the bed. Lightly touching the coverlet, he slowly drew it down until the child might air caused a shiver over the unconsciously form. Butchuski bent over her, when she felt his warm breath upon her face, which aroused her with a start. Where, that wasn't John's breath—he had no such breath as that, and suddenly sitting bolt upright, her head came in contact with the headpiece of the intruder.

The lusty scream soon followed and cussed Butchuski to rush down the stairway just as the husband opened his door. The two grappled and a struggle ensued, which brought in the neighbors and resulted in Butchuski's arrest at the instance of Mrs. Yankodavits. She, however, withdrew her charges on the defendant paying her $15 damages and the costs of the suit to Justice O'Brien.

At the Theatre.
"Enemies for Life" is destined to attract general and favorable interest. It is a powerful anti-drama, written in a terse and vigorous style, intricate in plot and happy in laughter and sunshine.—Buffalo Courier. "Enemies for Life" will be produced at Ferguson's theatre on Thursday evening, February 23d.

COUNTY SEAT NEWS!

Proceedings at the Motion Court This Morning.

MANFRED IS SENTENCED.

He Must Hang For the Murder of Ochs at St. Clair—The Shenandoah Water Cases Again Postponed—Report About the Election Ballots.

Special Herald Correspondence.

POTTSVILLE, Feb. 19.—There was a large gathering of lawyers from all parts of the county at the opening of motion court here this morning. Shenandoah's legal fraternity was well represented, especially by those interested in the water cases, as it was expected that the injunction case of the Shenandoah Water and Gas Company against the borough of Shenandoah would be argued, but it was again postponed. It will be heard next Monday.

Harry Manfred, the Italian convicted of murdering Ochs at St. Clair last August, was brought before the court this morning and sentenced to be hanged.

The latest development in the ballot printing scandal is that the Pottsville newspaper syndicate tried to ship $8,000 from the county treasury by building the Controller and County Commissioners, have made a startling discovery and will make capital of it in their papers to-day.

It is said that the syndicate will claim that the ballots printed by the Allegheny Press are not lawful because they are smaller than the sample furnished by the state and that words in the headings of some of the counts are abbreviated.

This announcement will no doubt be made with a grand imaginary display of red lights and fireworks, but the voters need not be alarmed. They will not be deprived of their franchise on any such grounds as the syndicate is expected to reveal and their votes will be fully as legal on the 11,000 ballots as they would have been on the gilt-edged $8,000 beauties.

Vote for Scandal.

The people of this borough should see that the man elected to fill the position of Receiver of Taxes to-morrow shall be one in whom they can place the most implicit confidence; one who can fill the office with fidelity, who will make prompt collection of taxes due over to the treasury $12,000 within sixty days after he receives his duplicate. Vote for Scandal and you will have an able and faithful man.

Dead.

GOHO.—On the 18th inst., at Shenandoah, Pa., Norman, son of Oscar and Lucretia Goho, aged 1 year and 7 months. Funeral will take place on Thursday, Feb. 23d, at 2 p. m., from the family residence at Ellengowan, Pa. Interment in the Odd Fellows cemetery, Shenandoah, Pa. Relatives and friends respectively invited to attend. 1-19-11

EVANS.—On Sunday, February 18th, at his home in St. Clair, Francis Evans, aged 74 years. Interment in the Odd Fellows cemetery, at the above named place on Wednesday, February 22d, at 2 p. m. Relatives and friends are requested to be present. Exchanges please copy. 1-19-11

McKane Sentenced.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 19.—John V. McKane, the Coney Island Democratic political boss, convicted on Friday last of election frauds, was this morning sentenced to six years' imprisonment at Sing Sing prison. A. P. A.

Large Funeral.

The funeral of the late Martin Monaghan took place at 9 o'clock this morning from the residence of his son, J. J. Monaghan, on South Bowers street. High Mass was celebrated at the Annunciation church on West Cherry street and interment was made in the Annunciation cemetery. The attendance was very large.

Finger Amputated.

William Opp, Jr., a brakeman on a Lehigh Valley freight train, had two of his fingers amputated while making a coupling at Mt. Carmel. The injured hand was dressed at the Miness Hospital, at Fountain Springs, after which Opp returned to his home in Delano.

Burned by Gas.

John Kinginski was badly burned about the head, face and hands by an explosion of gas in the Indian Hotel this morning and was sent to the Miness hospital. After fighting a squib he ran through a heading to a neighboring breast and there ignited the gas with his naked light.

A Mistake.

A sleigh occupied by Misses Lizzie and Maggie Shams and Joseph Melunky dropped into a hole at Main and Centre streets, yesterday, and the sudden stop caused the single track to break and liberated the horses, which pulled Melunky out of the sleigh and ran off. Melunky escaped serious injury.

Not Confirmed.

It was reported that the dead body of an infant child was found near the red bridge yesterday. The party who started the report could not be located and Deputy Coroner Manley said he knew nothing of it.

Collieries Resume.

The Turkey Run, Suffolk, Hammond and Elmwood collieries started work with the resumption of the other collieries this morning. It is said the P. & E. Company proposes operating all its collieries on Washington's Birthday.

Antonius Milukas, a student at the St. Charles Seminary at Overbrook, Pa., is the guest of Rev. Abramowski, of town. Mrs. Milukas intends to spend a few weeks here to recuperate his health.

Rev. Lichtenwalner and wife left this morning for Philadelphia, where they will spend a few days. On Thursday they will go to Reading to attend the Anti-Bornmanite conference of the Evangelical church.

Successful Ev-er-lasts.

Evangelist Williams is drawing great crowds to the English Baptist church on South Jardin street every evening. Last night, at both the first and second services, the church was filled to the doors. Evangelist Williams has a forcible delivery and a magnetic method of argument. His sermons are very interesting and are based on the personal experience of the Evangelist in Europe and this country. He only seeks to save souls and said last night that it made no difference to him what congregation gained its membership if conversions are made.

Union Meeting.

The union meeting of the camps of the P. O. S. of A. in this district, to be held this evening in the lodge room of Camp 66, at Franklin, will be very largely attended by members from this town, who will leave on the 7 p. m. Reading train. Large delegations from Girardville, Ashland and Gilberton will also be present. A good time is in store for those who attend.

Coming Events.

March 16.—Third annual ball of the St. Patrick's Band, in Robbins' opera house.

March 20.—First grand ball under the auspices of the Monanore Social club in Robbins' opera house.

April 20.—Ice cream festival under the auspices of the Star Flute and Drum Corps in Robbins' opera house.
