A BOLD SWINDLE

One day last week a party went to the Philadelphia Mint with eighty-five pounds of brass and poor brass at that—and wanted its value, alleged to be $40,000, in lawful money. The woman—for it was a woman—was informed that the metal was brass, and of no great value. She was apparently dazed by the information. Her story was a little improvement on the usual story. She had, so she said, lent a nephew $6000 fourteen years ago to start him in life in the west. He was to repay the loan when fortune smiled. Fourteen years passed without a word from the young man, when a man appeared with news of the nephew. He had met with varying fortunes for years, but at last "struck it rich" in the territory of British Columbia. And he had sent his aunt eighty-five pounds of solid gold, which he begged her to accept as a payment of the loan. The man who brought the metal owned one-fifth of it, valued at $6000. If she chose to pay him that sum she could retain the balance, worth $24,000. This seemed an honest pay—four-fold; and the unwary woman paid it. It never occurred to her to have seventeen pounds of the metal taken from the man and turned over to the messenger. She paid the cash and kept the whole mass intact. She had then paid $12,000 cash and $4800 interest on the loan for eighty-five pounds of low grade brass. Comment is unnecessary. Last December a German farmer near Toledo, Ohio, was called upon and shown two alleged gold bars, valued at $30,000. The owner being in straits, offered to sell the bars for $10,000. The farmer beat him down to $6000 and got the bars, which proved to be brass. In each of these, and in all other cases known, the seller produced an alleged assayer of the Mint, who bored the bars and pronounced them gold. Now, the papers have been publishing these swindles for years, and we must suppose that the dupes never read the papers. The offers to sell gold at one-third of its market price is prima facie evidence of fraud. Besides, the Mint does not keep assayers traveling about to assay metals, nor does it authorize an assayer of any metals but gold and silver brought to its counter. When an assayer is made the charge is $2, in advance. But if people want to buy brass at $20.67 per ounce, they will probably do it.

Michigan's Official Scandal.
LANSING, Mich., Feb. 21.—Governor Rich has decided upon a different line of procedure in the ousting of the secretary of state, treasurer and land commissioner. He will first bring quo warranto proceedings against the three officials who refuse to be deposed by him. They will be made to show cause by what authority they still hold office. After getting them out, which will probably not be accomplished before March 15, their successors will be appointed.

To Proceed Against Both Senates.
TREASURY, Feb. 21.—The governor, Attorney General Stockton, K. V. Lindenburg and Fred Stevens were in conference for several hours yesterday, and it is reported that they have decided to institute quo warranto proceedings against Robert A. Fisher, president of the Democratic senate, and Matthew A. Rogers, president of the Republican senate, requiring them to show by what authority they are acting in their official capacity.

Kidnaped the Toastmaster.
HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 21.—President Tucker, of Dartmouth college, informed the sophomore class that they must return H. A. Terrell, toastmaster of the freshman class, whom they kidnaped on Monday night and took out of town, or they must give up their own banquet. The class refused to comply and threatened to leave the college in a body if their banquet is interfered with.

Senator White's Probable Successor.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Members of the Louisiana delegation have received telegraphic information which leads them to believe that F. B. Stubbs will be appointed by Governor Foster to succeed Senator White. Mr. Stubbs is a fellow townsman of Representative Boutner. He has never occupied conspicuous public positions, but has taken high rank in the Louisiana legislature. Should Mr. Stubbs be chosen it will give northern Louisiana a recognition it has long coveted. Mr. White will not resign from the senate until his successor is qualified.

A Dressmaker in Luck.
WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 21.—By the death of John Krieger, a wealthy banker of Nurnburg, Germany, Mrs. Anna Matilda Jones, of this city; Mrs. Susan Kuntz, Allegany City, Pa.; and Frederick Kreller, of Pittsburg, have fallen heir to three million marks. The deceased left no widow or children, and bequeathed his property to the persons named, who are the children of his brother, the late George Kreller. Mrs. Jones' husband was killed in the Custer massacre, and since his death has been supporting herself by dress-making.

Evans Goes Up for Life.
FRENCO, Cal., Feb. 21.—Chris Evans was brought into court yesterday and sentenced to imprisonment for life at Folsom by Judge Harris. Evans was taken at once to prison by Sheriff Scott and Kay and deputies. A motion for new trial made by his attorneys was denied. Evans denies the story that he abused Mrs. Brighton. He wanted to be sentenced to San Joaquin, but the judge denied the request.

the Metropolitan telephone company, which is the name of the Bell monopoly, created a sensation by advertising to sell telephones at $2.50 each. A retail department has been fitted up in the company's offices where the telephones are sold. At Baltimore, a new telephone company will be organized, under a charter issued by the State of Maryland a year ago. The incorporators have been quietly at work preparing for business and they claim to have 1,400 subscribers to begin with. The telephone which they propose to use consists simply of a compound magnet and transmitter and receiver, without any battery attachments whatever.

On Their Return the Mob Assembled in Duric Hall, where Swift made an incendiary speech, in which he threatened that if the petition was unheeded they must clean out the state house. Governor Greenhalge met Swift and Gasson directly after this speech, and in plain language told Swift that his speech was grossly obnoxious and improper. Swift said that the governor was angry, and said that he meant to clean out by ballots.

At the close of this incident the members of the state police and fifty Boston policemen were called upon the scene. After a consultation with the governor the order was given to clear the state house. The crowd was defiant, and shouts went up "Kill the police" and "Down with capital." The sight of clubs in the hands of the strong men, however, tended to disperse the hissing and yelling mob. It is said that only in few instances had the police used force.

Swift was seen today by an Associated Press reporter, and denied having made the statement accredited to him, but afterwards qualified it by saying:

"If I did say it I meant by the ballot. I am not displeased with the outcome. This is the first of a series of meetings which will be held until the unemployed get work."

Governor Greenhalge, who as a guest of the Boston Life Underwriters' association last night, was called upon to speak, said:

"I think I used all your good wishes in the present exigencies. I doubt if any life insurance company would consider me an ordinary risk today. I come from strange and disorderly scenes. I stand here tonight to ask the support of the men of the ordinary minds in Massachusetts. It makes my blood boil to find men who claim that Massachusetts laws are unfriendly and unjust to any."

The War in Brazil.
BUENOS AYRES, Feb. 21.—The following has been received from Rio Janeiro: The recent fighting at Niteroi is reported to have been more serious in its results than was at first supposed. Before the insurgents were driven off they succeeded in burning the government arsenal and in capturing eighteen guns. It is declared that the government loss in men amounted to 728, while insurgent loss was 373. A naval engagement between the insurgent fleet and the new government squadron is expected in the early part of March.

DEMANDS FOR WORK.

A Remarkable Demonstration by Boston's Unemployed.

MADE A RAID ON THE STATE HOUSE

No Damage Was Done, However, Though It Became Necessary to Call on the Police to Disperse the Army of Malescents.

Boston, Feb. 21.—Fully 1,500 men assembled on the common yesterday under the auspices of the Association for the Unemployed and listened to semi-anarchist speeches made by Morrison I. Swift and the Rev. Herbert M. Gasson. Under the influence and fiery ardor of the speakers the crowd, headed by the two speakers, marched to the state house, where these self-appointed leaders interviewed Governor Greenhalge, while the crowd remained outside. They demanded that work should be given to the men they represented.

Upon the invitation of the delegation the governor addressed the crowd. He told them that personally he would do all he could, and would recommend action by the legislature. He pointed out that the general court had no power to give work to the unemployed, except it had money to pay them, and that such work must be for the public good. The governor insisted that the first duty of every citizen was obedience to the laws.

This speech did not meet with the approval of the crowd, and they surged into the state house to present a petition to the legislature, but which is couched in the terms of a demand. The petition states how the unemployed have starved for months with incredible patience, after making appeal upon appeal for employment, which the city and state were alone competent to furnish, and should have supplied work in the beginning. They ask the legislature to provide farms and factories where the unemployed at all times may work to supply their own wants. This petition was presented to the legislature by Representative Mellin, of Worcester.

On their return the mob assembled in Duric Hall, where Swift made an incendiary speech, in which he threatened that if the petition was unheeded they must clean out the state house. Governor Greenhalge met Swift and Gasson directly after this speech, and in plain language told Swift that his speech was grossly obnoxious and improper. Swift said that the governor was angry, and said that he meant to clean out by ballots.

At the close of this incident the members of the state police and fifty Boston policemen were called upon the scene. After a consultation with the governor the order was given to clear the state house. The crowd was defiant, and shouts went up "Kill the police" and "Down with capital." The sight of clubs in the hands of the strong men, however, tended to disperse the hissing and yelling mob. It is said that only in few instances had the police used force.

Swift was seen today by an Associated Press reporter, and denied having made the statement accredited to him, but afterwards qualified it by saying:

"If I did say it I meant by the ballot. I am not displeased with the outcome. This is the first of a series of meetings which will be held until the unemployed get work."

Governor Greenhalge, who as a guest of the Boston Life Underwriters' association last night, was called upon to speak, said:
