TOWN AND COUNTRY.

THE PROGRESS OF ONE BENEFICIAL TO THE OTHER.

Co-operative Effort of Farmer and City Dweller Will Best Preserve the Interest of Both—A Word About Richers—The Value of a Newspaper.

[Copyright, 1894, by American Press Association.]

The interests of a town or city and the community and country surrounding are identical. That which benefits one is certain to favorably affect the other. Often there is an unreasoning antagonism in the farming community against their home town. From some inexplicable reason they consider it their duty to oppose every movement that has for its object the forwarding of its interests and depreciate its importance in every conceivable manner.

Fortunately in this community all of our best and most progressive farmers and landowners have a kindly interest in the town and are as enthusiastic in wishing it success and exercising their energies to attain that end as any one who dwells within its limits. But the fact cannot be disguised that we have many individuals in our vicinity who display the same characteristics that distinguish those who have been the bane and curse of other localities.

These people only speak of their home town, community and neighbors in terms of disapproval. Their good points are kept in the background, while what they are pleased to call their faults are proclaimed from the house tops. They sell their products in a distant market and buy their supplies at the same place. They are simply barnacles on the ship of progress, and the sooner they take up their residence where they transact their business and make room for some progressive and liberal minded citizen the better it will be for the community.
