Caused by Carelessness.

The majority of people die zooner than they should. Evidence of this fact is growing daily. Waring says: "Disease is not a consequence of life; it is due to unnatural conditions of living—neglect, abuse, want. Dr. Stephen Smith, on the same subject. "Man is born to health and long life; diense is unnatural, death, except from oldage, is accidental, and both are preventable by human agencies." This is almost invariably true of death resulting from heart disease. Careless over-exertion, intemperature. size. Careless over-exertion, intemperature of tea, coffee, tobacco, alcoholic or other stimulants are generally the causes of the difficulty, and indifference to its progress results in moden death, or long sickness end ing in death. By the newspapers it can be seen that remains an entrand hundreds or persons in private life die from heart discuse every day.

If you have any of the following symptoms.

toms: shortness of breath, palpitation, irregular pulse, fainting and smothering spells pain in shoulder, side, or arm, swoller nukles, etc., begin treatment immediately for beart disease. If you delay, the consequences may be serious.

For over 20 years Dr. Franklin Miles, the eminent specialist, has made a profound study of heart disease, its causes and core and many of the leading discoveries in tha study of neart these-set, its classes and to act and many of the leading discoveries in that direction are due to kim. His New Heart Cure is absolutely the only reliable remedy for the cure of heart discuse, as is proved by thousands of testimonials from grateful persons who have used it.

Immes A. Pain, editor of the Corry, Pa., Leader, states: "After an apparent recovery from those months of la grippe, I fell on the street unconscient from heart disease. In one month from that time I was unable to walk across my room, and my pulse beat from 85 to 16 times a minute I then used Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and at coose became stronger. After using six bottles I was able to work as usual and walk a mile every day, my pulse ranging from 85 to 90. Dr. Miles' remedy is not only a preventive but a cure."

MISS POLLARD'S PLAINT

Important Evidence in Her Suit Against Mr. Breckinridge.

TESTIMONY OF MRS. BLACKBURN.

The Widow of Ecutucky's Ex-Governor Tells of the Defendant's Asknowledgment That He Intended to Make Miss Pellard His Wife.

WASHINGTON, March 10.-There enough of sensation and scandal in the trial of Madeline Pollard's greach of prom-ise suit against Congressman Breckinridge passet against congressman breekinging pasterday to antist even the most expectant in the fashionably serayed masculine audience which crowded the circuit court. Witnesses well known to all Washingtonians detailed the secret history of the life traveled by the snowy hearded songressman and the attractive young woman who suated only an army length spart. who, seated only an arm's length apart, were magnets for the curiosity which al-ways surrounds the personages in such a

Two friends supported Miss Pollard in the ordeal, and they, with her attorneys, were obliged at times to exert their utmost persuasive powers to prevent her from creating a scene in court. Early in the day she broke down, giving way to tears. Several times she attempted to cry out in interruption of lawyers and wit-nesses, and seemed to be on the verge of hysteria. Shortly after taking her seat she turned to give one piercing giance, apparently of hatred and contempt, te-

W. C. P. BERCHINRIDGE, ward Colonel Breckinridge, before which the snowy headed congressman averted his face. At no other time did their eyes meet. Colonel Breckinridge devoted himself for the most part to consultations with his attorneys, smiling frequently, as would a person with no vital interest in the case, and occasionally laughing out-right. Only when Mrs. Blackburn was speaking of him in tones which implied more than her words conveyed did the congressman seem to feel embarrassment, leaning forward with his head bowed or

Mrs. Blackburn's Testimony.

Chief among the witnesses, and the most interesting, was Mrs. Julia Blackburn, the widow of ex-Governor Luke Blackburn, of Kentucky, a lady under whose chaperonage Miss Pollard had been placed by Colonel Breckinridge, who showed her-self quite as keen as Colonel Phil Thomp-sen, the Kentucky ex-congressman, who tried unsuccessfully to better his client's case by an inquisitorial cross-examination.

Mrs. Blackburn said that on Good Friday, 1863, in the Portland flats in Wash-ington, Colonel Breckinridge and Miss Pollard had called on her, and had per-sisted in sending for her three times, when she had pleaded weariness. She was ininced to receive them.

Mrs. Blackburn spoke firmly, and continued: "Colonel Breckinridge said: 'I have brought this young woman to ask for her your kind care and protection, for I her your kind care and protection, for I expect that in the future she will be a great deal to me. As soon as sufficient time after the death of my wife has elapsed I intend to marry her.' He said you may consider this foolish. I replied that there was always risk in these things. He said: 'I am old enough to be her father, she is thirty one wears younger than I.' thirty-one years younger than L'

"He replied: 'I will tell you what I never expected would pass my lips. I discovered recently what Miss Pollard's feelings toward me were, and, as a man of honer, I considered it my duty to offer to marry

"I said: You certainly take a very high view of these things.

Miss Pellard's Jealousy.

Mrs. Blackburn said that subsequently she had told Colonel Breckinridge that if anything was done to compromise Miss Pollard by too much attention she must refuse to care for her, as she had only received the young woman because he had asked it as a friend. He had told her that Miss Pollard was of a good industrious family, but not of high blood. Again he had come to her asking her to allay Miss Poliard's jealousy.
"I asked," said Mrs. Blackburn, "have you given her any reason?"

"He replied: "On my honor as a gentleman I have not." Then I told him that Miss Poliard had come to me the day before, telling me of her fears."

Continuing, Mrs. Blackburn told how Mr. Breckinridge had denied, when she told him that he had no right to pay de-voted attention to another woman, that he had any affection for Mrs. Wing, but thought it would be well for the report of his engagement to reach his family, that they might become familiarized with the thought of his being married. Mrs. Hiackburn related how Miss Pollard had once urged Mr. Breckinridge to fix the day for the marriage; how he had said that circumstances prevented it just then, but that he would fix a dare and communicate is to Mrs. Blackburn.

To further questioning Mrs. Blackburn said: "I extended her the same protection which I would to any young woman in the city from my own state, Kentucky. There was only such a friendship as would exist between a woman of my age and a young girl like her." Miss Pollard had called frequently, Mrs. Blackburn said, and when Mr. Wilson objected to a question from Mr. Thompson as to whether Miss Pollard assisted at her receptions, Mrs. Blackburn interposed, "It makes no dif-ference," and replied in the affirmative.

Mr. Thompson became more pressing in his inquiries regarding the feating of Mrs. Blackburn fer Miss Pollard, and the witness replied that she felt a sorrow for any woman compelled to fight her own way in the world. With flashing eyes and facing the whiteheaded congressinan she declared: "Just the sorrow that I feel in being compelled to appear hera, when if I had the defense of a husband it would never have been necessary."

A sister of Colonel Breckinridge's first wife, Miss Mary Deaha, also had something to say concerning a mysterious basket, the materiality of which was not made Washington's Police Chief Testifies.

Another characteristic witness was the chief of the Washington police depart-ment, who might have stepped from a French drama with his hitherto concaste knowledge of underground scanda. La Imperturable air and matter of fact con sultation of notes regarding the tragjotted down on the spot. The eminent The eminently played a minor part in the testimony. Also there were letters read, telegrams, and four mysterious books taken from a Cincinnati convent.

Major Moore testified that he met Miss Pollard, accompanied by Colonel Breck-inridge, in his office, May 13, 1893. He said: "The door was suddenly thrown open, when Colonel Breckinridge came in, closely followed by a lady. He said that he might have to ask my protection, as the lady had threatened his life. She demanded that he should promise to marry her, and that he should name a day He named May 81, 1893; said he would marry her if Providence spared his life. When he started the explain the trouble between them she put her hand on his shoulder and dissuaded him. She was

'He asked me to witness his determination. We three clasped hands. It was an impressive scene," said the major.

He had notes of this interview also, which he read. Miss Pollard had drawn from her bosom a revolver, declaring that from her bosom a revolver, declaring that if she had occasion to do so she would use it upon herself and him.

There was a stir of excitement through-out the room as Major Moore, continuing, said: "He told her that she could not accuse him of having approached her with flowers, or seduced her; that the first time he sawher he took liberties with her, and the second night he slept with her." Except the half dozen connected with the case there were no ladies in court, but long lines of men, like the crowds before the box office of a theater, waited outside for the doors to be opened. These men seemed to regard the trial altogether in the light of a theatrical entertainment, apparently unconscious of the fact that there was an element of human tragesly about the affair.

Today is motion day in the circuit court, so the Washington populace will be denied further opportunity to satisfy its curiosity until Monday.

An Important Witness En Houte. PUEBLO, Colo., March 10.—Sister Cecilia, of the Sisters' hospital of this city, has gone to Washington to give testimony in the Pollard-Breckharldge breach of promse case. Sister Cecilia was mother super for at the foundling asylum in Cincinnati in 1885, when Miss Pollard claims to have been delivered of a child there. Both Con-gressman Breckinridge and Miss Pollard sent for Sister Cecilia to become a witness She could not distinctly remember Mis Pollard, and would not give testimony one way or the other until she visited her Invest gation failed to determine what had be-come of him until his clothes were found where they had been placed by the mur derers. He was killed in a room, presum-ably by Mary Washington, Sam Edwards and Richard Washington. His body was cut in pieces and buried under the floor of Washington and his wife and Ed wards are under arrest. The woman ad mits the killing, and says Edwards and her husband were both accomplices. The other prisoners deny all knowledge of the crime. The cause of the murder is supposed to have been jealousy.

The Opposition to J. Marshall Wright. Washington, March 10.—The nomina-tion of J. Marshall Wright to be naval of ficer at Philadelphia was not considered by the senate yesterday. Within the past day or two the Republican senators have received an anonymous letter from Allentown, Pa., where Wright lives, appealing to them to oppose confirmation on the ground that Wright had offered indigni-ties to the memory of Abraham Lincoln.

A STARTLING FACT.

Sixteen Per Cent. of Life Insurance Applicants Rejected on Assount of Diseased

Dr. Lambert, the general medical director of the Equitable Life Insurance Company, New York, said: "We reject sixteen per cent of the applications made to us for insurance, and I have saved the entire expense of this medical department by the rejection alone of applicants who had deseased kidneys, and who died with in two years after I rejected them."

This appalling statement should have the attention of our citizens. There is no reason to day why people should allow kidney disease to get such a hold on them. Nature sends her warning in the slight pain in the back, poor circulation of the blood, sediment in the urine. When any of these symptoms appear, Dr. David taken in small doses at once, and thus drive the poison out of the blood and restors the kidneys to healthy faction. In regard to the mode of making thes waists there is only one law-they shall not be plain. Even the wash silks are usually made up full with a folded belt and collar, balloon sleaves and a double ruching down the front, while corsages intended for theater and evening wear are so voluminously and variously trimmed that it would seem impossible for the subtlest ingenuity to invent a new style. A sketch is given of a theater bodice composed of pale green crape and laurel green satin ribbon, made over a fitted lining of pale green surah. Ex-Lieutenant Governor Royal, of the Northwest Territories, Prescuts an Able Argument to Prove the Advantages of Such Action to Canadian Commerce.

MONTREAL, March 10 .- Ex-Lientenant Hovernor Royal, of Northwest Territories, recently vicercy to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, and an ultra-loyal servant of the Dominton government, has restud a brochure urging the separation of Canada from the Hritish empire.

Protection is necessary for our manufacturers yet we need large markets for them, which can only be obtained by the exercise of independent powers to make treaties. Imperial federation, which would separate us commercially from the United States, would mean suicide. Free trade would be no better. Mr. Royal claims that the fruit of emancipation is ripe, and must be plucked now to benefit by it. Canada must take the first step toward separation, as take the first step toward separation, as she is only an embarrassment to the mother country. True, she would lose the protection of the British flag, but the United States has no interest in the con-quest of Canada by force of arms. Mr. Royal's pampillet deals further at length with the northwest and Manitoba school legislation in condemonatory language.

Mr. Royal is one of the best French-Canadian writers in Canada, and much importance is attached to his argument in favor of separation from Great Britain.
