An Infernal Machine Under His Bed. PARIS, March 10.—An infernal machine exploded last night under the bed of a workman in a house in the Colombe quarter. The workman and his landlady were arrested. The prisoners made conflicting explanations as to the presence of the bomb under the bed. The man says that he was not in his room at the time of the explosion, and disclaimed all knowledge of the machine.

An Optical Illusion. Twilight was falling, Herbert McSquazle stepped into the porch. Margarita Tubbins was there to greet him, but he seemed not to realize her presence. It was so evident that he was doing it on purpose.

"Oh, speak to me!" she cried. "No," he answered resolutely, "I shall not. From this time forth you shall hear me keep silence."

"Oh, heaven! What have I done to deserve this?"

"What have you not done?" he asked scornfully. "Many things."

"I cannot believe it. Yet you trusted me once."

"I did, but now there is perfidy on your face."

"No, not whatever else I may have done, I have never used that or anything else. My complexion is my own."

He laughed hoarsely, so hoarsely that she pitied him and handed him a cough drop.

"It is well that I discovered this before our marriage," he muttered with clinched teeth.

"Discovered what?" she asked with visible emotion, for she was easily moved, was Margarita Tubbins—so easily moved that she had long since ceased to trust herself on roller skates. After a minute's emotion she repeated the question in another form:

"What have you discovered?"

"That you receive the attentions of another man."

"This false!"

"I saw you driving with him last Wednesday night."

"You—saw—me—last—Wednesday—night?" she faltered. "And this is why you refuse to speak to me?"

"It is."

"I can explain all. You are mistaken."

"Perhaps I am," he answered haughtily, "and perhaps I am not."

"It was my aunt you saw."

"Go to—go to."

"I will not," she cried indignantly. "Not till you have heard me through. You have blundered upon our family's secret. My aunt is—"

"Well?" she asked in astonishment as he presented himself and his bundle, "what's the matter?"

"I've brought back the clothes, lady," he said simply.

"Why did you do that? Don't you need them in the cold weather?"

He laid them down on a chair determinedly. "No, lady," he replied, "I can't say as I do. You see, lady, I've been used to wearing ventilated shoes and hats and clothes from head to foot, and he went away in a cheerful mood. Next day he came back, quite as ragged as at first, except as to his coat, carrying the clothes the lady had given him.

"Well," she asked in astonishment as he presented himself and his bundle, "what's the matter?"

"I've brought back the clothes, lady," he said simply.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Securities in Future Improvement Does Not Seem to Increase.

NEW YORK, March 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Evidences of present improvements in business multiply, but confidence in future improvement does not seem to increase. There is more business and a larger production by industries, for the season has arrived when greater activity is necessary if dealers' stocks are to be replenished, and those who cannot make calculations beyond a few months are the more anxious to crowd as much trade as they safely can into those months.

The most distinct gain is in iron and steel manufacture. The output of pig iron March 1 was 110,166 tons, having increased 10 per cent. during the month, though it is still 37.8 per cent. less than a year ago. It is also stated that since other furnaces have gone into blast since March 1, and that unrolled stocks have made practically no increase in February, so that the actual consumption in all branches of the manufacture is at least 10 per cent. greater than in November, December or January. Yet prices are the lowest ever known.

Failures are growing less frequent and somewhat fewer, also. For the week ending March 1 the liabilities thus far reported were only $2,087,832, and for four weeks of February $14,886,091, of which $6,732,615 were of manufacturing and $7,607,127 of trading concerns. The number of failures during the past week has been 248 in the United States, against 193 for the same week last year, and 90 in Canada, against 82 last year. Scarcely a single one is of importance and it is gratifying that the consequences of the great reverse last year have been so far overcome.

SEARCH FOR BURIED GOLD. A Minneapolis Man Spent Two Months on a False Clew.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 10.—A Minneapolis man spent two months this winter searching for a pirate's buried treasure of gold and jewels in one of the West India islands. Captain Ericher McLeod, who commands a whaler steamer between Duluth and Buffalo, claimed to have learned from an old sea captain just before the latter's death, of the exact location of a $5,000,000 treasure on one of the Spanish islands.

He went with a small party from New York in a steam yacht, armed with a chart of the island. He claims to have found the gold, but said it was impracticable to take it away, owing to the fact that Spanish soldiers were working on the island digging guns. A plan was formed to get the treasure at a more convenient time.

Meanwhile Captain McLeod came to Minneapolis to visit his sister, and told the story of the treasure. He was careful, however, to name the wrong island as the spot. In his story he said the treasure was on Mona Island, whereas the real spot was nine hundred miles away. Among those who heard the story in Minneapolis was Henry Stone. He made the trip to Mona, but of course failed to find the treasure.

To Prosecute Troy's Hoodlums. ALBANY, March 10.—Governor Flower summoned District Attorney Kelly, of Troy, before him yesterday and conferred with him relative to the prosecutions of the persons concerned in the elections crimes committed in that city last Tuesday. Patterson and Seymour Van Santvoort, both of Troy, have consented to serve if public sentiment favors their acting. Both gentlemen are Democrats, and prominent members of the Troy bar.

Old Soldiers Are Not Fanatics. WICHITA, Kan., March 10.—In the federal court Judge Williams made a decision of great importance to the indigent old soldiers. He held that inmates of soldiers' homes, otherwise qualified, could exercise their franchise under the constitution of Kansas at any election held in the present in which the home may be located. The decision renders the act of 1888 unconstitutional. That act provided that inmates of the soldiers' home would not be allowed to vote while the home was supported at the public expense.

NERVE DEATHS.

The Number Growing at a Frightful Rate

The Proportion Has Increased 20 Per. Cent. in 40 Years.

The Boston Journal Asks, "What the Remedy?"

And Finds the Answer Not a Hard One.

A Quarter of All Deaths Due to American Disease.

The Boston Journal is certainly to be admired.

One of Boston's greatest newspapers, it frankly devotes some of its energetic editorial space to the subject, which at this season is of more importance to this and every community than all other topics.

"One hears the voice of the man whose knowledge of nerves is almost unbounded," says the Journal, "saying that beyond any dispute nervousness is growing upon us at a frightful rate."

Quoting from Dr. Weir Mitchell it continues: "In some busy centers he finds that the number of deaths due to nervous causes has increased 30 per cent. in 40 years; that one-fourth of the deaths now are from nervous diseases. His opinion is very confident, too, that the Americans are, from this cause, becoming a short-lived people."

A clear statement of the nervous weakness among the dwellers in cities and towns would send a pang of horror and alarm through the country.

Women are more under the influence of this terrible scourge than men; and town dwellers more than country folk.

The Journal asks what is the remedy, and finds an answer readily.

Hundred of tired mothers, anxious housewives, school teachers and too ambitious scholars—the very flower of American womanhood—yield to the strain of the serious affairs of life. Overwork and unnatural worry condemn a host of American women to spend their after years on a sofa or in a sick room, and to be a burden instead of a help to those who are dearest to them.

Oftentimes excruciating pain as in neuralgia, rheumatism and heart trouble, but more often (especially in the spring) "that tired feeling," is nature's cry for better nutrition in order to resist the fearful strain on the nerves and vital organs. The remedy is known to every physician and to thousands who have been benefited by it. Men and women who find themselves getting irritable, nervous, thin, "run down" and ailing should take Pain's celery compound. It feeds tired, exhausted nerves, stores the blood with food for the wasted tissues, and purifies it of the impure humors which result from its stagnant, unhealthy condition.

Nothing has ever equaled Pain's celery compound for giving tone to the stomach and a renewed appetite. It strikes to the root of rheumatism, neuralgia, diseases of the heart, the liver, kidneys, and all disorders due to poor, thin blood and underfed nerves. Poor appetite, continual headaches, loss of strength, nervous debility, and scrofulous, unhealthy condition of the skin at this season are sure signs of nervous weakness.

Pain's celery compound will rob one of the run "down" feeling, the languor and despondency that come from badly nourished nerves, thin, pale blood, and underfed organs of the body.

New life, buoyant feeling, and the joyousness of health will come when plenty of good red blood begins to fill the arteries and invigorate the system.

This is just what Pain's celery compound is doing for thousands of tired men and women throughout the whole extent of the country.
