Evening Herald.

TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1904.

MISS BURKE, of San Francisco, is worth $10,000,000, and is about to wed an Italian count. She ought to consult Princess Colonna as to the advisability of buying a title without a husband.

If testimony goes for anything Col.
Breckinridge is a gone statesman. One wonders what defense is possible to such a statement as that made by the Washington Superintendent of Police.

It must make the hearts of the faithful glad to look at the list of postmasters announced last week. The President worked his courage up to the sticking point during the one gun expedition to the Dismal Swamp.

THE EVENING HERALD accepts advertising on a distinct understanding and unquestioning guarantee that its circulation in the borough of Shenandoah is larger than the combined circulation of all the other county daily papers circulated in the town.

Our comments upon the methods of our coal street contemporary to make money must have thrown the editor of the sheet into a delirium, judging from his reply.
It was a characteristic one and such as only the News will publish. Truth does bit mighty hard sometimes.

It is ridiculous in the Sunday News comparing its rates with the HERALD.
The latter always gives full value for what it receives from the Borough Council, while the money paid the News is so much thrown away, as the publication is illegal.

It is proposed to have the present postmaster at Allentown reappointed through railroad and other corporation influence.
If it so happens, there will be a lot of Dutch Democrats so hopping mad as to make them upset the Democratic majority in that county next fall.

THERE are many heroes in the world of whom fame takes no account, who do their duty bravely and think no more of it. Of such are the Plymouth miners who for days or nights have been risking their lives in order to save their comrades imprisoned in the mine, or—falling in that, to rescue their bodies for burial.

THE $25 fountain pen purchased by Council for the Treasurer was a necessity for two reasons as stated by a Councilman: First, the penmanship on the new water bonds would be uniform, and second, it avoided the possibility of blotting these goods.—Sunday News. Yes, there must have been some motive for the purchase, but we have a distinct recollection that when the School Board issued bonds a few years ago the officers managed to scratch along with the regular old fashioned pens and the bonds were disposed of just as readily as were the water works bonds, if not more readily.

THE statement of the News in regard to that little 890 transaction is an explanation that doesn't explain. It is grossly misleading to a hasty reader. It may be true that the Commissioners promised to give the contemporary the statement for publication, and it may also be true that the Commissioners changed their minds after making the alleged promise. The News very adroitly avoids declaring that the Commissioners authorized it to make the publication. Perhaps the County Commissioners recalled Judge Green's decision declaring Sunday newspapers illegal publications.

PUFF.

As the flame of the candle goes out, before a puff of air, so has the charge of perjury against County Commissioner Allen disappeared. Upon a hearing of the prosecution's side of the case the Grand Jury has ignored the bill. The people who instituted the prosecution must feel very much disappointed and chagrined, but the result is no surprise to those who have a personal acquaintance with Mr. Allen. He is incapable of such acts as the charges set forth.

A PUGILISTIC LAWYER.

Colonel Breckinridge's Counsel Assaults Mr. Johnson.

NOTHING DAMAGED BUT DIGNITY.

Earlier in the Day Miss Pollard Is Carried Sobbing and Fainting from the Court Room—Yesterday's Testimony Substantiate the Marriage Engagement.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—A pugilistic assault by Congressman Breckinridge's law partner, Mr. John Shelby, of Lexington, Ky., upon the junior counsel for Miss Pollard, Mr. W. C. Johnson, of Washington, closed yesterday's proceedings of the breach of promise trial. Mr.
Johnson had referred in a general way to the course taken by the defendant's attorneys in regard to certain affidavits as chicanery, and Mr. Shelby endeavored to make a reply, but as the usual hour for adjournment had passed Judge Bradley had deferred the question.

Mr. Shelby is a short, wiry man, with a bald head, around which there is a fringe of blonde hair. He wears a blonde mustache and gold rimmed spectacles. He was exceedingly pale and nervous of manner as he attempted to secure a hearing from the court, and when Judge Bradley rapped on the desk, declaring "I have adjourned the court," Mr. Shelby remarked in an undertone "I know what I will do, then." As Mr. Johnson left the room Mr.
Shelby darted after him and accosted him in the hallway. Mr. Johnson is broad shouldered, black mustached, cool and handsome. Mr. Shelby is short and excitable. Said Mr. Shelby, facing his taller opponent: "You have insulted me, sir, and I must have satisfaction, sir."
"Well, sir," responded Mr. Johnson interrogatively and calmly, as he afterwards said, expecting that Mr. Shelby would demonstrate the sort of satisfaction he expected.

Thereupon Mr. Shelby's right fist shot outward and upward, grazing Mr. Johnson's left cheek and drawing a slight blush. As he threw up his arm in the defensive dignified form of his professional partner, Mr. Calder F. Carlisle, social leader and polished attorney, was interposed between them. Quickly several other gentlemen became participants in the fray. Colonel Breckinridge, with his gleaming snow white beard, and his son, Desha Breckinridge, with coal black whiskers, piled themselves upon Mr. Carlisle.
There was an excited moment of general melée engaged in by no less than a dozen gentlemen, most of them intemperate peace-makers, when Deputy Marshal John H.
Leonard, a giant in stature, strode into the center of the conflict, thrusting the belligerent Kentuckian back and putting a damper upon hostilities. Everybody then emerged from the heat of the controversy uninjured, although Mr. Johnson's cheek was slightly reddened, and the immaculate silk hat of Judge Jere Wilson had been sadly ruffled.

"I call upon you gentlemen to witness that I was assaulted," said Mr. Johnson, somewhat excitedly. There was a murmur of assent from the bystanders, and just then Judge Bradley strode upon the scene demanding to know the cause of the trouble. Mr. Johnson, Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Wilson laid the case before him, stating that the Kentucky lawyer had made an unprovoked assault upon Mr. Johnson.
Colonel Breckinridge and his son had started from the court house, but seeing the judge, turned back, the congressman approaching him and saying, with evident excitement, "I had nothing to do with this, Judge; I was trying to separate them; that was all."

From the statements of eye witnesses it seemed that this was correct, for although there was a moment of very general scuffing everybody but Mr. Shelby seemed to have started in with intentions of stopping the trouble.

Judge Bradley was very indignant.
"We cannot have this here, gentlemen," he said, sternly. "You must understand that we cannot have such outbreaks. I will ascertain who are responsible for this, and see to it that they are properly punished."

Thereupon the two parties of attorneys retired to their respective headquarters to discuss the affair.

This pugilistic encounter was not the only sensational incident of the day, for Miss Pollard was carried sobbing from the court room and fell in a faint outside the door when testimony concerning the birth of her child in 1888 was given. The two faithful friends of her own sex attended her, and she was driven in a cab to the House of Refuge, where she makes her home.

Congressman Breckinridge was noticeably more nervous and less at ease than he has been heretofore, although he bears himself more unconcerned than most men would under the circumstances, and takes a decided interest in the legal aspects of the case, frequently prompting his attorneys and offering them suggestions.

Another incident that bordered on the sensational was the exclusion from the court room, by order of Judge Bradley, of fourteen fashionably attired ladies who had gathered to listen to the testimony.

The gossip of the city is about equally divided between the court house affray and the identity of the bevy of fashionably dressed young ladies who were summarily excluded from the court room by Judge Bradley.

The day's proceedings brought forth a description of the barriers against taking testimony for the plaintiff which had been met with in Colonel Breckinridge's state, and much of the time was consumed by arguments over the admissibility of depositions, which were objected to on technical grounds.

There were only two witnesses called yesterday. One of these was a fashionably dressed, smooth faced, bespectacled young man, who gave his name as Claude de la Roche Francis, first cousin of Mr.
Ward McAllister and nephew of the Marquis de la Roche, chamberlain to the pope, announcing that his residence was in New York, but that most of his time was spent in Europe. He had known Miss Pollard in 1893, and had been a visitor at her home.
He had often met Mr. Breckinridge there, and had frequently heard of the congressman's engagement to Miss Pollard.

Mary Parsons, a female physician, testified regarding the birth of a child to Miss Pollard in 1888. The bill for her services had been paid by Colonel Breckinridge.
It was during the examination of this witness that Miss Pollard weakened and was carried from the court room.

THIRTEEN MANGLED BODIES.

Unrecognizable Masses of Flesh Taken from the Gaylord Mine.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 13.—The bodies of the thirteen men who were buried by a cave in at the Gaylord mine three weeks ago have been recovered. The first body was recovered late yesterday afternoon. It had been crushed beyond all recognition. The bones were placed in a casket and hoisted to the surface shortly before midnight.

About 1 a. m. two more bodies were brought to the surface. They, too, were crushed and entirely unrecognizable. Mrs.
Walsh, whose husband was among the thirteen unfortunate men, believes that one of the three bodies is that of her husband. The work continued all night, until finally, at 7 o'clock this morning, the thirteen mangled bodies had been brought up, but none were recognizable. The theory that the men died from starvation is exploded, and there is no question but that all perished when the fall occurred.

PREMIER ROSEBERY'S POLICY.

Home Rule for Ireland Still a Liberal Party Issue.

LONDON, March 13.—At the meeting of the Liberal leaders Lord Rosebery, the new premier, alluded with considerable feeling to the retirement of Mr. Gladstone, saying that they would "greatly miss that sublime and pathetic figure which enriched and ennobled, not merely the treasury bench, but the house itself."
"It was thought," he continued, "that in the high office to which I have been called there should be a declaration of policy. That is not necessary, as we stand where we did. There will be no change of measures, and, although there has been a disastrous change of men, they are all dedicated to the same policy."
"The Welsh church question will be pressed to a definite and successful conclusion. In regard to the Irish question, we are bound to it by ties of honor and affection. The policy of home rule will not be less definitely pursued."

The Hero of Libby Prison Retired.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—One of the historic figures of the war was placed on the retired list of the army yesterday by operation of law on account of age. The officer referred to is Major Thomas E.
Rose, Eleventh Infantry, stationed at Fort Clark, Texas. Major Rose enlisted in the volunteer service as a private in the Twelfth Pennsylvania Infantry in 1861, and rose to the grade of colonel of volunteers in 1862. He gained special distinction by leading the movement for the release of Union prisoners in Libby prison by means of a tunnel. He has since been known as "the hero of Libby prison." In 1865 he was brevetted brigadier general for meritorious services. He entered the regular army in 1866 as a captain, and reached the grade of major in 1892.

Fearful Mortality of Colored Boys.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 13.—Charles Pinney, an 8-year-old boy, is at the Cooper hospital, where he is likely to die. Two colored boys named Cook and Ellis tied the boy to a stake which they had placed on the ground, and then threw a lot of nails around the stake and set it on fire.
The screams of the boy Pinney were heard by colored men, who ran to his relief just as the little fellow became unconscious. Dr. Benjamin, one of the hospital staff, says if the boy doesn't die he will be a cripple for life, as it will be necessary to amputate both arms and perform other dangerous operations.

Senator Coke to Retire from Politics.

WACO, Tex., March 13.—Hon. Walter S.
Baker, chairman of the State Democratic executive committee, is in receipt of a letter from Hon. Richard Coke, United States senator from this state, saying that under no conditions will he again be a candidate for office. His public life, he says, will end with his present term. He is now serving his eighteenth consecutive year in the senate. Governor Hogan and Representatives Cullerson, Sayers, Kilgore, Halley and others are mentioned as his successor.

Suspended Pensioners Reinstated.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—All suspensions of pensions in cases where payment has not been already resumed, or where the pensioner's name has not been stricken from the rolls, were removed by an order signed yesterday afternoon by Commissioner Lochner. This action affects the cases of between 3,000 and 4,000 pensioners.
The pension agents will be instructed to pay these pensioners their former rates until otherwise ordered by the bureau.

Ex-Speaker Hewitt's Funeral.

HOLIDAYSBURG, Pa., March 13.—The funeral of Benjamin L. Hewitt, ex-speaker of the Pennsylvania house of representatives, which was held here yesterday, was attended by many prominent legislators and jurists of the state, and the services were of a highly impressive character.
The county courts were adjourned out of respect to the memory of the deceased.

Manufacturers Sent Up.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., March 13.—Judge Hemphill sentenced Frank Bush, the Spring City forger, to two years' imprisonment; William Clemson, horse stealing, five years; William Harris, horse stealing, three years; Samuel Johnson, horse stealing, three years; Calvin Humphreys, arson, three years; John Harris, burglary, three years—all to go to the penitentiary.

Thieving Bankers Arrested.

HITCHCOCK, Kan., March 13.—A. J.
Tusk, Charles Menke and John Chapman, officers of the defunct Hutchinson National bank, were arrested on indictments found against them by the federal grand jury, charging false entries and alterations in the books of their bank, which failed last summer. All furnished bail.

YOUR MONEY IS RETURNED

If you receive no benefit from Pierce's Peppermint Cure, your money is returned to you.
This fair and business-like offer is held out to all sufferers from the diseases and disarrangements peculiar to their sex.
To weakly womanhood no prize could be more secure, nor the benefit more lasting, than that to be derived from the purchase of a bottle of this famous "Prescription." Its success in curing all the functional dis-arrangements, painful disorders, and chronic diseases of women, warrants its makers in guaranteeing it. What this medicine has done for thousands of delicate women, it will do for you. At the two critical periods in woman's life, the change from girlhood to womanhood, and later, the change of life, it is an invaluable tonic and a soothing nervine, which can produce only good results.
It cures cases of nervous prostration, insomnia, or inability to sleep, and many nervous disorders due to derangement of the functions.

Quarantined Patients Released.

PITTSBURG, March 13.—The ten days' quarantine on the West Penn hospital on account of smallpox has been raised. There were twenty-five patients ready to leave, and in the whole institution there were 100 people anxious to be free. After a carbolic bath and a fumigation of clothes, the twenty-five patients were allowed to go. Today the quarantine was raised on another floor, and by degrees all those who are ready to go will be permitted to leave.

Held a Prisoner by Gypsies.

PITTSBURG, March 13.—A note found in a corked bottle by Ed Swindon, watchman of the steamer Germania, which is tied up at Brownsville, created considerable excitement in that town. The note was written by a woman, who said that she was being held a prisoner by two men at a gypsy camp. The note was taken to Morgantown and placed in the hands of the authorities there.

NUGGETS OF NEWS.

Engene Debs, president of the American Railway Union, has joined the ranks of the Populists.
The charter elections in Michigan and Maine yesterday resulted in Republican victories where party tickets formed the issue.
Dr. Ellauri was elected by congress president of Uruguay in succession to Dr.
Herrera Y. Obes. Dr. Ellauri, however, declines to serve.
Mr. Laugeman, foreman of a saw mill near Sebastian, Fla., was killed and Manager McCloud fatally shot by a discharged employee named Bridges.
A delegate meeting of miners at Massillon, O., resolved to ignore the advice of the executive board and President Mc-Bride and resume work preparatory to a general strike.
Striking flax spinners at Paterson, N. J., yesterday pelted non-strikers with mud, sticks and stones. In an assault on non-striking dye workers one of the workers had his jaw broken.
