The match was to be for $300 a side and to be fought within eight weeks, all preliminaries were arranged even to the appointment of a referee. "Pat" Cleary said last night, "I may fight Hogan for $25 of his own money at Shenandoah on Tuesday evening on the assurance of Reardon's manager that he would be reimbursed the next day. Complaint was made to the association of a Shenandoah man who has been fishing in this district and out of season, for the past two weeks.

PROFESSOR HARTSHORNE'S PERIL

Damaging Evidence by the Sister of His Alleged Victim.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 22.—The courtroom on the second day of the trial of Professor Hartshorne was crowded, many of the audience being ladies. A jury was obtained about noon, and Miss Maggie Robinson was the first witness. Her examination yesterday lasted over three hours, and was decidedly sensational. Her evidence in substance is that Professor Hartshorne had paid attention to her sister Aida for three or four years, and was a frequent visitor at their house. Witness told of the criminal operation performed on Aida on the night of Jan. 1 last, and stated that Dr. H. E. Campbell, who is a fugitive, and Professor Hartshorne were present.

Witnesses positively told she saw the child's limbs move and its eyes open. She saw Dr. Campbell put a cord around its neck. Witness went down stairs, where Professor Hartshorne shortly afterward followed, carrying the child in his hands. He ordered her to leave the room. Immediately after leaving the room she heard the stove lids rattle, and on investigation in the morning saw a part of the skeleton of the child in the stove. She accused Professor Hartshorne of throwing chloroform on her and her sister, and of trying to administer it in other ways on the night she gave the alarm and had Hartshorne arrested. Her sister Aida, on whom the operation was performed, is now an inmate of Dixmont Insane asylum as the result of the crime.

Miss Robinson was sharply cross-examined, but bore it well. She is on the stand again today.

Another Dynamite Fatality at Santander.

SANTANDER, March 22.—Another fatal accident occurred here yesterday, caused by an explosion of dynamite. Ever since the awful disaster that occurred in this city on the night of Nov. 3 last, when the Spanish steamer Cabo Malchicho was blown up by the explosion of part of the large consignment of dynamite aboard of her, the wrecked hull of the vessel has been lying at the bottom of the bay. Yesterday, while a number of men were engaged in the work of taking dynamite out of the hull, an explosion occurred and several of the workmen were killed. The loss of life occasioned by the explosion of last November has never been accurately ascertained. It is known, however, that the list of the dead, missing and wounded numbered fully 1,000.

A Discarded Lover's Revenge.

DURANGO, Mex., March 22.—At Caecaria, situated about sixty miles north of here, a well known citizen named Rafael Lopez was engaged to marry Miss Fortina, the pretty daughter of Martin Paronessa, a wealthy ranchero. Having recently heard reports very derogatory to the character of Lopez the young lady wrote him a letter breaking their engagement. Lopez read upon her and pleaded to be reinstated, but she refused. The father of the girl invited the discarded lover to remain for dinner. The three sat down to eat and Lopez secretly put poison in several dishes of food, and all three died before a physician could be summoned.

Riot Among 'Seab' Miners.

POMONA, O., March 22.—A small riot took place on the Kanawha river packet Columbia while embarking fifty miners for the Clifton, W. Va., mines, in the Kanawha valley. The fight broke out between Lafe Henry, a local pugilist, and Dan Johnson, a miner, over an old feud. Twenty-five men were soon involved. Firearms, slungshots and knives were freely used. Charles Purcell, an operator from Monarch, who was employing miners, rushed in as peacemaker and had his left arm severed at the wrist. He will probably not recover. A dozen others were wounded.

Senator Colquitt's Condition.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Senator Colquitt's condition is unchanged. The present attack is said to be the result of the progress of the paralysis from which he has suffered for a long time rather than from any recent attack. The throat is so completely affected as to prevent him from articulating, though he takes the liquid nourishment that is given him with great difficulty. His physician says that while the patient's condition is unchanged, the case was not hopeless. The senator's mind is perfectly clear.

MILVILLE, N. J., March 22.—The mystery surrounding Charles Wagner, who was employed at Webb's bakery in Mauricetown, and who so suddenly disappeared a few weeks ago, was cleared up yesterday, when his body was found in the Maurice river, near Brickwork. A Blizzard Moving Eastward.

OMAHA, March 22.—The blizzard which developed in the northwestern portion of the state Tuesday night is moving slowly but steadily toward the Missouri river. Its progress is marked by drifts from six inches to two feet deep, and a general blockade of business. A message from Buffalo, Wyo., says that the storm in that section has assumed the proportions of one of the worst blizzards in the state's history. It is feared that the ranges will be covered with dead cattle. Telegraph wires have been useless for hours. There are rumors of death by exposure to the blizzard, but these can neither be verified nor contradicted.

A Wronged Husband's Revenge.

DUBOIS, Pa., March 22.—A man known as John Danver was stabbed to death at the house known as the Miners' Home by William McClelland, proprietor of the place, yesterday afternoon. McClelland also attempted to kill his wife, who is badly wounded, but may recover. McClelland says he surprised Danver and his wife in a very compromising position, and that in his rage and desperation he took summary vengeance. The coroner's inquest developed the fact that Danver, the name the dead man was known by, was one of his aliases, and his record was shown to be that of a professional criminal.

The Expense of Church Music.

"The expense of the music in the church is a perpetual problem, the solution of which must depend upon the circumstances of the church," writes the Rev. Lyman Abbott in an article on "The Church and the Choir" in The Ladies Home Journal. "My own experience leads me to the conviction that the first thing for a church to do is to secure a good organist and choirmaster and pay them a fair compensation. If it then has surplus funds, it may well expend them in hiring a few leading singers, but it should never endeavor to make a concert platform of the choir loft, nor hope to draw people to church by the same attraction which draws them to the concert room."
