Many Children and Grown People Have Already Been Treated-Hotel Landlords Anxious About "Dector" Trout, Who Disappeared Abruptly.

A sore-armed timld people is multiply ng around us. The vaccine doctor is getting in his virus tipped "points" and the School Board regulation has given his business a healthy boom. The healthy lymph of the Marietta helfer has got the call and big strong arms, lilly white arms and every shape and size of r human arm, is at this time growing a portion of the bovine youngsters' itching ostule. Big and little, old and young are having the anti-scourge remedy jabbed into their arms, and everybody is going armed with a slice of that helfer's little seab, defying the feli disease that threateed to swoop down upon us, carrying death and destruction in its wake. Some people vehemently denounce Jenner's great discovery and don't believe in lawing oneself made sick with a dose of raw helfer. There is one particular personage who hates a scab, and he is a Kniight of Labor. The spread of the disease in Danville has furnished an additional incentive for our people to observe the warning of our viriliant Board of Health, and it is gratifying to state that our physicians' reports show that our people are slive to the danger and are exercising the proper precautions. Let the good work continue until we are entirely scenre from an attack of the threatened evil, and let every man, woman and child in Shenan dosh unite in the efforts of our health guardians to protect our lives, health and mutual interests. are having the anti-scourge remedy jabbed guardians to protect our lives, health and mutual interests.

A grocer's horse which stands in front of the owner's store on Centre street quite frequently has a friend whom it knows at a distance. The friend and the writer were walking along the street, the other day. 'See that horse standing up there at the corner?' he said. 'Just watch now and see the welcome I gel.' In a minute the horse, half a block away, pricked up its ears and showed evident signs of interest. Soon the animal especits friend, and immediately it drew around close to the sidewalk and stretched its neck far over. When the friend came up he stroked the horse's nose and then slipped a lump of sugar between two rows of long teeth. The horse was delighted and shook its head with joy. 'The old fellow knows me well,' said the man, giving his friend a parting stroke on the neck. 'I believe he'd climb up and go through that plateghas window after me if I did not stop to speak to him.''

In talking about lawsuits and the var In talking about lawsuits and the various characteristics the witness stand brings out Charley Quinn, the sewing machine dealer, the other day, told an amusing story of the preciseness an old Irishman exercised in giving testimony under examination by the late M. M. L. Velle, Esq. The witness had been asked to relate what he had done on a certain day and to start at the beginning. "Well," said he, "I first got out of beel; and then I put on my pants; and then I went down-spars and looked at the clock I bought on the instalment plan and it was six minutes to six." As may be supposed, this statement elleited a roar of laughter in the court room.

"Dr." Trout, who spent several weeks in town recently and proclaimed himself as an eye and car specialist, has received some notoriety through the Mt. Carmel papers. The "doctor" gives his residence as England and dresses in the heighth of English fashion, wearing a long-tailed coat that reaches below his knews, and eye-glasses that make him look "quite English, you know." He is fully six feet tail and has quite a hanginy bearing; although he is as soft as spring mud, and very much affected—but of course, that is "quite English, you know," too. A little over a week ago he shook the Shen-andoah dust from his shoes and went to Mt. Carmel. While there he sported a fine team of key horses which he had hired from a Shenandoah liveryman. A few nights ago he sent the team back to this town and left the Mt. Carmel hotel, telling the landlord he was going out to make a call. He did not return and the landlord is anxieus about payment for the board of the doctor and the horses. Helis also said to have left an unpaid board hill of $i0 in Shenandoah. It is supposed the "doctor" has gone to Williamsport.
