HEADQUARTERS
REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE,
Philadelphia, Feb. 24, '94.

To the Republican Electors of Pennsylvania:

I am directed by the Republican State Committee to announce that the Republicans of Pennsylvania, by their duly chosen representatives, will meet in State convention at Harrisburg, Pa., on Wednesday, May 23, at 11 o'clock a. m., for the following purpose, to wit:

For the nomination of candidates respectively for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, two members of Congress from the state at large, Auditor General, Secretary of Internal Affairs, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented.

Attention is called to the rule adopted at the State Convention of 1866 providing for the basis of representation as follows:

Representations in future state conventions shall be based upon the vote cast at the Presidential or gubernatorial election immediately preceding, one delegate being allotted to each legislative district for over 2,000 Republican votes and an additional delegate for a fraction exceeding 1,000 votes, each district to have at least one delegate.

By order of the Republican State Com.
B. F. GILKESON, Chairman.
Attest: JERE B. REX,
A. D. FILLEBROWN, Secretary.

The representatives to which each district of the county is entitled to is as follows:

First district, 1; Second district, 1; Third district, 1; Fourth district, 3.

THE polygamous Mormons are striking out for Mexico. The next thing heard perhaps will be that Mexico is striking out for them.

THE mob at the Chicago jail, last Friday, to demand the hanging of Prendergast would have been satisfied with the hanging of any one else. What they chiefly wanted was blood.

ALTHOUGH there was a nigger on the HERALD jury, he did not award a niggardly amount.—Sunday News.

—Leaving the fight made against the claim out of consideration, there was nothing niggardly in the case.

WHAT is home without a lawsuit seems to be the favorite motto of the average Shenandoah "Hunk." After a prolonged season of frugality and self-denial he now dumps all he saved into the justices' courts.

NO FAIR-minded citizen will condone an attack upon the County Controller and Commissioners because they will not pay a bill they never contracted, the squealings of our West Coal street contemporary to the contrary notwithstanding.

ANARCHY in Trenton has been brought to an end. The Democratic conspiracy has been broken down. Reason and law have resumed their sway. Wise and needful laws will now be enacted. New Jersey will henceforth be a cleaner and more salubrious state to live in.

THE little, insignificant-looking globe called a base ball will play an important part during the next six months. Shenandoah has not given it much attention yet, but the surrounding country is organized and just waiting for the kind of weather that will coax the crowds within the gates of the ball grounds.

AN exchange says with evident sarcasm that County Controller Severn is "the greatest political reformer since the days of Cromwell." Mr. Severn may not be just that, but it cannot be questioned that he has made himself one of the best officials the county ever had and has been instrumental in instituting more genuine reform measures in the management of the county affairs during the past three months than have been made in the preceding ten years.

THE Philadelphia Ledger in an editorial opposing the income tax, shows how it will affect the poor man through building societies of the country. The Ledger says: "The building society member who starts out to buy a home for himself usually saves his money for eight or ten years before he can get together enough to serve as margin in the purchase of a property. Then he borrows from a society and proceeds to pay off the loan which occupies a further term of ten to twelve years. It will take the ordinary wage worker altogether about twenty years to buy, clear of all encumbrances, a house suited to his situation in life or such a house as he would rent. The income tax, as proposed, would keep his nose at the grindstone for at least eight months longer, that is to say, the term of the society would be extended by the tax gatherer about eight months." Since, according to Labor Commissioner Wright, these building societies in thirty states have 1,655,456 members, with net assets of $496,628,405, it can be very easily seen that the income tax will affect very many poor men who are striving to obtain homes for themselves and families.

HON. JOHN J. COYLE is seeking the nomination for Senator in the 30th district on the Republican ticket and is one of the strongest men yet mentioned in that connection. Although a young man, he has had considerable experience in business and political circles and was frequently complimented by the press, his colleagues and constituents for the able manner in which he discharged his duties in the last Legislature as the representative from the First district. He is active, industrious, enterprising, painstaking and straightforward.

A BILL has been introduced in the Ohio Legislature for the ringing of a bell in every city and incorporated town every evening at 9 o'clock, as a notice that all children under 10 years of age must leave the streets. Such should be the law everywhere. It would be a very good law here if rigorously enforced. All right-minded parents would or should welcome it. Of course no such regulations would apply to children being in the streets at later hours if in charge of parents or others authorized to care for and protect them.

REST FOR MOTHER'S TIRED HANDS.

Ready Made Clothing For Children Is Now Pretty and Inexpensive.

It is a marvel that any mother will spend time in making the garments for her young children, when their entire wardrobe can be obtained ready made—and well made—at so reasonable a cost. The children's clothing shown this season is remarkably pretty, and much of it is inexpensive. Blue or pink and white striped lawn waists, trimmed with ruffles and wide collars, may be bought to go with little boys' fancy suits, besides the usual white embroidered ones, while the suits themselves are shown in black, blue and drab, trimmed with braid, the jacket being made short enough to allow the light waist to appear below it.

White lawn aprons ruffled around the armholes and with ribbons run through embroidered beading about the low neck and tied in bows on the shoulders are a novelty for small girls, while the display of frocks and coats for very little people is dainty in the extreme. There are fine gingham dresses mounted on a white embroidered yoke, with a bertha of white embroidery falling over the sleeves; charming, old fashioned little gowns of white corded nainsook sprinkled with tiny colored flowers and made with full bodice, skirt and sleeves and a wide nainsook sash; white Marseilles coats, with capes, both trimmed with wide embroidery, and etherealized sunbonnets, very perky in the crown and flaring in the brim and prettily embroidered. A beautiful dress for a 4-year-old child is of bright red cashmere. It is gathered into a tucked yoke of the same material and has very full sleeves gathered into a band at the wrist. Full spaulets of cashmere, finely embroidered with white silk on the edge, hang over the shoulders.

The fashion of dressing very little girls in short sleeved and low necked frocks, at least during warm weather, has again come on hand. It is charming to see the soft little necks and arms uncovered, but gowns made in that style ought always to be provided with a guimpe, to be adjusted at the first hint of dampness or falling temperature. An illustration is given of a frock made of blue and white figured nainsook. It is mounted in box plaits on the pointed yoke, which is made of bands of blue and white insertion and surrounded by a ruffle of embroidery to match. Blue ribbons are fastened at the under arm seams and tied in a bow at the back, and blue bows adorn the shoulders. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A FEEBLE WOMAN—suffering from nervous prostration, excitability, or dizziness, the result of weakness, derangement, or displacement of the special organs—will find health regained after using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The one remedy—standing solitary and alone—for woman's weakness, which is guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money refunded, is the "Favorite Prescription."

It's a powerful invigorating tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine.

For women who are run-down and overworked; at the critical periods in woman's life—the change from girlhood to womanhood, and, later, the "change of life"—this is especially adapted to her needs; for it strengthens, regulates, and CURES.

Whether it's Catarrh itself, or any of the troubles caused by Catarrh, the makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will pay you $500 if they can't give you a permanent cure. They take the risk!

BRECKINRIDGE'S CASE.

Increased Interest in the Great Breach of Promise Trial.

ANOTHER DAY OF DEPOSITIONS.

Attempts to Prove an Alibi on Certain Nights on Certain Dates When Miss Pollard Had Testified That the Colonel Was with Her in Lexington.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—General Coxey's Army of the Commonweal has been no more successful in attracting to itself a miscellaneous aggregation of celebrities than was the Pollard-Breckinridge trial yesterday. In a front row opposite the jury sat the governor of Indiana and several members of his staff. Behind them was Captain Philip King, of the Princeton University baseball team, supported by his warriors. Further in the background was the usual mixed audience, with a select sprinkling of congressmen, who come and go with every day of the trial. There were no ladies, because the sex is outlawed from the room, but after the court has adjourned two fashionably attired women slipped in at a side door under the guidance of a bailiff and stood for five minutes staring at Colonel Breckinridge, where he sat in consultation with his lawyers, as children are accustomed to stare at the animals in a menagerie.

There were hours devoted to arid depositions which were intended to prove an alibi on certain dates when Miss Pollard had testified that the colonel was with her at night in Lexington, and others casting a shadow of suspicion upon her maiden character. Perhaps the most interesting of the depositions was that from Aleck Julian, the blind lover of Madeline Pollard, who figured as the substitute husband in the mock marriage at Squire Tinsley's house on the Christmas of 1882.

In the objections to the depositions for the defense both sides were even. Judge Bradley excluded several, and expressed regret that he had not power to quash them all because of their needless obscenity. Being a staunch Presbyterian, moreover, he suggested that the newspaper correspondents should expurgate their reports in the interests of public morality.

Attorney Stoll read the depositions of Joseph C. Bailey, clerk of the Woodford county circuit court at Versailles, Ky. From the records of the court the clerk had testified that in 1884 there were indictments for murder against Ollie and R. P. Brown, and that Colonel Breckinridge had been one of the defending attorneys. It appeared that the trial was in progress on Aug. 5, the day upon which Miss Pollard had testified that the colonel took her to the house of Sarah Gess, in Lexington, also on Aug. 12, 13 and 16.

The cross-examination of the clerk, read by young Attorney Farrell, of Lexington, developed the further information that during this trial Colonel Breckinridge had frequently driven over from Lexington, returning at night, and sometimes bringing his wife. He had attended the whole trial of Ollie Brown.

One of the Lexington lawyers, Edward M. Wallace, who had been associated with Colonel Breckinridge in the defense of Brown, had deposed that the colonel was present throughout the trial, arguing the case and examining the witnesses, and his statement was read. Next came the deposition of Judge Rodney Hagart, who had been associated with Colonel Breckinridge as counsel for the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad in taxes tried in August, 1884.

The deposition of Judge Jerry R. Morton to prove that the defendant was in Jessamine county, Ky., from Aug 27 to Aug. 30, 1884, was read, and the cross-examination showed that the town was an hour and a quarter by railroad from Lexington. Judge Joseph D. Hunt's affidavit corroborated that of Mr. Hagart and Theodore Davis, clerk of a court, deposed that Colonel Breckinridge had voted in Lexington Aug. 4, 1884, and W. S. Marsh corroborated his testimony. Nat. L. Bronaugh, a lawyer, added his testimony that Colonel Breckinridge had been engaged in the Jessamine county court from Aug. 27 to 30, 1884, but could not say where he (Colonel Breckinridge) had passed his nights during that time.

The deposition of William G. Wood, a carpenter of Lexington, stated that he had been engaged to marry Miss Pollard in the fall of 1882. When he informed her that he could not afford a trip to Europe, as he had promised, she flew into a rage and threw the engagement ring at him.

The deposition of Aleck Julian was then read. Julian stated that he was 40 years old, had been blind since 1882, as the result of shooting a pistol which he didn't know was loaded, and had known Miss Pollard three or four years before that. He thought she was 15 or 16 years old when he first knew her. He spent the night of Dec. 24, 1882, at Squire Tinsley's, about a quarter of a mile from Graffenburg. There were present Squire Tinsley and his family and Madie—Madeline Pollard.

Continuing Julian testified: "After breakfast we were talking about matrimony, and somebody suggested that I should marry Madie. Owen Tinsley, the squire's brother, who was pretty hilarious, said he would marry us, and we stood up and I married her. After awhile he left, saying he would leave her in my charge. We were talking, and then one of us suggested that when people were married they usually went to bed. She consented, and we went up. She had been drinking and I had not. I laid her down on the bed, or helped her there, and sat down on the bed."

At the time of the mock marriage, he thought, Miss Pollard was about 18 years old.

Then came questions about the contents of a letter received by Julian from Miss Pollard, which were ruled out on the grounds stated by Judge Bradley, that a blind man could only know by hearsay the substance of a letter sent him.

Everything that Miss Pollard had done that morning at Squire Tinsley's, he explained, was because of the intoxicants she had taken. Apart from that incident he considered her as nice a girl as he had ever known. Her conduct was that of a chaste and modest young woman.

He had kissed her just as he would kiss any girl. Saw nothing wrong about it, and had kissed many women.

At this point the court adjourned.

Paid His Entire Indebtedness.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Lazarus Silverman, the well known banker of this city, who suspended last August with liabilities of $1,500,000, resumed business yesterday. He has liquidated his entire indebtedness by paying in full, with interest, to everybody.

Deserted by His Counsel.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., March 27.—At the opening of the April term of the district court Colonel Charles W. Clarke, of Cedar Rapids, announced the withdrawal of himself and Hon G. W. Burnham, of Vinton, as counsel for the defense in the case of State vs. D. G. Ramsey, grand chief of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, for cutting the telegraph wires of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern. As these gentlemen were supposed to be Ramsay's main strength in this case, which means so much to him and his order, their action has created much comment among members of the local bar.

Student Taylor Still in Custody.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 27.—F. L. Taylor, the member of the sophomore class at Cornell university, who was committed to jail for contempt of court in refusing to answer questions in regard to the poisoning of the colored woman Jackson at the time of the dinner of the freshmen class, left here yesterday for Watkins, where his case was heard. At Watkins Justice Walter Floyd Smith heard the argument in the habeas corpus proceedings for Taylor's release. He reserved his decision and remanded Taylor to the custody of the sheriff of Tompkins county pending the decision.

Vetoed by Governor Werts.

TRENTON, March 27.—Governor Werts last night sent to the house the bill which repeals what is known as the Guttenburg justice of the peace law, with his objections thereto. The repealer was regarded as is a line with the other race track repealers. The law permitted any one arrested on the race track or elsewhere to select what justice of the peace they would be arraigned before. The governor vetoes the repealer on the ground that the law is a good one, even though it has been abused.
