While Sudplek was having a hearing before Justice Williams one Mike Alabustis made himself very officious and attempted to dictate the law to the justice. The latter's patience was sorely tried by the man's action and as he persisted in his uncalled conduct Alabustis was called to the front to explain his action. As the man stepped forward the Justice recognized him as a man who had been a fugitive since December 25th, inst. Justice recognized him as a man who had been a fugitive since December 25th, inst. Justice Williams commenced a search of his desk and pulled out an old warrant. Policeman Dougherty was told to take charge of Alabustis until $300 bail was furnished for a hearing to-night.

Last Christmas Day Alabustis, who was a special officer on the staff of the Chief Burgess, arrested one Joseph Stone and others for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Stone and his friends paid their fines and costs under protest and then caused a warrant to be issued for Alabustis' arrest, claiming false imprisument. As soon as the latter heard he was wanted he left the town and was not heard of again until he interfered in the proceedings at Justice Williams office. The men who charge Alabustis say that the special officer was Intoxicated when he arrested them and he caused them to be put in the lockup without a warrant or other due authority of the law.

The last bird for Cox. a blue chicken, flew out to the left. The old man took deliberate sim and the bird dropped dead within bounds. Green's last bird flew straight up. The Girard-wille boy drew a quick trigger and the bird dropped to carrie midst the wildest excitement. The match money was drawn and all bets declared off. Cox offered to match Smith, at Williamstown, against Green for £300, the match to be shot in Tremont. Green has not yet accepted.

this morning, thinking, perhaps, I could get a job, but I soon found out that only dagos could apply. Now is this not a bad breach of faith on the part of our Councilmen? At the time that they were so crazy to get the special election for water works carried these Councilmen promised faithfully that when the time would come to do the work in town the citizens and taxpayers would be given the preference, but when I applied this morning I was told there was no work. All along the trench there were men in meed of work, but the dagos shut them out. When the special election was held the working time was pretty fair, but now, in these hard times, public water works are being built in the town and a citizen out of work cannot even get a job as a water carrier.

work carnot even get a job as a water carrier.

I am about disgusted with this wat r business. This last blow is not the first promise broken, but it is the worst in its effect. Just at the time when the town authorities should do something to relieve the distressed people we find them flooding the town with dagos to build the public water works. The works were authorized by a public meeting of the citizens. Now I suggest that a public meeting of the citizens. Now I suggest that a public meeting be held again and that the Councilmen be made to live up to their promises and give the hundreds of people who are almost starving a chance to work on the public water works. It is a disgrize to the town and every workingman and business man should raise his voice against it.

noticed by the HERALD a few nights I noticed by the Herald a few nights ago that several Councilmen made a big splurge about the disgrace that would fall on Shenandoah by paying workmen only $1.25 a day. Now I would like to know how these Councilmen feel on the water works. Why are the dagos given work in preference to citizens and taxpayers and how much a day are the dagos getting for building the water works for the borough. These are fair and square questions and i would like to hear something about them.

A Free Fight,

There was a free fight out on the rocks at the south end of Jardin street at about eight o'clock last night, in which knives and razors were freely used, but no one was scriently injured. Chief of Folice O'Hars hastened out to the place with his four assistants and gathered in a crowd of the combatants, who were Hungarians. They spent the night in the lockup.
