

All that's Yellow is not Cottolene

There's hardly a housekeeper in the country but has heard of Cottolene the new vegetable shortening. It is a strictly natural product; composed only of clarified cotton seed oil, thickened for convenience in use, with refined beef suet, pure and sweet. So composed, it is the best of its kind.

COTTOLENE

Was bound to win, and to drive out lard from the kitchens of the world. When housekeepers wish to get rid of the unpleasant features and results of lard, they should get Cottolene, taking care that they are not given cheap imitations with vegetable names, spiciously compounded to sell in the place of Cottolene. It's easy to avoid disappointment and ensure satisfaction. Insist on having Cottolene.

CARLISLE ON TARIFF.

He Urges Speedy Passage of the Pending Measure.

REDEEM THE PARTY PLEDGES.

"If the Country is to Wait for Tariff Reform Until Every Senator and Representative is Satisfied Our Promises Will Never be Kept."

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle has authorized the following statement in reply to an inquiry by an Associated Press reporter as to whether it were his belief that the bill for the conference committee had been passed upon certain amendments to the pending tariff bill: "I am a free trader. I have had no conference with the subjects with anybody outside the Democratic members of the senate committee on Finance, and therefore I am not in a position to say whether or not I have taken place. It is true that an effort is being made to agree upon such changes in the pending bill as will secure for it the united and active support of all the Democrats in the senate. The indications now are that this support can and will be secured without making radical changes in the rates of duty or material alterations in the form of structure of the tariff schedule as they were passed by the house of representatives. In fact I regard the changes now under consideration as quite unimportant."

"I do not think we ought to permit differences of opinion upon mere matters of detail or in regard to small increases or reductions of rates in the bill as it now stands, to prevent the redemption of our pledge to the people, and therefore I am in favor of securing, if possible, without any surrender of principle and without amending any part of the Democratic policy of tariff reform, such mutual concessions upon these points as will consolidate our strength and pass the measure at the earliest possible date. So far as the proposed amendments relate to duties upon important articles of consumption now subject to duty, the rates suggested as the basis for adjustment are all much lower than the present rates, while there are many instances in which they are higher than the rates in the bill reported by the senate committee. It is reported that the most important article upon which a change of duty is now proposed is sugar, raw and refined, and it is strenuously contended by persons interested in the production of this article that the specific rates already in the bill, as reported by the senate committee, are higher than the ad valorem rates which it is now proposed to insert. Whether this is correct or not depends upon the price of sugar in the foreign market from time to time, and therefore it is not possible to make an exact statement upon the subject. But I am satisfied that the difference between the specific rates heretofore proposed and the ad valorem rate now under consideration is so small as to be of no material consequence either to the producer or to the consumer."

"The support of the tariff reform and the substitution of a more just and equitable measure in its place are of vital importance to the prosperity of the country, and the people have a right to expect that all who are really in favor of a reduction of tariff taxation will make such reasonable concessions to each other's views as will certainly accomplish these results. If the country is to wait for tariff reform until a measure is devised which is entirely acceptable in all its parts to every senator and representative whose vote is necessary to pass it our promises will never be kept."

"Are any changes proposed in that part of the bill which relates to the income tax?"

"It is well known," said the secretary, "that there has been from the beginning considerable opposition to the proposed income tax, even among those who have voted for and supported the bill with that feature in it. Much of this opposition has been based upon the provisions of the bill which prescribe the methods of ascertaining and collecting the tax, and which are alleged to be arbitrary and inequitable. In my opinion, many of these objectionable provisions ought to be and can be safely omitted from the bill. There are many patriotic citizens, too, who are not satisfied that its adoption is a permanent part of our system, or justifiable in time of peace, when so great emergency exists. This view of the subject could be fairly met, I think, by limiting the operation of the law to a reasonable period—say five years—so that its effect upon the country could be thoroughly tested, leaving the people to decide thereafter, in the light of their experience, what to acquire, whether it shall be continued."

SCROFULA AND ECZEMA

WONDERFUL CURE

I wish to state that I have been cured of SCROFULA AND ECZEMA by the use of DANA'S SARSAPARILLA. My skin was covered with sores, and I was unable to work. I tried many other remedies, but with little result, until I used DANA'S SARSAPARILLA. It cured me in a few days, and I am now well and happy.

WRECKED BY DYNAMITE

A Workman's Error Causes Disastrous Results, but No Fatalities.

HAZLETON, Pa., April 28.—Anthony C. Franko, a laborer, was ordered to use six inches of dynamite in order to break up oil on the Pennsylvania iron works. Instead he used sixteen sticks of the explosive, and the result was a terrific explosion. A portion of the ceiling, weighing some 2,000 pounds, descended upon the roof of James McGivern's home, which stood 300 yards away. The house was wrecked and completely destroyed, and the inmates escaped being crushed to death. In the wrecked building was sleeping Mrs. McGivern, who was awakened by the explosion. She hurriedly fled, and had time to move when the ceiling crashed upon the floor, carrying it and dishes through the floor into the cellar. The woman was protected by freight, but otherwise would have perished.

GREAT HOTEL BURNED.

The Historic St. Charles, at New Orleans, Wiped Out.

FIVE PEOPLE LOSE THEIR LIVES.

Of These One Man Jumped From a Fourth Story Window to the Street—The Hotel Was One of the Largest and Handsomest in the Country.

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—A few minutes before 11 o'clock Saturday night fire broke out in the kitchen of the St. Charles hotel. A large audience was leaving the St. Charles theater at the time, and in a few minutes the wildest excitement prevailed in the street. Guests and employees of the hotel were seen rushing out of the burning building half-dressed and in their nightgowns, and some were seen running down the stairs. The fire spread so rapidly that the whole interior of the hotel was within five minutes a mass of flames. One man jumped from the fourth story and was almost instantly killed, while four men and one woman were seen to leap from the iron staircase and were lost to view in the court which looked like a furnace. One man was seen to leap from the roof of the hotel and was seen to land on the street, but nothing was seen of the others. It is also reported that a child is missing, but this lacks confirmation.

About 2 a. m. a portion of the wall on Gravier street, as well as a section on Common street, fell in and a small portion of the Gravier side fell outward, wrecking a number of telegraph wires. By 3 a. m. the heat of the interior of the building had diminished, leaving only the St. Charles street walls intact. On Gravier street the flames were eating their way into three buildings which intervened between the great wall of the hotel and the old Union bank at the corner. These buildings on Gravier street were occupied by a number of firms engaged in the insurance and machinery agency business. Fortunately for the interest of these firms most of their representatives or their clerks appeared upon the scene and saved the valuable books and papers.

No fire that has ever been known in New Orleans was accompanied by a greater shower of sparks, which were carried by the wind a distance of three or four blocks.

The St. Charles, which was built in 1820, the work of construction having been commenced in 1825. The cost of the building was $200,000, and the ground cost $100,000. The dining room was one of the highest finished apartments in America, the ceiling being composed of three beautiful elliptical domes for chandeliers. The ceilings and walls were handsomely frescoed by Cimova, nephew of the great Italian sculptor, and the building contained some handsome statuary. This building was destroyed by fire in 1831. The building of the new hotel was at once commenced and the building then completed was the one just destroyed. At the time it attracted attention throughout the world because of the fact that it was the finest hotel in the world, and the first great hotel of the United States. The new building was of the same style and architecture as the old one, with the exception of the cupola.

From 1831 the building has been closely associated with the history of this state and city. In 1837 Jefferson Davis and the leading southern politicians met and agreed upon the course to be pursued at the Charleston convention in 1860, and since then the fate of hundreds of applicants for public honors were sealed in the historic precincts. Since the war the St. Charles has been the central point of very stormy politics in Louisiana.

Mr. Hildreth, one of the proprietors at the commencement of the war, was a relative of General Butler's wife, whose maiden name was Hildreth. When Butler took charge of the city in 1862, Mr. Hildreth refused to receive Butler in the hotel, and a riot was narrowly prevented in consequence. His doors were then a open to returning Confederates at the close of the war, and more they were welcomed with and without price.

Singular Fatal Burnings Accident.

WINCHESTER, Va., April 28.—John Newcomb, a prominent farmer, residing near Wadesville, Clarke county, was killed under peculiar circumstances. While drying home from here his horse ran away, throwing him out of his buggy. His son, hearing of it, went in a wagon to take him home, when the son's horse likewise became unmanageable, and a second run away occurred, in which the elder of the two was again thrown out and killed.
