CRUSHED BY A CAR!

Fatal Accident on the Electric Railway.

A CHILD WAS THE VICTIM

Knocked Down When Trying to Cross the Track in Front of the Car—Its Body Terribly Mangled Yet It Survived for Fifteen Minutes.

A dreadful accident occurred on the West Coal street line of the Schuylkill Traction Company last night, resulting in the death of Andrik Bender, the five-year-old son of Andrik and Eva Bender.

As car No. 37, with Thomas Kluney as motor man and William Dooley as conductor, was making a trip over the flats at the west end of Coal street, running eastward, the unfortunate child made a dash across the track and before he could get out of the way the car struck him.

As the child fell beneath the wheels the motor man seemed paralyzed by horror. He exclaimed "Oh! oh! oh!" as he turned off the power and applied the brakes. The child was frightfully mangled, the wheels passing over the lower part of the abdomen and almost cutting the body in two. Notwithstanding the terrible nature of the injury the child lived fully fifteen minutes after the accident and when picked up from the track he looked about appealingly.

The parents of the child were almost distracted by grief. The sight of the victim and the anguish of the parents worked upon the crowd that assembled that the men in charge of the car deemed it advisable to leave the place and they proceeded on their journey to the stopping place on Main street. The motor man then turned the car over to another employe of the road and returned to Girardville as a passenger.

Meanwhile the child had been carried to the home of its parents, which was directly opposite the place where the accident occurred. He was a fine, robust little fellow and evidently a favorite of the neighborhood. It was remarkable that he survived the dreadful accident for an instant.

The affair caused considerable comment on the method of running the electric cars in that section of the town and the more the matter was discussed the stronger the desire became to make an attack upon the motor man on the return trip. The men on the car evidently anticipated this, for in running back they passed the place at such a speed that no one could get on the car.

The story of the motor man is that his car was running at a speed of from five to six miles an hour. The child was sitting on a mound of earth covering the recently laid water pipes, playing with dirt. When the car was about four or five feet away the child sprang towards the track. The car struck him and knocked him back against the mound of earth; rebounding, the child rolled upon the track between the front and hind wheels of the car.

The motor man is sustained by several eye witnesses of the accident in the statement that the car was not running at a fast rate of speed. Moreover, it is claimed that the cars cannot run at a high speed eastward at that point because a heavy grade begins there and the power of the line is not sufficient for such a speed. In running westward the cars run faster on account of the headway given on descending the heavy grade.

After the first excitement following the accident subsided there were a number of people on the scene who said they considered the accident was due to a sudden action on the part of the child and the motor man could not have avoided it, no matter at what speed the car was running.

The motor man says he will have several eye witnesses of the accident in the coroner's inquest and will show not only that the accident was unavoidable, but also that the car was running at a slow speed.

Last night the father of the child went before Justice Cardin and swore out a warrant for the arrest of the motor man and conductor. Constable Boland arrested them at Girardville. They went before Justice McLaughlin and each furnished $1,000 bail to appear before Coroner Manley at Shenandoah, when the inquest will be held. The bail was furnished by P. J. Birmingham.

MURDER AT PORT CLINTON.

An Italian Supposed to Have Met With Foul Play.

Special to EVENING HERALD.
PORT CLINTON, May 4.—An Italian, whose name could not be learned, but which is thought to be Tarrales, was employed as a section repairman on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad in this vicinity. The fellow had saved considerable money, the greater part of which he usually carried upon his person, and it is thought that some one having knowledge of this fact committed the murder. The man worked very regularly, but failed to show up Tuesday morning. Inquiry was made at his boarding house as to his whereabouts, but no one could give any information about him.

Late yesterday afternoon several repairmen had occasion to visit a tool house near the Port Clinton station, and upon opening the door they were startled to find the dead body of the Italian lying upon the floor. An examination disclosed the fact that the dead man's head had been crushed, while his body bore marks of violence. His pockets had been rifled and there was nothing whatever found that would lead to the perpetrators of the crime.

A PARENT'S STATEMENT.

One That Does Not Confirm That of Mr. Whitaker.

EDITOR HERALD.—While the report of Superintendent Whitaker to the School Board in relation to the confinement of children in the school was made as an attack on the HERALD I feel it is my duty, as one of the complaining parents, to make a statement.

On the day in question my son failed to come home for his dinner and I left the house to look for him. One of the school children told me the boy had been detained in the school room. I went to the school building and was unable to get in. This was at a quarter of one o'clock. Another boy told me the boy was in the school room and that if I would go to the rear of the building I could see him. I followed the instructions and by looking through a window I saw my son in the room. I then went to the house of the teacher and asked her to go to the school building and let me see him. She said she would do so some time in the afternoon, but I insisted that she should do it at once and she did, after the boy had been jockeyed up for an hour and fifteen minutes.

My son's statement was that when the teacher left him in the room she told him to remain there until she returned.

The teacher wanted to make an explanation, but I said none was required; that the child was penned in the room and I wanted him released. Two days after I saw Whitaker and asked him whether he thought it was right that a child should be penned in a school for that length of time and he said he did not think it was. He also stated that he had investigated the matter and had found that the janitor had locked the boy in. I then asked him whether the janitor was hired to take care of children while they were at school and whether a teacher had a right to leave the school while children were still in the room. He said the janitors were not hired to take care of the children and the teacher had stated that she did not know the children were in the school. To this I said the teacher must have known they were there when she told them to remain there and went home for her dinner. Whitaker said, "Of course, it was not right."

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

A Mahanoy City Man Drowns Himself Near Harrisburg.

The remains of Frank McElugh, who committed suicide by throwing himself into the Susquehanna river at Steelton on Tuesday, reached Mahanoy City yesterday. The deceased was about 35 years of age. He left Mahanoy City early this week to seek employment at the Steelton Iron Works, where he had been employed several years before. It is supposed that he was refused work and in his depondency jumped into the river. The funeral will take place to-morrow.

Frank McElugh was well-known in Shenandoah and throughout the region when in his teens he was connected as Secretary, with one of the Mollie Maguire branches and when the drag net was drawn he was one of the number caught. On account of McElugh's youth the late Franklin A. Gowen interceded for him and he was let off lightly, socially. Frank was good-natured and pleasant. For several years he was employed about the mines in this neighborhood.

BRENNAN WON.

And Begley's Friends Dropped Quite a Sum of Money.

The one-hundred-yard dash at Mahanoy park yesterday afternoon between John Begley and "Die" Brennan, of Shenandoah, was won by Brennan. The stakes were $300 aside. Begley conceded Brennan three yards start. At four o'clock George Turner, of Philadelphia, raised his pistol and as the cartridge exploded both men got away like a flash and in good form. Brennan maintained his lead to finish, winning by three feet and in eleven seconds.

Brennan was backed by Charles New, of Shenandoah, and Brennan by Fahney of the same place. W. W. Lewis, of Mahanoy City, and James Smith, of Shenandoah, timed the racers. The usual large crowd was in attendance. Enough money changed hands to start a bank.

Always in the Lead.

Elias Davis is never a follower. Always leading. He has been hustling around the county for the past three months and knows to his many friends that he is a candidate for Sheriff and that is about all he need do for his friends are legion and will see that he gets what he wants in that line of political preference. And he is worthy of the best of support. Elias was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth, but has worked his way up from the humblest obscurity to his present position of prominence and success. And in his case has been proven most positively the truth of the saying that "nothing succeeds like success" for, since his original break from his obscurity, success has been followed by success with him. His business and his political life have kept pace one with the other like a good running team and his party can well afford to tie to him as its candidate for Sheriff feeling confident of winning. No successful man can exist without his envious detractors, and of course Elias has his share of them, but he has also his full measure of friends who will see to it that he "gets there" in good shape. Splinters wishes him good wind and a clear sail. It would be almost a pleasure to be sold out by such a square Sheriff as Elias will be.—St. Clair Splinters, April 25th.

HE BROKE HIS NECK

Matthew Sokaitis' Fatal Fall at His Residence.

WIFE'S AWFUL SURPRISE

She Finds the Dead Body of Her Husband at the Bottom of a Stairway When Seeking Water for Her Sick Child, at an Early Hour This Morning.

Matthew Sokaitis, aged 39 years, fell down a stairway at his home on West Centre street last night and broke his neck. His dead body was found by his wife where the accident occurred.

Mrs. Sokaitis said to-day that at about eleven o'clock last night her husband left the bedroom on the second floor saying he was going down stairs to have a smoke. Mrs. Sokaitis then fell into a sound sleep. She was very much in need of rest on account of attention she had been giving for several days and nights to one of her children, who is sick.

At about three o'clock this morning Mrs. Sokaitis awoke and went down stairs to get some water for the sick child. As she reached the bottom of the stairway leading to the basement she found her husband lying in a heap on the floor, dead.

In the fright attending the discovery the woman alarmed the neighborhood by her screams. Dr. S. C. Spalding was summoned. He saw there was no requirement for his aid, as the man had evidently been dead for some time.

Sokaitis had not complained of being ill and worked regularly in the mines at Wiggans up to Wednesday night. It is supposed that when he descended the stairway to go to the basement for his pipe and tobacco he tripped and fell to the bottom. The deceased is survived by a wife and two children, one aged 8 months and the other two years.

John Roberts, the West Lloyd street undertaker, who graduated from an embalming school in New York city, has now introduced the system in his business and is meeting with excellent success. He does not use ice boxes unless they are requested and makes no extra charge for embalming. This method of preserving remains has become very popular, so much so that it is quite likely that in a short time ice boxes will be rarely used.

The telegraphers will hold their assembly and contest of speed in Robbins' opera house to-night. It will be a great event, as over one thousand tickets have been sold.

Washington Camp, No. 112, P. O. S. of A. will celebrate its 25th anniversary in Ferguson's theatre to-night. A splendid program has been arranged. Twelve hundred invitations have been issued.

Have You Seen It?

One of the greatest curiosities we have come across during recent strolling about town for "write ups" is the alligator boy now on exhibition in Max Schmidt's show window, on North Main street. It is, perhaps, one of the most remarkable exhibits seen here. The alligator boy was captured by a party of alligator hunters from England, near the city of Jacksonville, Florida, in 1883. The object presents a mummified appearance. It is four feet long and would seem to be several years old. Hundreds of people have viewed it the last few days.

No Quorum.

The Borough Council failed to hold its regular meeting last night as there was no quorum, many of the members having gone to Davis' Run to inspect the work done on the public water works. Chairman McEure announced that a meeting will be held this evening.

RIOTOUS STRIKERS.

They Bait the Painter Works at Scottsdale and are Reputed.

Special to the HERALD.

SCOTTDALE, May 4.—The striking miners have become nervous over the indifference of the operators, and to-day resorted to violence. If nothing comes of the conference to be held at Cleveland, it is feared that greater depredations than those attempted to-day will be the result.

The striking coke miners made a raid upon the Painter works to-day, but were finally repulsed by the deputies who have been guarding the works.

The deputies in repulsing the strikers used their Winchester quite freely, and during the encounter fifteen persons were wounded. One woman is dying from the effects of a bullet wound. Mine Superintendent White was fatally beaten by the strikers. Great excitement prevails here and further trouble is feared at any moment.

This morning he was released under increased bail.
