COXEY'S ARMY

George T. Angell, President of the American Humane Education Society stc., has issued the following appeal to Сопутемя

I have read with interest in our daily papers of the progress of this army and of the various bodies of men who propose to join it, either at, or before its arrival at Washington, also the opinions of General McCook, of our United States army, and various others upon the subject.

This army may not reach Washington with a sufficient force to endanger Con gress or the United State Treasury, and these opinions of General McCook and others may be wrong. But there is no doubt that there is in this country at the present time a very large number of labor ing men, willing to work, who cannot find amployment, and another class who are anxious to stir up these men to anarchs and the destruction of property and life. On the other hand there can be no ques tion that half a million of laboring men sould be usefully employed to-day by our National and State Governments on public improvments of great value.

199,000 men could be put at work on a ship canal from the Mississippi river to Chicago-another 100,000 on enlarging the Erie to a ship canal from Buffalo to Albany, (possibly by the use of electricity or otherwise, these canals might be kept open a large part of the winter]-anothe 166,000 on a ship canal across uppe Florida from the Gulf of Mexico to the St John's river-another large force in strengthening the levess of the lower Mississippi and other southern rivers-another in draining and irrigating vast tracts of waste lands and so preparing them for settlement-another in con structing fortifications and breakwaters for the protection of our harbors-another in constructing and improving untional and state roads, and another in lighting the Russian thistle, and in vari ous other ways too numerous to mention

If I mistake not, a very considerable needy of men might be profitably employed in Washington itself, securing better sewerage, the filling of the Potomac flats. building proper bridges across the river and killing out the causes of malaria.

Now, I i m not a Congressman, never held a political office in my life, and never want to: but I have in common with others an interest in the welfare o sur country and in promoting peace and good will between all classes of its citizens and with that view would inquire whether it is not entirely within the power of Congress to authorize the immediate enlistment of one, two, three or more hundred thousand men as an "Industrial Corps" of our regular army, to be employed only in useful industries, but to be as strict military discipling mourt martial trials, etc., as the regular army:-this "Industrial Corps" to be placed under the control of officers design nated by Congress or the President. The amlistment to be for one, two, or more years, and the men put at work as soon as possible in some of the ways above

State governments my follow th example of the United States, and every unemployed man in the country, willing to work, have plenty to do

If the question beasked, "Can we afford to give all these unemployed men em ployment?" I answer, "Can we afford not Suppose, if absolutely necessary, postpone for a year or two the building of any more $1,000,000 war ships and $60,000 cannon, every discharge of one of which costs from $300 to $400.

Suppose during the next year or two we watch the costly experiments of European governments, which are much more likely to try to keep their own restless citizen quiet by setting them at fighting each other, than to meddle with us if we proporly behave ourselves.

If we should go to war to-day could we not arm, equip and support 500,000 men in the field as easily as we did thirty TUREW BEO?

And would not the wheels of industry move as they did then !

And is it not a thousand times better and vastly cheaper to put 500,000 men at work on great internal improvements of public value than to have a war, or have them stand idle?

COLONIL BESCHWEIDER made a very sloquent and touching speech in opening his campaign for renomination to Congress, but it is doubtful if he helped himself by his assault upon the clergymen of Laxington. of a Trade Mark The N. K. Fairbank Company of Chicago have lately brought suit in the United States Court against W. L. In order to indicate the source and genuineness of their new food product, they originated, coined and use as a trade mark the word "Cottolene." The healthful ness and many advantages of Cottolene over lard were so apparent that Cottolene became at once very popular and is now largely sold all over the country.

The new food product and its name "Cottolene" have become widely known as the product of The N. K. Fairbank Company. The trade mark is described as a "trade mark for Cleaginous Food Substances, &c., consisting of a head or neck of a Steer or other bovine partially enclosed by sprigs and branches of the Cotton plant."

TO MOVE A JOINT INVESTIGATION.

The House Committee on Labor, by a Vote of Seven to Two, Decides in Favor of a Special Committee on the Depressed Condition of Labor.

WASHINGTON, May 10 .- Yesterday was WASHINGTON, May 10.—Yesterday was a turbulent day in the senate. The "era of business" so long predicted was at last entered upon after six weeks' general debate on the tariff. One amendment, that to lavy duties on goods in bond on the date when the bill goes into effect, was agreed to, and Mr Lodge's amendment to levy commercial war on Great Britain un-til that country should acquissee in an in-ternational agreement for the coinage of silver was defeated. This was not a very lively pace, as something over a thousand amendments are pending, but neverthe less it was progress.

The sensational feature of the tariff de bate was Mr. Mills' flerce denunciation of the surrender made to the conservative Democrats. He declared that the bill should now be called the Gorman or Brice bill, and called upon those senators to stand out in the daylight and take the responsibility for the surrender of Demo cratic principle. He, moreover, asserted that he would vote against each and every ne of the amendments that changes tuties from ad valorem to specific Whether such action of his part will jeopardize the amendments and destroy the present agreement remains to be seen.

Work on the tariff bill was preceded by two hours' debate upon the Allen res a two hours debate upon the Allen reso-lution for the appointment of a special committee to investigate the alleged po-lice clubbing outrages on the steps of the Capitol, Mr. Allen made a vigorous speech in support of the resolution. Mr. Sher-man of Ohio, replied to Mr. Allen in a very temperate manner, upholding the constitutionality of the act, denying that there had been any attempt to abridge the right of petition, and predicting that the asguided Commonwealers would soon find that they did not represent in any de-gree the sentiment of the country, and that in a short time the better judgment of the people would prevail and the pres-ent excitement would fade away.
The mayal appropriation bill was under consideration in the house yesterday, but as a rule that bill received very little at-tention at the hands of the speakers, the debate soon switching off to the tariff question. The feature of the debate was n arraignment of the president for his action on the Carnegie armor plate frauds by Mr. Haughen, of Wisconsin, and the defense of Mr. Pendleton, of West Vir-

After hearing General Coxey yesterday the house committee on labor, by a vote of 7 to 2, decided to report a resolution for a joint investigation by a special commit-tee of the senate and house of the Coxey movement and the depressed condition of labor in general. This decision was hailed with satisfaction by Messrs. Coxey and Browne, and by a number of prominent Populists and Farmers' Alliance leaders, including the president of the Alliance and the chairman and secretary of the People's party.
