FLOODS IN THE WEST.

The Arkansas River Breaks its Bounds at Pueblo, Colo.

PEOPLE FORCED TO HIGH GROUND

Women and Children Congregated in the City Hall and Armory, Waiting for the Waters to Subside Before They Can Return to Their Homes.

Pugnto, Colo., June 1.—Pueblo has been visited by the worst flood in its history. Several thousand people were rendered homeless and property was damaged to the amount of probably $500,000, although it is impossible at this time to estimate the exact loss. Four breaks in the levee on the north side and two on the south side have flooded the region between Eighth stores and the riger on the west Eighth street and the river on the west in a signag course, thence to Fourth and Main, Second and Santa Fe, and every-thing south of and including First street. On the south side the flooded area extends from West Fourth street bridge down through the Rio Grande yards to Union avenus. Practically everything west on Union avenue from the river to C street and all west of Victoria avenue, Stanton and Snyder's addition, is under water. While the Arkansas was thus on its mad career a great torrent was coming down the Fountain, which reached almost the stage of the flood of last Angust. The east approach to the East Eighth street bridge was largely carried away, and the water main under the Fourth street bridge was destroyed. At 8:10 the fire alarm whistle warned a tremulous throng that the resi-dents of the lowlands had better get out, and they did so in a hurry, some manag-ing to carry off a portion of their belong-

The first break in the levee was just west of the Main street bridge. The ef-forts of a score of men to repair the levee were as those of pigmies, and the gap grew wider until it was soon found to be useless to strive further. The water then rushed in torrents and flooded the entire block from the river to Richmond avenue between Union avenue and Main street. The water commenced pouring in on the district between Sixth street and the river. and in a very short time was three feet deep and all the people in the locality were forced to leave their homes or go up in second stories. Women and children were taken to the water works on higher ground A number of small buildings on C street fell in.

About 2 o'clock the water began to re cede, and it is believed now that all dan-ger is passed, but at the present rate it will be some time before, the ger is passed, but at the present rate it win be some time before the streets are pass-able. Handreds of people, men, women and children, are congregated in the City hall and the armory, waiting until the high waters go down and they can go to their homes, which will not be for some days. The disastrous flood was caused by the very extensive rains in the Arkansas the very extensive rains in the Arkansas valley.

But ween Peublo and Eden the Rio Grande tracks are under water. A bridge on the Rio Grande, twenty five miles west of Pueblo, has gone. Between Colorado Springs and Manitou 500 feet of the Rio Grande track has been washed away and a bridge on the Colorado Midland is gone. William Smith, a track repairer, was william Smith, a track repairer, was killed by a boulder which was washed down upon him. The South Park road is badly washed in Plate canyon and 130 picnickers are imprisoned there.

Three lives are now known to have been lost in the flood, and it is barely possible that others have gone to a watery grave, but the full details will not be known until the river subsides to somewhere near its normal limits.

A Second Johnstown.

A Second Johnstown.

Sponanc Falls, June 1.—A telegram from Coules City states that a flood at the village of Conconnilly has proved to be a second Johnstown. The flood was caused by the breaking of a dam above the village, and everything went down before the advancing wall of water. However, but one life is as yet known to have been lost, that of Mrs. Almira Keith. The village was located in a canyon 100 feet village was located in a canyon 100 feet wide, and through this narrow channel the flood poured the resistless force. The property loss is estimated at $150,000.

Houses Swept Away.

LYONS, Colo., June 1 .- There is a heavy flood here, and half the town is under water. Several houses have been awept away, stock lost, bridges gone and much property is still in danger. The water works have been destroyed. The water is still rising, and many houses are threat-ened. No lives are known to have been

Fatal Tenement Fire in New York.

New York, May 1.—Seven persons were injured, one child fatally, in a fire that burned from the ground floor to the roof of a five story tenement house at No. 128 Suffolk street, between Rivington and Stanton streets, about 5 o'clock in the Stanton streets, about 5 o'clock in the morning. An explosion in a distillery, that blew the front of the shop across the street, started the fire with sudden but strong headway, which gained rapidly before the firemen arrived. Chief Ahearn, at the imminent peril of his own life, rescued tyear-old Lizzie Jaeger, but her clothing was all burned off and she died soon after.

Two Killed by a Holsting Bucket. WILE REBARNE, Pa., June 1.—At the new Bliss shaft of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, near Nanticoke, William Baker and Adam Hurman met a horrible death. The men were working directly under the hoisting apparatus. When about 200 feet up the rope broke and the bucket with its contents came down, crushing Hurman and instantly killing him. He was decapitated and his legs and arms broken. Baker's face was pierced by the bucket pivot and one of his legs was broken

Decided Against the Workers

CINCINNATI, June 1.—Judge Taft and nounced his decision in the case of the application of the employes of the Cincin nati Southern road for an order restrain ing Receiver Felton from reducing their ing Receiver Felton from reducing their wages 10 per cent. The order was refused, the court holding that the reduction is justifiable. No questions of labor organi-zations were involved, as the men applied as individuals.

LOVE AND FOOTBALL

A man and a Vassar maiden, With wind and wave attune, Talked low of love and football 'Neath a mellow Newport moon,

The Vassar maid had hinted That Vassar girls might play At Rugby 'gainst his college, And bent them, too, some day,

"If you should play," he whispered,
"Your college against mins,
I'd like to play left tackle
On the opposing line,"

Then drooped her head the maiden, With blushes red as flame, And said, "Since this may be so Let's have a practice game,"

What is called the leg of a bird is really the foct, and birds walk only upon their toes. It seems a wonder to some that birds do not fall from the perch even in alcop. There is a special muscle that holds the toes, and the bending of the knee joint draws this muscle tight, thus making it impossible for it to lose its hold. The fo-male is accredited with highly asthetic tastes, choosing her male companion for his beauty. The bird's beak is of interest, taking the place as it does of both hand and mouth. The eye is the most wonderful of all. It is a combination of both microscope and telescope, with an automatic combination that is marvelous. There is a great deal of humanity in birds. Their lives are full of anxiety, toll and care. We must remember that every mouthful of their feed court be contrast. Birds' Legs. lives are full of anxiety, toll and care. We must remember that every mouthful of their food must be captured. The labor of supplying food for a hungry nestful of children is no joke, even to a bird. Nothing is more underrated than the individuality of birds. Birds differ in characteristics and mouthful highs. These who study istics and mental habits. Those who study will be able to tell one robin from another by little tricks of manner or by voice. There can be no question about birds hav-ing a language of their own. The laning a language of their own. The lift-guage of some savage races of men is very like in sound to the language of birds. The first recognized duty of a nursling is said to be the arrangement of a plumage by means of the little oil gland or can, se-creted on the body just above the tail. Nature has been lavish in her dress of birds. What is more beautiful or wonderful than the feathers that cover them? Each feather can be lifted individually and Independently of each other. This beautiful dress requires care, and the bird smooths and brightens it with the oil from the oil sack.—Olive Thorne Miller.

The dislike of some people for the photographer's chair may be due to a natural shrinking from anything like personal publicity, or, more likely, to feelings of wounded vanity, because the camera persists in representing them as they are rather than as they imagine themselves to be. Neither of these considerations can be supposed to have influenced the Indian bison posed to have influenced the Indian bison of whom Mr. R. H. Elliot tells the story. Mr. Elliot is a devoted sportsman, but also a lover of wild animals as living be-lings. At one time he desired to secure picings. At one time he desired to secure pac-tures of the Indian bison, an animal which, to his regret, is growing less and less common under the persecution of reck-less hunters. To this end he sent one of his European employees out to photograph a solitary bull, choosing for the purpose a bit of open grassy ground in a detached nesse of tundle. piece of jungle piece of jungle.

Sure enough, a bull soon came slowly along, grazing as he went. He approached within 10 paces of the man. The opportunity was of the very best. But as ill luck would have it the bison looked up just as would have it the bison looked up just as the photographer removed the cap from the camera. At sight of the lens, which he perhaps mistook for the glazing eye of some new kind of tigen, he whirled about and rushed mailly into the jungle, leaving the photographer disappointed.—Youth's Companion.

Washington, June 1.—The committee investigating the sugar trust resumed its session yesterday. Chairman Gray says the committee will continue its investigations, leaving the district attorney to deal tions, leaving the district attorney to deal with the witnesses who refuse to answer. Senator McPherson was the first wit-ness of the day, and his testimony was on the same lines as that of other members of the finance committee. He said that he knew nothing of Secretary Cartisle's alleged secret visit to the Democratic members of the committee and demand that the sugar interest be taken care of in tariff legislation, nor of the statement that Mr. Carlisle had revised the sugar
