PRESIDENT EZETA OVERTHROWN

Salvador's Chief Executive a Refugee—His Military Commander Dead.

PANAMA, June 5.—The Star and Herald has received the following special advices from San Salvador. "In the battle at Santa Ana on May 24 the government troops under General Antonio Ezeta were defeated. General Ezeta and 600 soldiers were killed. General Bolanos was wounded. President Ezeta has resigned in favor of Carlos Bonilla. A counter revolution is sure to break out, as Bonilla is not generally acceptable. Possibly General Manuel Hivas may become president."

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A few scanty details of the fall of Ezeta have been received from Commander Thomas, of the Bennington, who telegraphs from La Libertad as follows: "The revolution has been successful. The president of Salvador has escaped and has gone on board a German steamer all ready to leave La Libertad. The brother of the president has been dead three weeks. This fact has been kept secret."

Ezeta is one of the strongest characters who has ever ruled over Salvador, and it was his great executive ability, seconded by the high military talents of his deceased brother, General Ezeta, that gave the smallest of the Central American republics the ascendancy over its larger neighbors. The army was recruited on the European plan of forced service.

The dissatisfaction among the people was very much strengthened by Ezeta's ambitious designs to advance the material interests and importance of his country. He planned public works on a large scale and started a railroad project, but he was too far advanced for the people to follow, and they rebelled against the heavy taxes that were levied to pay for those works.

Had it not been for the killing of the president's brother, in whose genius the soldiers had great confidence, the success of the rebellion might have been long deferred.

A Trolley Car Jumps the Track.

COLUMBIA, Pa., June 5.—A trolley car on the Columbia and Donegal railway left the track at Chickies, and ran into a hillside, wrecking the car. Mrs. John Henderson, James Henderson and Louis Hartman of Maytown, Mrs. Amos Stapleton of Lancaster and Lieutenant Ed. C. Shannon of this place, all passengers, were more or less injured. Conductor Young was thrown from the car and badly hurt. None of the casualties will result fatally. The accident was caused by a broken wheel.

Bank Looters Sentenced.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 5.—F. A. Coffin, P. P. Coffin and Albert S. Reel, the convicted bank looters, were arraigned in the federal court here for sentence. The defense, led by ex-Attorney General Miller, made a desperate effort to secure a new trial, but failed. Francis Coffin got ten years and Percival Coffin five years, while Reel, who was merely a tool of the Coffins, was released on suspended sentence, mercy being shown in his case.

Miss Jordan Retaliates.

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 5.—Lizzie Jordan has served notice on the local branch of the Young Women's Christian Temperance union, which has its quarters in the Andrew J. Borden building, the property of Miss Jordan, that it must vacate at once. Since her trial for murder she has been rigidly excluded from the society, and several of the members have snubbed her.

A Hotel Swindler Sent to Jail.

BALTIMORE, June 5.—William B. Patterson, alias W. B. Phillips, of New York, who on May 9 attempted to swindle the Entaw House out of a board bill of $35, was yesterday convicted and sentenced to jail for sixty days. This is the first case tried under the 1892 law. Phillips' offense was aggravated by his attempting to pass a forged check in payment of the bill.

Senator McPherson to Take a Rest.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—No appointment will be made for the Atlantic City post-office for at least a week. Senator McPherson, who controls the appointment, has been ordered by his physician to leave Washington for rest, and the matter will be held in abeyance until his return. The term of the Republican incumbent expired on the 1st inst.

Stole Over a Million, Then Succeeded.

BIRMINGHAM, June 5.—Senior Marconi, manager of the Provincial bank of this city, has committed suicide. Irregularities had previously been discovered in his accounts to the extent of $1,300,000. Senior Marconi occupied a high social position.

A BUDGET OF LATEST NEWS

All the Events of the Day Told in Bright and Spicy Paragraphs—A Record of To-day's Doings.

(Reported daily from the Mahanoy City Bureau of THE EVENING HERALD.)

MAHANAOY CITY, June 5. The Junior class of the High school will hold a picnic at Lakeside on June 14. A first-class orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

John Leary spent Monday morning among Shenandoah friends. Timothy Grim, the well-known acrobat and contortionist, was turned a somersault while endeavoring to swing aboard a fast running electric car one day last week. Tim alighted gracefully upon his face and hands, one of which he now carries in a sling.

Mrs. Dr. Lowrey, of Catawissa street, accompanied by her mother, made social calls upon Pottsville friends on Sunday.

A party was given last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Wagner, in honor of Carrie Gelman.

COMMITTED FOR BURGLARY.

"Fatty" Snyder Unexpectedly Falls into the Hands of the Police.

John, alias "Fatty" Snyder, was before Justice T. T. Williams last night, charged by Thomas J. James, inside foreman at Kohlner colliery, with burglary.

Mr. James testified that on the morning of the 29th of May his wife found the shanty at the rear of his residence, on North West street, in a disorderly condition and a razor was missing. Sunday morning she went into the shanty and found it had been visited again on Saturday night. Books and papers which Mr. James uses at the mines had been taken from his working clothes and scattered about the floor and several articles were missing, among them a pencil, two pairs of pants and a watch guard.

Chief of Police O'Hara testified that early yesterday morning he and Officer Dougherty stood at the corner of Main and Centre streets. A man, called Snyder, approached from West alley with a bundle under his arm. Snyder turned back into the alley upon seeing the police. Dougherty followed him and O'Hara went down Main street. On Oak street O'Hara met Snyder and placed him under arrest. When taken to the lockup the prisoner's pockets and bundle was searched. The officers found a pair of pants, a razor, a whistle, memorandum book, a silver watch chain, a copy of the Evening Herald of July 20, 1892, and a red and white tablecloth.

Mr. James identified all the articles except the table cloth as his property.

Snyder proved an impudent culprit and in answer to an expression of mercy, made by the Justice he said, "I don't know that you need care, if I am not worried."

"This is a bad season of the year to go to jail. I'll be out when the robins nest again," was the prisoner's retort. He was committed without bail. Snyder is the fellow who sometime ago drank a quantity of horse medicine to show that he could defy death by drinking poison. He almost died from the effects.

I have two little grandchildren who are teething this hot summer weather and are troubled with bowel complaint. I give them Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it acts like a charm. I earnestly recommend it for children with bowel troubles. I was myself taken with a severe attack of bloody flux, with cramps and pains in my stomach, one-third of a bottle of this Remedy cured me. Within twenty-four hours I was out of bed and doing my house work. Mrs. W. L. Dunagan, Bonanza, Hickman Co., Tenn. For sale by Grubler Bros.

An Engineer's Miscellaneous Escapes.

TOLSON, June 5.—Otto McInyre, an oil well driller, was fatally injured by a boiler explosion in the Rising sun field. R. L. Pettigall, the engineer, escaped with scarcely a scratch, although the firebox was blown 100 feet, breaking down a tree where it struck.

"Many of the citizens of Rainville, Indiana are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This remedy has proven of so much value for colds, coughs and whooping cough in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale by Grubler Bros.

"GIVE YOUR ANSWER, TRUE."

An Actual Occurrence on an Electric Railway Car.

They were a respectfully dressed couple of apparently more than ordinary intelligence. He was a rather good looking man of about 40 years with attractive black side whiskers and moustache and, from his dress, appeared to be a widower. She was a rather small and thin woman, with no special claim to beauty and evidently over thirty. They boarded an electric car at the corner of Main and Coal streets and started on a journey down the valley. The man appeared to be "spooney." His company was indifferent, or at least made himself appear so. The two were not seated long before the passengers, several of them Shenandoah people out on a pleasure trip, discovered that a rare treat was in store for them. It was a schooling in courtship. The widower moved up close to his companion and in spite of the suits she wore he was able to get up very early in the morning, and it is telling on you. You don't look so well as you ought. The best thing you can do is to marry me. Of course, you have a brother, but if anything should happen to him you would be left alone in this world, and you know people are not made to be alone in this world. They are made to mate.

"Fares, please," interrupted the conductor, as he stopped in front of the widower and winked and smiled at the other passengers.

The widower paid for two without taking his eyes off the conductor and the stares and smirks of the both astonished and amused passengers, continued, "I have traveled a good deal and have found your disposition just what suits me. You know me and I know you; now, won't you say the word? It is not a very hard word to say. The boys will obey you and I know my daughters will love you. Now, won't you give me your answer?"

"Well, I'll consider it, but I answered the woman in a tone as loud and clear as that of her wooer.

"You had better give me your answer now," he persisted.

"Let me have a little time to consider." The widower was not doing business on the installment plan, and again he urged, "If we were to marry and anything should happen to turn up with me and I should die—"

"Richard's street, change cars for Mahanoy City and Ashland," yelled the conductor. Some of the passengers hated that interruption as the widower appeared to hate it, but the Ashland car was in waiting and nearly all the passengers, including the woosers, above all the din usually occasioned by a crowd of pleasure seekers the widower's voice could be heard.

"As I was about to say," the passengers caught, "if I should die, I would will everything to you, I am pretty well paid in the world's goods. I have a nice home and all you would have to do would be the light work, such as—"

"Fares, please."

"I've just got the change, there—seeing I have quite a number of cattle and would only be too glad to make you my wife. There is another girl I know by her disposition does not suit me as well as yours. Now, won't you please say the word?"

Conductor, (softly) "That tires me." (aloud) "All out for Ashland."

The couple got out and the last seen of the pair was when the woman had her back braced against a telegraph pole, her feet turned to the ground, and counting the holes she punched into the mud with her umbrella. The widower stood close to her with his mouth very near one of her ears. They stood in that position until the car got out of range of vision, and may be standing there yet. A lady passenger who had overheard the conversation in the car remarked to her friend, "That chap has been fishing before."
