A HUSBAND'S VENGEANCE

How a Guilty Wretch Was Trapped and the Consequences He Met With—The Perfidy of a Hard Working Miner's Wife.

It is not always considered good journalism to give space in the newspapers to incidents of social scandal, but there are exceptions to the rule and one of them is the pardonable course of letting the guilty parties know that their acts have become public property. This sometimes has the effect of causing the guilty ones to become smitten by shame and it has been observed that the exposure results in a relief to the community by stamping out the practices.

As the story in point goes, one day last week a townsman went to the mines, but, owing to the flood, found that he could not work. He returned, unconscious of the "snake in the grass" that invaded the sanctity of his home. Finding the door locked he knocked for admission. The wife opened the door. Noticing something unusual in the appearance of the woman the husband suspected things were wrong and he went upstairs. He found in one of the bedrooms a man—a supposed friend. Neither the man nor wife could coherently explain the former's presence and the husband became angered. In a moment of desperation, smitten with the bitter pang which springs from the discovery of infidelity, the husband attacked the wrecker of his domestic happiness. He wiped up the man with his fist, until his eyes bulged out, and otherwise dealt out vengeance.

The unhappy husband then upbraided his false and conspiring wife in very severe terms for her part in the affair. The paramour plead with the husband, and at last succeeded in dissuading him from going to a Justice. However, the matter was broached for quite a time.

While all this was going on the neighbors had lent an ear to the disgusting scene and pity was expressed for the wronged husband. Only condemnation, and very severe at that, was given the erring wife and her contemptible paramour. The discovery made by the husband so affected him that he cried for quite a while. The paramour, who is said to be a railroad, didn't even show one iota of shame or pity. He emphatically declared his innocence. Then came a confession. The wife broke down all of a sudden and blurted out to her husband: "I am guilty." Imagine her sense of shame to a devoted father and their children stung to repentance!

The paramour lit out. The place was getting too warm for him. All the lies and schemes he concocted to get himself out of the lison went to naught. And by the woman he so much coveted. He hasn't been seen around that domicile since. No doubt he'll steer clear, for an avenging husband would pulverize him. Even yesterday the husband sobbed piteously at the state of affairs in his household and there may yet be a peck of trouble for some one.

The married man, who created all the trouble in the family above mentioned, is said to have figured before in sensational cases and was on one occasion accused of wrecking and blighting the life of a promising young girl.

He has had considerable experience in and about the mines, having for some time been an attaché of the Locust Mountain Coal and Iron Co's engineer corps, thus gaining knowledge that will be of value to him in his new position, in which all his friends hope to see him successful.

ANNIVERSARY.

The Flower Mission of the Y. W. C. T. C. to be Honored.

The Flower Mission connected with the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union has performed noble work in our midst since the movement was instituted, in comforting the sick and alleviating the miseries of many of the unfortunates of the town. The work of the society is voluntarily, and as such should meet with the encouragement of those of our citizens who can afford to assist the needy.

The anniversary of the Mission will be celebrated on Saturday evening, at the regular meeting of the "Y's" in Robbins' hall, above the post office. The following program has been prepared for the occasion:

Opening Hymn, "Jesus Lover of My Soul" Prayer, "Results of Flower Mission" Scripture reading, "A. C. Morgan" Quartette, "Misses Morgan and Brown and Messes Price and Hight" Declaration, "George Roxby" Instrumental solo, "Jas. Krenter" Address, "F. H. Hopkins, Jr." Duett, "Misses Yost and Wasley" Reading, "Andie Stein" Superintendent's report, "Miss Smith" Address, "John L. Lawson" Instrumental solo, "Sallie Beddard" Essay, "Results of Flower Mission" "Wm. J. Price" "Mary Pomeroy" Instrumental Duett, "Jennie and Cass Beddard" Address, "A. C. Morgan" Singing, "God be with you" Audience

The Annual Statement.

The citizens of the town will be interested in the summarized statement of the financial condition of the public schools, which appears on the third page of this issue. Considering the fact that during the past year the board has been obliged to meet the expense for the construction of the new school building on West street and the free text book system has taken nearly $5,000 from the treasury, the report is an excellent one and will compare favorably with the report of any school district in the county. Shenandoah has excellent schools, thanks to excellent management.

Still Idle.

West Shenandoah colliery has not yet resumed work since the recent heavy rain falls and floods. Men have been working night and day trying to get the water out, but the colliery still remains incapacitated for regular operations. An additional pump was put in the mine yesterday, making three in operation, and another was put in to-day.

A Great Handicap.

It is reported that a great handicap foot race will take place here some time in July, next, in which famous sprinters from all parts of this country and Europe will participate. The gentleman giving the information says that there will be at least ten starters on a 100-yard spur and a track will be prepared for a 175-yard run.

Large Shipments.

The Maple Hill colliery comes to the front again with another record breaker. Yesterday the colliery shipped one hundred cars (2,000 tons) of coal on ten hours' working time.

The Soldiers' Monument.

The regular monthly meeting of the Soldiers' Monument Association will be held in Redowich's hall on Friday, 8th inst., at 7 P. M. All representatives are requested to be present.

THE SCHOOL BOARD!

First Regular Meeting of the New Organization.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED

Miss Lillie B. Phillips Tenders Her Resignation as a Teacher and Miss Julia Donahoe is Appointed in Her Stead—List of Committeesmen.

The first regular meeting of the School Board for the fiscal year of 1894-95 was held last evening. But little business outside the routine order was transacted, although seeds were sown for what may prove of very great importance to the district.

The directors present were Messrs. Conry, Burke, Devitt, Muldoon, Baugh, Ogden, Stanton, Morgan, Hooks, Lehe, Lynch, Hanna and Davenport.

Under the head of communications, Secretary Hanna read the resignation of Miss Lillie B. Phillips, which took effect yesterday. The resignation was accepted and the filling of the vacancy was left in the hands of the superintendent, who stated that he had selected Miss Julia Donahoe for the position.

President Conry then read his list of committee appointments. They are as follows:

High schools—Lynch, Ogden, Davenport, Manley and Devitt.

Teachers and salaries—Burke, Davenport, Manley, Hanna and Morgan.

Evening schools—Morgan, Devitt, Hooks, Muldoon and Lehe.

Text books and supplies—Manley, Muldoon, Burke, Baugh and Morgan.

Heating and Fuel—Burke, Stanton, Lehe, Trezise and Lynch.

Building and Repairs—Muldoon, Burke, Hooks, Trezise and Lynch.

Excavations—Trezise, Hanna, Ogden, Baugh, Lehe, Manley and Davenport.

Finance—Ogden, Hanna, Muldoon, Trezise and Devitt.

Insurance—Devitt, Morgan, Baugh, Stanton and Manley.

Non-Resident Pupils—Stanton, Davenport, Ogden, Trezise and Hanna.

Library—Daniel Ogden, M. P. Whitaker, John A. Reilly, John G. Davis and T. J. Broughall.

Visiting Committees—September October and November—Muldoon, Morgan, Hanna, Trezise and Manley. December, January and February—Hooks, Davenport, Ogden, Burke and Stanton. March, April, May and June—Lehe, Lynch, Devitt, Baugh and Stanton.

The question of more school room was then raised and Mr. Lynch stated that it was important that the board should decide whether or not it would release the basement of the German Lutheran church for school purposes. It was the sentiment of the board that an additional school building should be built, but it was decided not to take definite action until an estimate could be made of the probable expenditures for the ensuing year and the committee on building and repairs could make a report on the probable cost of a site.

The committees will get together and make estimates, after which a meeting of the board will be called and it will be decided whether or not a new building will be erected. According to the present estimate the resources of the board for the ensuing year will aggregate about $40,000 and the probable expenditures will amount to about $30,000, leaving in the neighborhood of $10,000 for a new school building, should the board decide to erect one.

The obstacle in the way is the high valuation placed upon real estate. It is understood that the ground on South Jardin street now owned by the English Baptist church can be secured for $3,500, but the board considers this figure too high. It is said a site can be secured at the northwest corner of Cherry and Jardin streets for $1,500.

It is understood the election of teachers will not take place until the regular meeting of the board in July.

Nothing would please the enthusiasts more than to see all of last year's players here.

The prices of admission will be the same as last year and games will be called at full.

A Pamphlet of Rules.

A circular has been issued by the Philadelphia and Reading Company containing a list of rules for the transportation of dead bodies. They have been issued to the station agents, conductors and train baggage masters. The rules are in accord with the state and borough Board of Health instructions. A permit with coupons attached transfers the body from the starting place to the destination. The coupons are detached by the company officials.

The Park Place Breaker.

An immense plank skeleton of what will soon be the Park Place breaker stands upon the old site and will soon be ready to receive its covering. The work of erecting the machinery will begin next week and every effort is being made to complete the structure by August 15. The contract is said to provide for a premium should the work be finished before that date and a deduction for every day occupied thereafter.

STREET WHISPERS.

Newly Items Gleaned by the Town Patrolling Reporters.

During the day time the streets of town look deserted and a stranger would get the impression that the place is a very dull one; but there is a silver lining to this supposed cloud as well as others, for the deserted streets are really the omens of better times. The fall time at the collieries has taken a great number of idlers off the streets. May the streets remain deserted.

It is suggested that when the Columbia Hose Company is arranging its park it will have better accommodations for children than the old had in such attractions as swings, etc., and that a bowling alley would be a big drawing card for the older people.

The operations of two men at work on the signal apparatus which is located several feet above the Lehigh Valley depot has interested many people. There is no particular attraction about the work or the workmen, but, as in all public places, the outgoing and incoming passengers have stood gazing at the elevated man and wondered what was going on, and some very odd questions have been asked about it. One man wanted to know "is that a new fangled weather signal?" another asked "what of a darned old wind mill is that?" and another said "I thought that thing would come down when the Reading combine would bust," and yet none hit anywhere near the correct solution. The workmen are simply altering the mechanism so that the signals for the trains may work more easy and free.

A gentleman who ought to know something about the matter says the Lakeside Electric Railway is proving a better paying investment than either branch of the Schuylkill Traction Company. The cars are almost full on every trip and many say they had no idea the traffic between this town and Mahanoy City was so large. Drummers are becoming steady patrons of the line. One of them said yesterday that he found the road a great benefit because it gives him more time to treat with customers and there is no need of cutting an important conversation abruptly to catch a train.

Here's a hint for money seekers. Max Schmidt, the North Main street dry goods and notion dealer, stated publicly yesterday, "My business for the month of May of this year was 75 per cent better than in May, 1893. No one can tell me that advertising does not pay."

Letter Carrier Phil Holman, treasurer of the West Cherry street sewerage company, paid the workmen the other day and the people who witnessed the ceremony thought the employees of a colliery were being paid off. "No, no, no," said the treasurer, "they are being paid for their work and handled the workmen their money through the half opened window. The men were strung along the street in single file. The treasurer says that next pay day he will preface the paying scene by driving about town in a carriage with a big tin box on his lap and a C. & L. policeman on either side of him. He takes pride in the announcement that all the men received their wages on the full basis rate.

A prominent Ashland politician expressed a level-headed sentiment yesterday when he said, "The people who think the Republicans of this country have a sure thing in the coming fall election and that any kind of ticket will go through had better disabuse their minds of the idea. The ticket must be as good as can be selected and just as much hustling will be required as ever in a campaign in the county." No one can dispute this. The man who leaves his ice on the doorstep is the mercy of the sun must expect to lose some of it at least.

A Convention.

The German Catholic societies of this and adjoining counties will hold a convention in this town on the 15th inst. It is the intention of the local society, St. Michael's, to give the visiting organizations a royal welcome and to that end professional decorators have been engaged to make ornamentalations in various parts of the town. It is hoped the citizens will co-operate with the home society in this movement and exert themselves to decorate their business places and residences as attractively as possible. A large number of societies will be in attendance, among them two from Pottsville, one from St. Clair, two from Mahanoy City, two from Ashland, one from Shamokin and one from Hazleton. The convention will be held in Robbins' opera house.
