A CLERGYMAN'S DUTY.

Because a minister of the gospel in New York last Sunday, while preaching a funeral sermon over the remains of a race-tracker, chose to speak plainly to the living and draw a lesson from the ungodly life of the deceased.

The world at large has a misconception of the duty of a clergyman under circumstances like those mentioned. Many are of the opinion that it is in poor taste to refer to aught but the good traits of the dead.

"I would say to the living, 'You may be the next.' It is highly probable that the monster Death has already received his commission to pass down the aisle of this church and to mark his next victim.

Such words as the above we believe would have been uttered by the founder of Christianity had he been called to administer at such a time.

It is a mistaken notion of society, both high and low, that a clergyman must speak and preach to tickle the ears of his hearers. When he is called upon to preside at a funeral, unless he preaches the deceased fairly into heaven, he is resented and treated with contumely.

But in the case under discussion it was the duty of the clergyman to use words which could not be mistaken. He had before him an audience of gamblers and crooks, many of whom in all probability had never been within a sacred sanctuary.

As we have already said, we believe it was perfectly right and proper for the clergyman in question to preach at such a time the plain, unvarnished truth.

A PEACEFUL OUTLOOK.

The Brooks of Troops Awe the Disorderly Strikers.

THE WAR IN COLORADO ENDED.

General Brooks Arrives on the Scene in Time to Prevent a Confrontation—No Disorder in Ohio—West Virginia Troops Ordered Out.

CRIPPLE CREEK, June 9.—At noon yesterday General Brooks, at the head of the state troops, intercepted the deputies on the east slope of Carbondale hill and ordered Sheriff Bowers to send them back to camp in Beaver park.

General Brooks' arrival on the scene in time to prevent a confrontation between the militia and the strikers at Cripple Creek, Colorado, has ended the war in that state.

The excellent conduct of the state troops, acting upon the politic order of General Brooks, has greatly tempered the animosity that the deputies and the strikers have felt toward each other.

This last experience of the deputies with the militia probably ends the struggle as General Brooks has absolute control of the situation, and his orders are for the state troops to prevent a meeting of the miners and deputies.

The militia, from its position between the two armies, has moved so as to prevent either side making an attack, and they have executed their orders in such a polite manner that they have won the regard of the strikers.

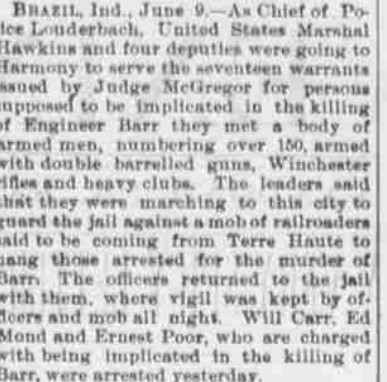

General Brooks had a conference with the strikers last night. He has accepted their surrender, but did not disarm them. The militia will surround Bull Hill so as to keep back the deputies.

OHIO MINERS PEACEFUL. Exaggerated Reports of Violence on the Part of the Strikers.

CAMBRIDGE, O., June 9.—The contest between the striking miners and the Belmont and Ohio railroad on carrying scab coal is ended for the time being by the presence of the troops at the points of attack in Guernsey and Belmont counties.

Almost Blind.

Inflamed Eyes and Running Sores. The Success of Hood's Cause Great Rejoicing—A Perfect Cure.

Miss Cora H. Ebert, Barnesville, Pa. "I feel it a duty to state what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I was almost blind, being compelled to stay in a darkened room on account of inflammation of the eyes.
